MARYVILLE'S BOOM.
 A New Court House, New Jail and New Echo 1 Building.
 A Mad Stone in the Possession of a Man in the Neighborhood.
 Correspondence of The Bee.
 MARYVILLE, Mo., June 19.—The business boom, opening with the early spring, continues unabated, and deals in desirable city property are more numerous than any prior season. The occasion of the building of our new $80,000 court house, a $35,000 jail, and a $12,000 public school building has brought such an influx of capitalists that desirable business lots have reached an unprecedented figure, and every avenue for investment, both in business and residence lots, is quickly taken advantage of. Our boom is not of a transient or uncertain character, but is accompanied by new churches, a new city hall, new school privileges, and eight saloons, under a judicious license law of $1,000 per annum to the city and $100 to the state and county, each of the proprietors of which are required to give a bond to the city in the sum of $1,000, and to the county in the sum of $1,000, for the faithful observance of the ordinances of the city and the dram-shop law of the state. You will readily see that this is a restriction that means more than prohibition, the statute of the state of Missouri giving any person the same right of action on these bonds that the individual citizen would have were the bonds directly executed to him. Noaway county, of which this is the county seat, is being filled with live, able and progressive farmers, and her crop prospects never looked better, notwithstanding the late spring, and it is not unreasonable to expect that her prosperity will continue equal to that of our rushing, growing city. We are the county seat, and she is pretty proud of us. Laborers here are receiving $1.75 to $2 per day; mechanics $3 to $4; brick masons, front work, $5, common $3.50 to $4.50; stone masons $4 to $5; masons $4 and 8 cent, and plenty to loan. We are now on the eve of a grand demonstration in the way of laying the corner stone of the new court house, with Masonic ceremonies, on St. John's day, the 24th inst. The grand master of the state A. M. Dookery, will preside, with delegations present from every portion of the state, southwestern Iowa, and Nebraska. Rev. Howard Henderson will deliver the oration. Hon. A. P. Moorehouse of this city, is grand marshal of the day. Discussion on the Fashions.
 "The gentleman who knows everything" announced a vision of golden hair and sea-blue eyes as she stood timidly beside the managing editor's desk yesterday afternoon.
 "Everything about what?" asked the editor, leaning around under his desk for his pipe and trying to hide his stocking feet under him. "Upon which particular branch do you seek information?"
 "I don't exactly know what to do," pouted the strawberry lips. "I say I can only have one dress this spring, and I don't know how to make it up. I thought the gentleman who answers questions could tell me."
 "That" answered the managing editor. "He has come up in Maine to find out why geese always walk in single file. An Anxious Inquirer wants to know. What kind of a dress had you thought of getting?"
 "That's what I want to know. I want something that will look well with terra cotta gloves."
 "Yes, yes," murmured the editor. "Then you should get one of those green things with beads that turn all kinds of colors, and some fringe and fixings of that kind."
 "Would you have it out pines or wear it with a polonaise?" she inquired, looking at him searchingly.
 "You—you might have a princess around the neck and a row of polonaises at the bottom," suggested the editor. "That's going to be very fashionable, and a couple of hip pockets would set it off royally."
 "I don't know," murmured the beauty. "I haven't seen any of that style. Do you know whether princesses were bouffant this season, or whether the skirts is tight?"
 "They are bouffant," replied the editor. "You can get on em. Some have even sixteen button bouffants, and there was a lady in here yesterday who had a panier that came close up to her neck. I should have it pretty bouffant if it was my dress."
 "Well," summarized the blushing blossom. "You box plait the skirt or shirr it?"
 "Shirr it by all means!" exclaimed the editor. "Shirr it straight up and down, and fasten it with those loops of black lace."
 "You mean frogs?" asked the beauty.
 "No, no. These big loops that ally over two buttons. That sets of the ensemble, and the editor leaned back and smiled superior.
 "Don't you think revers of a lighter shade would look pretty?" she inquired.
 "They'll do to fix up the back, but I wouldn't put 'em on the front," answered the editor sagely. "Revers are very well to trim a hat with, but they don't set off a dress front."
 "I've seen you have the revers!" "I wouldn't have any at all. You would look much better without one."
 "Sir," she exclaimed rising.
 "Oh, if you insist, you might have a small one, certainly not over three inches long, for short dresses are the style now."
 "You don't seem to understand," she murmured. "You are very good, I'm sure."
 "Oh, oh!" he retorted. "That's what I'm sure for. I think there is nothing so laudable as to see a young girl dragging her courage through mud and dust. Still, if you want, you should have it, so you can keep it off when you go on the street and only wear it at home."
 They agreed to hand down their verdict on the next day.

IOWA ITEMS.
 Forest City has lived 26 years and has never been visited by a circus. An $8,000 hotel is among the failed of improvements at Orange City. Pocahontas county has ordered two new safes for the use of county officers, each weighing 4,800 pounds. Father Schreiner of Mr. Pleasant has been grand tiler of the Masonic grand lodge of the state for 24 years. The Magneto Rock Spring company has been organized at Colfax. The company have also erected a bottling factory. The public schools of Mt. Pleasant recently held receptions, occupying two evenings, the cash receipts of which were $282. The most weighty editor in the state is E. B. Dyke of the Charles City Intelligencer. He weighs 304 pounds and is still growing. The silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson, of Monticello, was celebrated last week. A large number of friends were present. Towers 100 feet high are being erected at Tilton, from which will be displayed electric lights for the illumination of the town. The fifth annual meeting of the Iowa association of Unitarian and other independent churches will be held in Algona, June 29th to July 3d. During a storm on the night of the 16th, Henry Singer and a horse which he was riding were killed by a stroke of lightning near Greenfield. During the first year of its existence the daily board of trade of Cedar Rapids sold nearly 1,500,000 pounds of butter, receiving therefor more than $500,000. John Wallin has been arrested at Burlington on suspicion that he stabbed Emily Farrell, the woman who was killed in the street a few days ago. He was her lover. Mrs. Jones and her sister-in-law, Miss Julia Sarro, who recently eloped from Woodbine, were arrested in Clinton on the 15th, and James taken back to answer to the charge of adultery. The girl is quite young and the man is old enough to be her father. The three burglars who last month blew open and robbed the safe in the hardware store of Mr. Beach, at Pottawattamie, were tracked by the sheriff of Sioux county to Winona, Minn., where they were taken by Mr. Murphy and James Miller, who were taken at the time of the robbery were found on the prisoner.

Mrs. O. Faith, of Cedar Rapids, committed suicide a few days ago. She first took rat poison, and then, when that failed to work, she took a dose of matches, which she washed down with St. Jacobs' oil. The combination did the business. She leaves a husband and two children. Her husband was about thirty, and poor health.

Kentucky Poker-Playing.
 Frankfort Correspondent Louisville Courier-Journal.
 Last Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock five gentlemen, three of whom were legislators, set down to the time-honored round-table and began to play. Time flew by so rapidly that at 8 o'clock they all agreed they had better play a little longer. It was a big game, $5 call $20 and able takes. Aces were worth $100 and two pairs anything under $25. Hour after hour passed, and the cold, dull day-light began to creep in as them through the closed shutters, and still they played. One member was $2,800 behind at 5 o'clock and another $3,000 behind. Breakfast was ordered. They gulped it down, and again with pale, haggard faces they sat at the table. Twelve o'clock, half past, and they were still at it. The air in the room was stifling, but they cared not for that. It was a beautiful day without, the air balmy and warm, but the frightful fascination of the game kept them there in the close room under the poisonous gas jets necessary because the windows must be kept closed, turning the cards and betting the chips. Six o'clock came and one of the parties was gone, utterly broken down. He left $1,000 in the hands of the Philistine who was offered to be bet. The game was over only three of the party left, with faces as white as ashes and nerves all shattered by drink and the awful excitement of the game. Just at 2 o'clock Thursday morning the three men separated, after 36 hours of incessant play, and $3,000 had been won and lost. One of the men was sick for two days; another has not recovered yet. It was a terrible experience for all of them.

only known cause for the desperate deed.
 The Western Newspaper Union of Des Moines has been offered $50,000 for T. C. Dexter's patent newspaper folder and press. Mr. Dexter has just returned from Washington, D. C., where he put one of the folders in the World office for $500. The invention has lifted him from a poor peasant to a wealthy young man, and he deserves his good luck.

A few short years since, in a pretty Iowa village, a brilliant wedding occurred, the bride being an accomplished, amiable lady of excellent breeding and refinement, the groom a bright young man with ample means, thorough education and excellent business habits. In that event the habit of drinking light wine.

At home among friends and with gentlemen fair, followed by friends as they sat at a table. Mercy to kill them and drive off dull care.

A disease was presented by the lady on the ground of habitual drunkenness. He passed out of eight a heavy drinker, dependent man, and came to Missouri and here sought by family habits to regain his health, but to no avail. He had regained his feet, so to speak, than he commenced to drink again and opened a bank in a neighboring town. His mother came with him, her every looks protecting and caring for him through all his misdoings, instructed the marshal to take him, in case he got drunk, she hoping in this way to arouse his pride and cause him to forsake drink forever. He came to our city, got drunk, and the marshal put him in the cooler, where he had been but a short time when he ripped up the tick, emptied the straw on the floor, tore up the bedding, and touching a match to the pile was soon in a fair way of cremating himself and the other prisoners, who were in adjoining cells, and but for whose cries he would have been placed beyond the possibility of drinking any more tarantula juice. Fortunately the guard succeeded in extinguishing the fire, and the unfortunate banker now awaits the action of the grand jury, charged with arson, the penalty for which is a term of not less than two years in the penitentiary, and now his heart broken mother is using every effort to save her erring boy.

Hersford's Acid Phosphate.
 VALUABLE MEDICINE.
 Dr. W. H. PARMELLE, Toledo, O., says: "I have prescribed the 'acid' in a large variety of diseases, and have been amply satisfied that it is a valuable addition to our list of medicinal agents."
 Management of Young Fowls.
 With the little chicks the trouble is gaps, and we have a great many remedies for their relief, but the gaps is a disease to the poultry yard, and its prevention should be sought instead of its cure. This disease can be avoided altogether by feeding the chicks on a hard or some other clean, hard surface; the food, if soft, should be freshly mixed at every feeding and all traces of the portion not consumed cleared away. If combined with the hen in barred coops or small runs the chicks should be removed to a new location daily. The gap worm is the result of fifth and decaying matter.

Young turkeys, and in fact all young fowls, should be kept away from wet grass or exposure to dampness until well under feather. The down on young fowls is not a protection against moisture; it is simply nature's covering for retaining warmth until the bird is feathered. They should all be fed regularly, at stated periods and often, especially during the process of feathering. With young turkeys the feathering season is a very critical period, and a heavy drain is made on the system thereby. The omission of a single feed is sometimes fatal, for once the young fowl becomes debilitated, its progress receives a check from which it seldom recovers. Young turkeys are very tender, but they take good care of themselves when of sufficient age. The change of the covering from down to feathers is the turning point with all young fowls. Vermin, such as lice and parasites, will ruin any flock, no matter how well cared for otherwise; hence the strictest watch should be kept for their appearance and extermination.

the blushing bud, as she scouted down stairs.
 "Swipes!" roared the managing editor, with a complacent smile and in place of approval at himself in the man to send him a proof of the Fashion Notes as soon as they came in. I have observed that a great many errors have crept in lately.

Mutton for Market.
 A visit to the droveways of our large cities will convince all skeptics that either the breeds are kept for wool or the inferior kinds only are marketed. While the sheep has, no doubt, received its share of improvement, there still remain for further advance in the size and quality of most of those that are every year driven through our streets to the yards. Many of them are of the worst kind of scrubs, and it is a surprise how any farmer can afford to breed them, as such stock shows a system of extravagance in the breeder that could not be afforded by those who endeavor to get their sheep profitable or their farms productive. The English butchers, who have critical customers, always display the dark legs of the Southdowns on their legs of mutton, when such can be procured as the buyers know the advantages possessed by that breed as mutton sheep. They breed in England for mutton rather than for wool, but as improvement in one direction leads to improvement in the other way, so, we may say, the wool interests have not been overlooked across the water. There is no stock more easily or cheaply improved than the sheep, as a single ram is sufficient for quite a flock. Some farmers are inclined to think that the fine breeds are not hardy, but this is a mistake. They are hardy, perhaps, more at home, but this should not be objected to on well regulated farms. Our common stock should be crossed with Southdowns, and occasionally, for a further change, with Cotswolds. Such crossing will give finer and better muttons, as well as increase the yield and quality of the wool.

It was a beautiful day without, the air balmy and warm, but the frightful fascination of the game kept them there in the close room under the poisonous gas jets necessary because the windows must be kept closed, turning the cards and betting the chips. Six o'clock came and one of the parties was gone, utterly broken down. He left $1,000 in the hands of the Philistine who was offered to be bet. The game was over only three of the party left, with faces as white as ashes and nerves all shattered by drink and the awful excitement of the game. Just at 2 o'clock Thursday morning the three men separated, after 36 hours of incessant play, and $3,000 had been won and lost. One of the men was sick for two days; another has not recovered yet. It was a terrible experience for all of them.

Kentucky Poker-Playing.
 Frankfort Correspondent Louisville Courier-Journal.
 Last Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock five gentlemen, three of whom were legislators, set down to the time-honored round-table and began to play. Time flew by so rapidly that at 8 o'clock they all agreed they had better play a little longer. It was a big game, $5 call $20 and able takes. Aces were worth $100 and two pairs anything under $25. Hour after hour passed, and the cold, dull day-light began to creep in as them through the closed shutters, and still they played. One member was $2,800 behind at 5 o'clock and another $3,000 behind. Breakfast was ordered. They gulped it down, and again with pale, haggard faces they sat at the table. Twelve o'clock, half past, and they were still at it. The air in the room was stifling, but they cared not for that. It was a beautiful day without, the air balmy and warm, but the frightful fascination of the game kept them there in the close room under the poisonous gas jets necessary because the windows must be kept closed, turning the cards and betting the chips.
