The jury was out twenty-five hours. Sentence will be passed to-morrow.

The murder for which Bohanan was tried was one of the most cruel and causeless in the criminal history of the state. He had a dispute with a respectable young man named Cook, at a tavern, about the spelling of the word "peddler." Bohanan gave the lie to Cook, for which Cook slapped him in the face. Bohanan then drew a pistol and shot Cook dead. The excitement was so intense that the murderer was secretly hurried to Lincoln to prevent the enraged populace from lynching him. He has already served a few years in the state penitentiary, from which he escaped before his term expired.

Garland, of this city, one of the nominees for the tariff commission, was interviewed to-day in reference to the charges made in Washington that he and Hayes, also of the commission, were salaried officers of the Protective High Tariff association. He said there "was not a shadow of foundation for the intimation so far as I am concerned. I am now president of the National Wool Growers' association, and have been since 1878. In most instances in traveling in that capacity I have paid my own expenses, the organization during my incumbency having confined its expenditures almost entirely to the necessary outlay of the secretary's office."

TEKAMAH.

A Few of the Business Men of Butte County's Metropolis. Correspondence of the Bee.

BLAIR, June 7.—Nowhere in the state of Nebraska can be found a more prosperous town than Tekamah. Situated in the southeastern part of Butte county, being the county seat, and the St. Paul railroad running through the western part of the town, makes Tekamah a bustling place of business.

The town is elevated on a slight ascending elevation four miles from the Missouri river, one of the finest valleys in the state, and is the central point of a fine agricultural country, whose surrounding farmers are an industrious, hard-working class, being above the average farmers.

The town is finely laid out in streets; the main street running north and south commands most of the business.

On each side are fine residences of professional men and merchants. Back of the town, on a beautiful elevated bluff, is the fine residence of J. R. Thomas, one of Tekamah's most influential men.

Hopewell, Harrington & Co's bank in the center of the brick block, is a long and well established bank. These gentlemen have done much for the advancement of the town. Mr. Harrington has been elected sheriff of Butte county for seven consecutive terms, being much to the credit of his friends.

Slide Bros are young merchants in the town, formerly of Boone, Iowa, and dealers in dry goods, boots, and shoes, which they add to the business credit of Tekamah.

J. Lillie, keeping confectionery and ice cream, makes the season refreshing to the inhabitants and traveling public.

J. Crannell, dealing in grain has a fine elevator, being an advantage for the farmers wishing to sell their grain.

C. C. Coking in the real estate business devotes most of his time in selling and locating lots for the advancement of the town.

Adams & Jones, druggists, located in brick block keep a fine line of drugs, and Dr. Girkerson connected adds much to the profits of their business.

Cris Axtor, proprietor of the Astor House, is the right man in the right place. He has fitted his house up in first-class style, and is abundantly prepared to accommodate those wishing good accommodations.

Adams & Co. in the lower end of town are well supplied with all kinds of drugs which they aim to accommodate the public with.

B. R. Folsom, Tekamah's oldest resident, settled and located the present town when everything was wild and barren, living to see the present town in its beauty, he has become aged and has settled down on a fine little farm in the northern part of town, where he is enjoying his old age. He has upon his farm the finest piece of eye in the state containing fifteen acres and average height six feet.

The school is highly conducted by Prof. Livingston who devotes his time and study to the advancement of the rising generation.

The juvenile band, under the instruction of Prof. Early, is making fast progress.

Weber Bros., proprietors of the flouring mill, are young men formerly from Florence, but whose energies would not permit them to stay there, started in Tekamah last fall, and are supplying the inhabitants with the best of flour.

Mentioning part of the extensive business of Tekamah, I can say that Tekamah, as all our best western towns, began a few years ago in infancy and has risen on a level with the best, all owing to the industrious farmers who inhabit the country and stirring business men of the town.

Annie Fley says that Miles has one year to live. Then she wants a new play. The American dramatist can therefore pass himself in patience. He will not be needed in this direction for a twelve-month at least.

A friend of Remenyi, the violinist, says that he has just returned from his western concert tour, which has been an uninterrupted success, both artistically and financially. He says that he has not only fiddled himself into public favor, but into fortune also, having several months ago received some of his earnings in Minnesota lands which have appreciated in value five-fold since his purchase. Lucky fiddler.

Barth Campbell's new play, "Siberia," will be the closing scene of the season. The Kiralfy will have the matter in charge, and promise to do it on a magnificent scale, with no less than 100 people, and several hundred handsome scenery. But, strangely enough, there will be no battle— which for the Kiralfy will be something like a Sunday morning in Boston without bread and a hearse.

Cara Louise Kellogg and Emma Abbott with the assist. use of Zeld-S. gun, Teresa Carrefi, the Hess Opera company, Signor Tagliapietra, William Castle, Max Strakosky, Max Marek, and other prominent artists are getting ready to perform for the benefit of the widow and children of the late George Conly, the basso, and in memory of the late H. man Hietzel, the tenor, who both lost their lives by drowning.

A priest of Ravenna, named Ravaglia, has constructed an electrical apparatus which can be set in operation by simply touching a button, and which the doors of a large building can be instantaneously opened. The apparatus was tried at the All Saints theatre, in Ravenna, with the most satisfactory result. All the nine doors opened simultaneously, as if though some spiritual agency. The inventor hopes to improve his apparatus by the use of a fire break out on the stage of a theatre the rise in temperature would itself set the machinery in motion.

WORTHY OF PRAISE.

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fevers and Ague, Stomach, Liver and Kidney Complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know woe of we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Each bottle at fifty cents a bottle, by C. F. Goodman.

CAPITAL NOTES.

CABINET COUNCIL.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The cabinet to-day was confined to discussion of the composition of the Utah commission and filling of the vacancy on the tariff commission. No decision was reached on either point.

THE STAR ROUTERS.

Ex-Attorney General McVeigh was placed on the stand to testify to the admissions of Readell that conspiracy existed. Defense objected, Ingersoll arguing that before the confession of a conspirator could be received, conspiracy must be established. Judge Wyle sustained the objection. Mr. Kerr proposed to submit in evidence all contracts in question, and Ingersoll's objection was overruled. The contracts were then read, as presented, and this took up the remainder of the session.

SECTION SEVEN.

In the case involving the validity of section 7 of the act of July 23d, 1866, Secretary Teller holds that the section is still in force, it not having been repealed. This will form a precedent in several cases now pending and effect their decision.

GUTEAU.

tells Reed there is no use trying anything else but the president, but Reed has determined on another move, which he will make to-morrow or on Monday. He secured Guteau's signatures for that purpose to-day.

Reed has received an anonymous letter advising him it was time to "let up" on the assassin Guteau, and closing in the following words, with terrible underlining: "Unless you come to halt quite soon in this matter you may feel assured that your days are numbered. This is no idle threat, but means just what is said, so beware, beware. A word to the wise is sufficient." This is one of many such, but no attention is paid them.

PUBLIC LAND SALES.

More public lands were disposed of the present year than in any preceding year.

TIMM.

The house committee on foreign affairs agreed to the resolution proposing an international congress establishing universal meridian time.

CONSULAR JURISDICTION.

The senate committee on foreign affairs will agree to the bill regulating consular jurisdiction in foreign countries.

TOLEDO SWAMP.

Teller refuses to reopen the Toledo swamp case. Patents will be issued to purchasers.

REED AND THE CRANE.

It was learned to-night that Reed's interview with Guteau at the jail to-day was very stormy. Guteau was much excited, shook his fist in threat, and demanded commutation of sentence and he would not dare to refuse. After Reed had left it was some time before Guteau could be quieted.

CONFIRMATIONS.

The senate in executive session confirmed David A. Stewart, collector of internal revenue, Fourth district, Missouri; Charles W. Crampton, postmaster at Osborne, Kansas; John Bowen, postmaster at Louisiana, Ky.; Daniel L. Sheets, registrar of lands, Durango, Colorado; Louis S.
