The Railroad Sucklings Breathlessly Bellow for More Pap.

The Douglas County Calf Wage Tongue and Tail Together.

While Church Howe Prolongs the Echo for Pecuniary Effect.

The Friends and Foes of Workmen Display their Palms.

The Names of the Men Who Refused them a Hearing.

Correspondence of The Bee. LINCOLN, May 23.—The ghost of the murdered Armstrong will not down. It haunts the legislative halls from day to day.

Soon after the house was called to order, Holman, of Dakota, rose in his seat and presented a roll to the clerk, which he stated was a petition and remonstrance representing five thousand citizens of Douglas county.

The clerk was directed to read, and upon opening the roll began reading a letter signed by Edward Walsh, president of the Omaha labor union, and directed to the house of representatives.

After reading a few lines of this communication, which began by protesting against the outrages misrepresentation of facts by the committee on claims, the clerk characterized the chairman, Bartlett, as "A CONSUMMATE FRAUD."

No sooner had these words been read than Church Howe jumped up furiously and demanded that the further reading of the communication be indefinitely postponed.

He stated that the communication was an insult to the whole body, in that it cast reflections upon one of its members. Considerable excitement followed, and inquiry was made whether the letter of Walsh was part of the petition.

It was found that the letter was separate, and the clerk was then directed to read the petition, which was very carefully and respectfully framed, earnestly protesting against the one-sided and unfair treatment of the committee.

In basing their entire report upon the statements from the mayor of Omaha and Governor Nance, who were interested in sustaining their official course during the labor troubles and finally praying that the communication presented some days ago by Hon. E. Rosewater be filed with the letters of the officers as an unbiased statement, presenting the views of the petitioners in the premises.

A motion was made that the prayer be granted when Bartlett advanced to the center of the room and delivered one of his RIP-ROARING HARANGUES in which he very frantically protested against allowing any stump speech from E. Rosewater to be printed.

How finally moved that the whole subject, petition and all, be indefinitely postponed. The ayes and nays were called, and the motion lost by a vote of 37 to 35. The Douglas delegation, excepting Broatch, who was absent, and Bartlett who voted to table the thing, voted against indefinite postponement.

The petition was then unanimously placed on file. During the debate incident to the exciting controversy over this petition, General Holman and Mr. Whedon made strong appeals on behalf of the right of petition, and the right of men to be heard, and protested against the arbitrary course which Church Howe and Bartlett seemed to be forcing on the house under whip and spur.

The letter of Walsh, which was regarded as disrespectful, was rejected and returned. The debates on the militia bill and the votes given by the different members make

A VERY EXCELLENT INDEX to the relations which members bear to the existing state house ring and the corporations. Some of these men who have all along professed strong sympathy with the producers and laborers, have now showed their hands by voting thousands of dollars out of the state treasury to ornamental staff officers and greedy railroads. It was decidedly amusing to see some of these grates in this militia controversy.

staff officers, the railroads, eating houses and every body else.

It was decidedly opposed to allowing the brigadiers extravagant pay, but when the item of the B. & M. R. R. came up he made a terrible onslaught on the opponents to sustain the claim of the pauper corporation, from which he has had frequent retainers.

MICKET, OF FOLK, the left lower of Nance, as a matter of course, was in favor of whole hog or none. He was willing to pay everything and everybody, and was very bitter against the rioters.

WALLING OF COLFAX could see no virtue in anybody that would refuse to foot the entire militia bill or would dare question the needless use of military.

HOSIETTER, OF MERRICK, although representing a strong anti-monopoly constituency voted with Howe and Bartlett through this campaign.

ON THE OTHER HAND, Ransom, of Olve, Whedon, of Lancaster, Gen. Holman, of Dakota, made a gallant fight against reckless extravagance and partiality. While they favored the payment of the soldiers, they were opposed to costly trappings and expenses incurred by gold-laced brigadiers of the staff.

Members of the legislature as we know are privileged characters. They are not responsible either under criminal or civil law for words spoken in debate on the floor of legislative halls. Church Howe and Bartlett made use of that privilege for the last time perhaps in their legislative career in HEAPING INSULT AND ABUSE upon the man, whom all others, their masters, the railroad bosses, most dread, and who always is and always will be, in their political path. It was a pastime that amused some people, but created the impression that it was the kick of the expiring mules.

A number of lesser lights exchanged shots across the bloody chasm, but they are hardly worth noticing, because most of them are destined for the political bone yard just as soon as the doors of the legislature close upon them.

DALLAS, TEXAS, May 23.—Advice from Carrizo Pass, 113 miles east of El Paso, are to the effect that the Guadalupe mountains are full of Mexican Apache, who are despoiling over northern Mexico, western Texas and New Mexico. A Lively Sensation for the City Scribes.

National Associated Press. ST. LOUIS, May 23.—Stanley Waterloo, editor of The Chronicle, was called before Judge Laughlin, of the criminal court yesterday and asked to show cause why he should not be committed for contempt for publishing certain articles criticizing a decision of the court. Waterloo was given until sunset to make a retraction, which he failed to do.

Judge Laughlin says he will hold him personally responsible and has sent him a note warning him to make preparation for an emergency as he will make it his business to see him soon.

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—The hostilities between Stanley Waterloo, editor of The Chronicle, and Judge Laughlin, of the criminal court, are liable to terminate by a bullet any minute, as Mr. Waterloo absolutely refuses to retract, saying while he is not seeking a fight he is not inclined to avoid it. The judge is reported to be on the warpath, and to intend handing in his resignation from the bench, when he will sail forth with the intention of getting the drop on Mr. Waterloo, who is known to be well prepared for an encounter. Ex-Judge Jones, of the circuit court, acknowledges that he wrote the paragraph in The Chronicle at which Judge Laughlin took offense. Though no names were mentioned in the article, public feeling is with Mr. Waterloo. There is intense excitement throughout the city.

Harrington, who was hanged by a mob April 3, for complicity in the murder of Police Officer Jones. His honor reviewed the circumstances of the case and told the jury that unless they brought in indictments against some of the mob they would not be performing their solemn duty, and he warned them not to be appalled by the great number of the murderers, although 2,000 people took part in this mob.

CAPTURE OF A MURDERER. MOUNT VERNON, Ill., May 23.—City Marshal Smith, who murdered Chas. W. The officers are after Foye.

THE MALLEY CASE. NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 23.—In the Malley case Geo. W. Metcalf, on the coroner's jury, testified that James Malley, on Saturday, August 6th, said his father asked him where he was, and then checking himself said, "It's well for you that you were home Friday night." At 10:25 prosecution said it would rest, except that it would call Dr. Shepherd later. The defense announced would submit their case to the jury without argument after their witnesses were through. It then put several witnesses on the stand to prove that when Jennie Cramer left the Malley house the Thursday morning after her detention all night, she was in good spirits, and waved her hand gleefully to James Malley standing in the door.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 23.—Ten witnesses were examined this afternoon and only about two hours occupied. At this rate 110 or 112 witnesses which the defense claimed they will call, will be shortly exhausted. The case is expected to be closed quite irrelevant, the greater part being devoted to Jennie Cramer's being seen by different parties on Thursday, which seemed to establish the fact that Jennie was going around town on that day in search of Jas. Malley, the alleged organ in the Malley house having, it is said, occurred Wednesday evening.

SHOTS IN THE MOUTH. CANTON, Ohio, May 23.—T. J. Orr, of the Balton Street Club, was called to the door of his residence at two o'clock this morning, and deliberately shot in the mouth. Traphagan, a man recently released from imprisonment for calling his wife, from whom he had separated, to the door late at night, and throwing vitrol on her face and chest, horribly scaring her, when Jennie Cramer left the Malley house, was jailed on suspicion of shooting Orr, as he had made threats against him. Indignation is high.

AN ICE TRIP.

That of the Steamer Peruvian for Twenty-Six Days.

Snow, Ice, Fog, and Short Rations.

National Associated Press. QUEBEC, May 23.—The steamer Peruvian, which has been twenty-six days, arrived at this port at 5 p. m. to-day, in tow of the tug Rocket and steamship Arcadian. Her passage was eventful, owing to ice, snow storms and fog off Cape Ray. Her difficulties began on May 7. Nothing had been seen ahead but an immense field of ice, extending as far as the eye could reach, and about a dozen ships were passed in a day which had come to anchor, waiting for the ice to break. At 11 p. m. the Peruvian was unable to proceed any further. Next morning she put on full steam and made a desperate effort to break her way through the icy barriers, but had not got far before the screw broke and she lay helplessly fast and ice bound. The steamer "Lake Huron" lay in sight behind. On May 9th a snow storm set in. Stowage passengers were reduced to short rations. Biscuits were served out only every other morning, and oatmeal gruel was dispensed with. The hardships were being felt by women and children. On the 11th the ice began to move, but the vessel made but very little progress. The Lake Huron had by this time got up steam and cleared her way through the floating ice. On the 16th not a vessel was in sight, and the ice became thicker than ever and she was blown so close to the land that it was feared she would go down, but the wind veering called the attention of the grand jury to the case of J. W. Harrington, who was hanged by a mob April 3, for complicity in the murder of Police Officer Jones. His honor reviewed the circumstances of the case and told the jury that unless they brought in indictments against some of the mob they would not be performing their solemn duty, and he warned them not to be appalled by the great number of the murderers, although 2,000 people took part in this mob.

POLITICAL NOTES.

National Associated Press.

MARSHALL DECLINES. PITTSBURG, Pa., May 23.—Thomas Marshall's letter declining to be a candidate for congressman-at-large on the republican ticket was given to the papers this evening. After saying his nomination was the result of passionate excitement rather than calm judgment, and it was a strong temptation to him to endorse the doctrine of the platform as sound and in accord with the wishes of the people, he says it is a mockery to displace tried and faithful public servants in order to provide places for hungry applicants who may prove worthless as they are voracious. He says the use of public patronage to control or direct people in their choice of candidates is a grave political crime, and tends to make a servant master. Party obligations sit lightly on his shoulders, and the nomination was a complete surprise. Personal and private duties demand his time, and he declines reluctantly. He hopes the inheritors of the name and organization of the republican party may prove worthy to administer the future affairs of the government.

THE INDEPENDENTS. PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—A majority of the delegates to the independent republican convention to-morrow have arrived. A noticeable feature will be the large number of ex-federal and state office holders who will participate. The popular state ticket tonight is—for governor, Postmaster Merritt of Tioga county; lieutenant-governor, Col. Wm. McMichael of Philadelphia; congressman at large, Thomas M. Marshall; supreme judge, Wayne McVeigh; secretary of interior affairs, Thomas W. Phillips of Franklin county. This is the country delegates' state ticket, but the probabilities indicate several changes before morning.

VIRGINIA REPUBLICANS. RICHMOND, May 23.—A considerable number of republicans from different sections of the state had a conference to-day. The best of feeling prevailed, and it was determined to stand by the republican organization of the state. It was decided to call a meeting of the state central committee on June 8, proximo, in this city, with a view of perfecting the organization of the party, and of making an effort to secure an increase of republican representation in congress at the approaching election.

EGYPTIAN AFFAIRS. CAIRO, May 23.—The situation of affairs here this afternoon is extremely critical. The Egyptian ministry has definitely refused to resign, relying on the support of the army promised by Arabi Bey, minister of war, who is accelerating military preparations to sustain them in the position they have taken. The ministers themselves in the meantime are trying to rally to their support by reports that England and France design annexation of Egypt to their provinces and in proof thereof point to the large fleet both of those governments here at the present time in the port of Alexandria.

CAPITAL NOTES.

National Associated Press. THE PERUVIAN PUDDLE. WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23.—Hitte, ex-assistant secretary of state, testifies that he knew nothing of any United States ministers being interested in the Peruvian company or Credit Industrial, or of Morton, Bliss & Co.'s contract; that contract was never mentioned in the state department; witness was present as interpreter when Count DeMontfermeil explained the aims of the Credit Industrial in seeking American protection. Blaine said it was contrary to the spirit of our institutions and he could not allow the state department to enter into such an arrangement.

The count was disconnected. Suarez subsequently unsuccessfully attempted to secure an interview with Blaine. Witness never heard of the suggestion of uniting the Landrau claim and the C.redit Industrial; never saw the alleged missing papers; first learned of them from the newspapers; would have come under his observation if it had ever been in the department. Trecoot was specially charged to investigate the Landrau claim. Blaine will be again examined to-morrow on the Montfermeil interview.

The house adjourned at 4:35 p. m., with the assurance from Mr. Calkins that the case would be called up to-morrow.

A Swarm of Detectives. National Associated Press.
