

A LUXURY

DURHAM LONG CUT, No. 1.

We will grant, if you choose, that smoking is a necessity, but smoking BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM LONG CUT, No. 1, is a luxury.

Empress Louis Napoleon's cigars cost one dollar apiece in gold, and they were made from leaf tobacco specially imported for this purpose from the golden tobacco belt of North Carolina.

Those who believe that the "best is the cheapest," and those who want the best anyhow, are urged to try ONE PACKAGE—ONLY ONE PACKAGE—all we ask; after that we are content to abide by their judgment.

Of course you want to know for yourself whether this is the tobacco for you, and so you won't take an old pipe all saturated with some other tobacco, but you'll take a clean, sweet pipe, and give BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM LONG CUT, No. 1, an honest, critical trial.

Another good thing about this tobacco is that you can roll a little of it in a cigarette paper and have one of the very best cigarettes that can be made.

When you buy the package of BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM LONG CUT, No. 1, to test it, be sure you get the genuine. You can tell the genuine by the BULL in handsome picture on the package.

The president sent to the senate to-day Secretary Frelinghuysen's last instructions to Minister Lowell, on May 8, setting forth opinions held here respecting the traditional continental policy of the United States.

The papers refer to the increased defenses and other necessities of the canal across the isthmus, but says there is no necessary conflict between our political claims in the matter and the material interests of other nations.

The president considers it unnecessary and unwise to guarantee neutrality of transit of the isthmus, and give all navies a pretext for assembling in contiguous water, and possibly involve the nation in conflicts that might be avoided.

He thinks it conflicts with the doctrine asserted many years. The instruction also calls attention to the fact when the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was concluded it was thought the Nicaragua canal, to which the treaty had relation principally, would be promptly begun and finished.

Other nations were to become parties to the enterprise only by invitation of both Great Britain and the United States.

The president now regards the provision as imposed by failure to construct the canal, to which the treaty referred and because no joint protectorate for any canal is requisite.

He thinks that some of the treaty provisions should be retained, and hopes that Great Britain will soon recognize the identity of her interests and ours, and meanwhile fear no impairment of good feeling on account of diversity of opinion.

ONLY TWENTY TWO SIGNATURES have been obtained thus far to a petition to commute Guita's sentence to confinement in a penal insane asylum. It is understood the motion to be made by Reed before Judge Willis will be for relief from false record.

TARIFF MEASURES. The rumor that Kelly's defeat to-day will precipitate his tariff bill on the house notwithstanding the tariff commission, is not well founded. It is well known among members of the ways and means committee that there are too many amendments talked of to allow consideration of the bill this session.

TEXAS JAYHAWKERS. LEWISVILLE, Texas, June 5.—An attempt was made last night to jayhawk two respectable farmers. While returning home from this place and when in Timber Creek bottom, six or seven shots were fired.

They recognized the voice and dress of William McComb. The farmers came to town this morning, filed complaint with the marshal and Austin and Hardin, the latter boys. They proved an alibi and were discharged.

A strong case was made against McComb, Ferguson and Ambrose Rude. It was developed in the evidence that the same parties went to the cabin of Perry Bolins, a negro, shot into the cabin several times, forced themselves in and raped two negro women.

Mr. Gulegge hearing the full tale, went to the rescue. His tenants were ridiculed, intimidated and forced to treat the boys, who were well armed with liquor and weapons. The officers are in hot pursuit.

ATTEMPTED TRAIN ROBBERY. DENTON, June 5.—About half-past 12 o'clock this morning four masked men, having obstructed the track on the north-bound Missouri Pacific railroad, about a mile and a half north of the depot, attempted to board the express car, but were greeted with a load of buckshot from a gun in the hands of Brownell, the messenger, who followed up his success by firing as they went over the embankment.

The train men made an ineffectual search for dead or wounded, but this morning a negro found the dead body of one Shelton in the woods near the scene of the attempt with his pistol in his right hand and his finger on the trigger.

The coroner's verdict was rendered in accordance with the facts, exculpating Brownell. This afternoon one Carter was arrested, and turned state's evidence. The two others at large have small chances of escaping. Carter just served a two year term for theft.

DELIBERATE SUICIDE. FRANKLIN, June 5.—To-day the dead body of a man was found lying in the woods near this place. Upon examination it proved to be that of Charles Travers, of Spartansburg, Crawford county, who claimed to be a United States detective, and who has been in the city several days. Two bullet holes were found in his left breast, and by his side a Smith & Wesson revolver with two empty chambers.

On his person were found a number of letters, in one of which he declared his intention to destroy himself. Another gave directions as to how his property was to be disposed of and to whom to telegraph to when his body was found, and a third was directed to Miss Mary Whitting, of Cochrans, to whom he was to be married last Thursday, for which event the wedding supper had been prepared, guests and minister had assembled, but Travers failed to come and was not heard of till the body was found to-day. It is undoubtedly a case of suicide.

A Girl Circus-Rider's Career. NEW YORK Tribune Special Letter. The funeral of that charming circus-rider, Emilie Loisset, was a Parisian event.

The poor girl had long inhabited the United States, and had the freedom of manner and self-reliance which so often distinguish the American young lady.

She was on horseback one of the most graceful creatures imaginable. The figure was lithe, but without meagerness. Her poise in the saddle were simply exquisite, and they appeared unattained.

The features were elegantly formed, the eyes expressed a brave, kind soul. Emilie Loisset was more popular than Sarah Bernhard had ever been in Paris.

Her less successful rivals in the circus were brought by her exceeding amiability to pardon her public triumphs. She did not seem ever to excite jealousy. On the days and nights on which she performed theatricals, there was no amount of wealth that she might not have possessed, had she not been a strong-willed, self-respecting girl.

She had no carriage and used to walk from the hippodrome to the Rue Oberkampf, where she had a small lodging on the fifth floor. A number of aristocratic and plutocratic admirers used to escort her to the door, through which none of them were allowed to pass.

She loved by her to pass. She aspired to create for herself a happy home and to marry somebody whom she could love and esteem. Her sister, Clotilde, is the germanic wife of the Prince de Reuss, brother of the German ambassador at Constantinople, and is looked up to in her family circle.

The admiration of the Empress Elizabeth for Emilie was increased by the fact that the charming circus-rider spurred the address of the crown prince of Austria.

In this democratic age few people are aware of the grandeur to be seen in the home of the chief ruler of the nation. Crump showed me into the state dining room, as it is called. This is the room in which the president entertains at table the distinguished guests.

No matter whom it may be he is entertaining, the president is always served first. He sits at the center of one side of the long table, his wife, if he be married, sits to his right.

At a rehearsal the horse turned round, made for the stable, and, finding the door shut against him, reared up straight on his hind legs. Balance was lost, the horse rolled over, and the crutch of the saddle smashed in the ribs upon the lungs and heart.

Poor Emilie had the courage in this state to walk to the infirmary, and when she was taken home, mount five flights of stairs.
