He was seated in the cupola of his way-car when he heard a shot and in an instant the glass near his head was shattered and a splinter of wood passed in such close proximity to his head as to make his hair stand on end.—Creighton Advertiser.

Two neighboring farmers near Boone, named Myers and Davis got into a dispute about some cattle of the former which were discovered in the stable of the latter. Myers went after the cattle, and Davis insisted on holding them until the damage was adjusted. A fight ensued, in which Myers was severely stabbed in the back and Davis badly beaten with a club. Both a. e. in critical condition.

At Marshalltown the other evening, a brakeman named Delancy Abbott found a young girl, friendless and homeless, wandering about the depot. She said she wanted to get to friends in Illinois, and Abbott offered to help her. He took her to a hotel, registered as man and wife, and effected her ruin. The girl is evidently weak minded, and a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Abbott.

Not a Beverage

They are not a beverage, but a medicine, with curative properties of the highest degree, containing no poor whisky or poisonous drugs. They do not tear down an already debilitated system, but build it up. One bottle contains more hope, that is, more real strength, than a barrel of ordinary beer. Every druggist in Rochester sells them, and the physicians prescribe them."—[Evening Express on Hop Bitters.]
