LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

There were three loaded Pullman cars out at noon yesterday. The Bavarian band still delights audiences at the Tivoli night club. A party of twenty Swedish settlers went out to Walnut yesterday. The new Paxton & Gallagher warehouse will be occupied July 1st. During the first season at Boyd's, now closing, 133 performances have been given. Mr. Gillman R. Davis, the well-known stationer in Frenzer's building, is confined to his bed from an attack of sunstroke. Bishop O'Connor, yesterday at nine o'clock, administered confirmation to thirty candidates at Creighton college chapel. The "Joust" will be presented at Boyd's two nights of this week, and that will virtually close the season at that house. Charlotte Thompson and company were present by invitation at the full dress rehearsal of "The Joust" this afternoon. The permanent fire escape from Boyd's opera house, via the roof of Hancock block has been completed, and it is to be hoped will never have to be used. The many friends of Mr. J. U. Griley, Sr., will regret to learn that he is lying quite low in Ohio, from the disease to alleviate which he took his eastern trip. The C. & N. W. yesterday came in over two hours late, the Washburn twenty minutes late. The U. P. train was delayed thirty minutes in its departure by the "Q". Mr. J. F. Morgan has been appointed superintendent of telegraph of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, with headquarters in Chicago, the appointment to be in effect from June 20. The BEE was in error in the announcement of the funeral of Mrs. H. S. Smith. Mr. H. S. Smith informs us that he is not a widower at all and that his wife is in the best of health, for which he is truly thankful. It was a mistake in initials. Rev. J. W. Ingram has returned from his visit to Kansas, and will preach in Masonic hall next Sunday morning and evening. He reports prospects for crops in Kansas as fine as he ever saw in any state. The Rt. Rev. Bishop Clarkson will dedicate St. Philip's chapel, Nineteenth and Cumins streets, this evening. The Dean and other rectors of the city will take part in the ceremonies. In police court yesterday a man and woman were arraigned for disturbing the peace. The former pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs. The latter pleaded "not guilty" and was sent to jail to await trial. The W. & T. U. will meet at the M. K. Church Thursday, June 22, at 3 p. m., to make arrangements for a picnic with the Band of Hope, at Hancock park, Saturday, June 24th. Mrs. J. H. Burroughs, president. Mr. E. L. Emery placed on our table yesterday a bouquet of finest roses in cultivation, among which were a perpetual rose, Madame Edward Gray, and Glory of Mosses, grown from plants set out this spring. Let no one say we cannot grow fine roses. A large delegation of Omaha druggists left for Lincoln yesterday to attend convention called by the druggists of various Nebraska towns. Among those who went down were John Bell, M. Parr, A. B. Carpenter, C. F. Goodman, James Forsyth and others. S. G. Joyce, proprietor of the millinery establishment in Jacob's block received a dispatch on Sunday morning, conveying the information that his father and mother had been instantly killed in the cyclone at Grinnell. He left on the next train for that place to direct the funeral. There was a very important meeting of the ladies' and gentlemen's land league last night at their hall, corner Fourteenth and Dodge. Final arrangements for the picnic on the Fourth of July will be made. About half past twelve o'clock last night the canvas awnings about the Tivoli garden took fire from a gas jet, and blazed up with a brilliancy that looked for a short time as if a conflagration was imminent. Cries of fire were raised from all sides, and a telephone message was sent from the Canfield house to No. 8 engine house which brought the department to the spot in short order. Before they got there the fire had been extinguished by the proprietor Mr. Julius Thiele and his waiters. It did not amount to anything and would not have done much harm if it had been left to itself. It created a momentary sensation on lower Farnam street. Caution. J. Hochstrasser and the Brunswick and Balke billiard table company send no agents, repairers or peddlers out through the state, and any one who travels with such pretensions is a fraud, and persons will do well to let him alone. Any parties wishing anything done in this line should send direct to Brunswick and Balke Co., 569 South Tenth street, or to J. Hochstrasser agent. Satisfaction guaranteed. may22-1m

GOLDEN DAYS.

Commencement Exercises of Brownell Hall Last Night.

A Quartette of Fair Essayists and Singers.

Conferring of Medals and Diplomas by Bishop Clarkson.

The commencement exercises of Brownell Hall took place last evening at Masonic hall and the occasion was one of unusual interest. The hall was crowded to suffocation with the friends and relations of the graduates and students who participated, and if the exercises had been held in Boyd's for many hundreds went away unable to endure the heat.

At 8 o'clock prompt the students of Brownell Hall entered the room and took the seats reserved for them in the center, and the programme was immediately begun with the chorus from Offenbach, which was finely executed.

This was followed by an instrumental duet by Misses Ware and Waggoner, which was well received.

The graduating class consisted of Misses Hagar, Ambrose, Waggoner and Ware, and their essays were as follows:

"The Hermes of Prazitiles," Miss Hagar. "Womanhood, as Portrayed by Mr. Howells and Mr. James," Miss Ambrose. Debate, "Has Enthusiasm or Intellect Achieved Most in the Civilization of the World?" Enthusiasm, Miss Waggoner; Intellect, Miss Ware. The latter also delivered the valedictory address, which was very fine indeed.

In general it may be said that the essays given in response to the average of such efforts. Miss Hagar's essay was well written and delivered in a very clear, distinct voice, which made it more enjoyable than it would otherwise have been. Miss Ambrose handled her subject in a creditable manner, and she created an excellent impression on the audience. Misses Waggoner and Ware were not less deserving, and the latter spoke with great self-possession and made every word heard throughout the room.

The musical part of the programme was fine. The instrumental solo "Concert Caprice," Liebling, was executed in faultless style by Miss Ambrose. The solo "Forever and Forever," by Miss Liningier, was the finest feature of the evening, unless an exception be made in favor of the song given in response to a rapturous cry which was exceedingly pretty. Miss Liningier has a remarkable voice, in fact the finest, richest contralto ever heard in this city from a young lady of her modest pretensions. It would take no connoisseur to tell that there is a future of great promise before her, and it is too small a tribute to pay her to say that nine-tenths of the professionals who visit this city are not her equal. Miss Liningier is a lovely brunette, with eyes, face and form that would carry her through if her voice was only mediocre. They are not thought of, however, when she sings, and last night the audience were enthusiastic and in these, as in other efforts, she sang to the satisfaction of the most exacting critic.

The duet, "Cheerfulness," Misses Hagar and Liningier, was very fine and met with deserved applause.

The instrumental Sextette, in which Misses M. Metz, L. Metz, Spark, Waggoner, Ware and Cremer participated was well received, and the solo, "Alia Stella Confidite," by Miss Ambrose was beautiful. The trio "Farewell," Misses Wilson, Ambrose and Liningier, was exquisitely sung and was warmly applauded.

It would be an unpardonable omission not to mention the fact that the music was all rendered under the supervision of Miss. A. C. Tarbell, who is certainly entitled to the greatest praise for the success of her efforts. The pianos, a magnificent Steinway, grand, and Chickering, grand, were furnished by the firm of Max Meyer & Bro., who thus contributed materially to the musical programme of the evening.

The next thing in order was the distribution of medals and prizes and the conferring of diplomas, which was as given below. The six gold medals and the gold ring which were awarded were manufactured by the well known firm of Max Meyer & Bro., and were the finest that have ever been seen in this city. This firm has manufactured the medals for Brownell Hall for the past five years, and their facilities have been greatly increased during the past five years, and their workmen being the best they have ever had they were able to turn out the most perfect work. The medals were marvels of beauty both in design and workmanship, and reflected great credit upon the house which furnished them, and which in fact stands at the head of the manufacturing firms of this western country.

The following were the prizes distributed: The Hawkins prize for writing was awarded to Miss Blanche D. Beckworth, of North Platte, Neb. Miss Annie Jenkins received honorable mention. The Hawkins prize for arithmetic was awarded to Miss Lela Shears, and Miss Eleanor Metz took the Yates prize for composition. The Woolworth prize for higher arithmetic was awarded to Miss Mammie C. Ambrose, and Miss Bessie Yates obtained the Dundy prize for music.

The Chase prize for arithmetic was awarded to Miss Lulu B. Cremer, of this city. The Patterson prize for composition was awarded to Miss Martha J. Cooper, of Plattsmouth, Neb. The Kunitze prize for language was presented to Alice Thrall, of this city, and Misses Thomas and Cremer received honorable mention. The following gold medals were then presented to the fortunate contestants: The preparatory scholarship medal, given by the Rev. T. O'Connell, of Fremont, was presented to Miss Josephine Stephenson, and the Dinsmore medal, in physiology, was gained by Miss Anna J. Thomas, of Falls City, Neb.

The rector's medal in art, which was a magnificent gold cross with a wreath of flowers thereon, and which was the most beautiful medal awarded during the evening, was presented to Miss Mary Chandler.

Dean Millspaugh's medal in literature was awarded to Carrie M. Dinsmore, and Mrs. Woolworth's medal for collegiate scholarship was awarded to Miss Florence Ware.

Bishop Clarkson's medal for deportment was awarded to Miss I. May Waggoner.

The following named ladies were successful in gaining diplomas. Florence Ware, Mammie C. Ambrose, Susan E. Hager and Lucy May Waggoner.

The Right Reverend Bishop Clarkson, in dismissing the scholars, delivered a very appropriate, though somewhat brief address, in the course of which he felt sure that they all deserved the prizes and diplomas they had received and he also felt sure they would do honor to them. He committed them to the care of the Almighty who would ever keep them in the right path. The young ladies then chanted the Nisime creed and the Collects very impressively, and the entire audience sang Gloria in Excelsis in a very impressive style. The bishop then read the well known benediction prayer and the exercises terminated.

Masonic Hall was never filled by a more fashionable and exacting audience than on this occasion. The decorations were not numerous, but the wreaths and triangle which surmounted the arch above the stage were very elaborate and beautiful. The floral offerings to the participants in the exercises were limited in number and unappreciated in beauty. There was a wealth of these delicate tokens of admiration and esteem that were overpowering almost, and the uhlers, in charge of Mr. Hendrix, were almost paralyzed in their efforts to convey the loads of flowers to the fair participants in the evening's entertainment.

CANDY AND SADDLES.

The Rum Stuck in Which a Youthful Victim Invested His Little All.

Another slick confidence game was played yesterday on a young man about 18 years of age, who came over to Omaha from the transfer on the 9 o'clock dummy. While coming over he met a decent appearing man, with whom he struck up an acquaintance, and the latter learning that he desired to find a job, engaged him to work for him for $35 per month to herd cattle for him near Omaha. The two walked up the street, and after some conversation the stranger said that he would go to a certain grocery store and buy some candy for his children, but arriving at the store he discovered that he had no change in his pocket, and asked the young man for a small amount to pay for the candy. The boy pulled out a quarter and gave it to him, and in doing so exhibited quite a large sum of money, which of course put the confidence man upon the route to size up the pile. They came out of the store and the man handed his hired hand the candy to carry for him. The two then went into the Grand Central saloon where they had some conversation, and the man said that he intended to purchase three saddles to be used in herding and desired to make a small payment upon them, but had left his money at home and requested his new hand to loan him the necessary amount. The latter gave him all he had, which was only $12 or $15, and the stranger desired him to wait a minute, and then he stepped out to attend to a little business, and it is presumed he is still engaged in the business, as he has not returned up to this writing.

The return of the confidence game went round to the grocer, who gave him money enough to take him to Papillion, where he says he has relations living, and where he could get a job, though at wages at much less than he desired. The presence of the fool killer is very much needed, indeed, in this vicinity.

RAILWAY RUMORS.

The Kansas City Conference to Avert a Nebraska War.

Vanderbilt Buying Up a Few Roads on His Way to Omaha.

The Rock Island Trying to Relieve the Cyclone Sufferers.

Special car No. 100 went west on the U. P. train at noon yesterday, with Division Superintendent P. J. Nichols on board, destined to Norfolk.

Special cars No. 93 and 12 were attached to the outgoing Kansas City train Tuesday having on board the following officials for Kansas City: General Manager S. H. H. Clark, Assistant General Manager Kimball, General Freight Agent Vining, Assistant General Freight Agent Shelby, General Ticket Agent Stebbins, and General Passenger Agent Morse, of the Union Pacific; and General Superintendent Hollidge, General Freight Agent Miller, and General Passenger Agent Eastis, of the B. & M. These officers went to Kansas City to participate in the conference to be held there yesterday.

A NEW COLORADO POOL. Concerning this the Chicago Tribune of Tuesday says: It is now settled beyond a doubt that there will be no war between the lines west of the Missouri river. A treaty of peace between the Union Pacific, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy has been arranged and will be perfected at a meeting to be held between the general managers of these roads at Kansas City to-day. It has not yet been definitely decided whether there is to be simply an agreement for the maintenance of uniform rates or a pool on all business between the Missouri river and Denver. It is most probable, however, that a pool on that business will be made, as such an arrangement alone would give permanence to the agreement. The Denver & Rio Grande, it is understood, will become a party of the new agreement, but the new Denver & New Orleans railroad is not to be recognized, and it is quite certain that a fight against this company will be made. This much is indicated by the announcement of the Union Pacific that in accordance with an agreement with the other roads west of the Missouri river it will accept no tickets issued by or over that road.

FAST MAIL FAILURE. W. B. Thompson, superintendent of United States railway service, arrived here yesterday morning, and during the day was in conference with some of the railroad officials. A few weeks ago a meeting took place between Mr. Howe, postmaster general, Mr. Thompson and Capt. White, for the government, and the presidents and general managers of the railway lines connecting Chicago and Omaha, at which the latter were asked to name a price for operating a fast mail train service from this city to Council Bluffs. They promised to consider the proposal, and apprise the post-office authorities of their decision. The officers of these lines have notified the government officials that they can not undertake the operation of a fast mail service between Chicago and Omaha. The reason for declining to entertain any such proposal is that the lines are now working together under a pooling arrangement. If they were at war, either of the lines would be glad to establish such service, for the advertisement there would be in it. For either line to undertake it now would create jealousy and disrupt the pool. The arrangement is close however, it is understood, for the establishment of a fast mail train from New York to Chicago, to make the run in twenty-five hours. The route of the service will be via the New York Central and Lake Shore railways. This train will commence running some time in July. This arrangement will shorten the service between New York and Chicago twelve hours. The rest of the roads west to join in the continuation of the service deprives Chicago of the expected benefit of a quickened service from here to all western centers of business. In the absence of the officers of two of the western pool lines—the Burlington and Northwestern—Mr. Thompson is unable to renew the request and accompanying arguments of the post-office department for a continuous fast service across the continent.—Chicago Exchange.

APPEAL FOR AID. The Rock Island road has issued an appeal for aid for the sufferers from the recent cyclone. The appeal is signed by H. S. Royce, division superintendent, and W. H. Quick, superintendent of the United States Express company, and is addressed to all agents. The appeal says: "Contributions of provisions are too unwieldy for economic use. We earnestly appeal to all persons to give in money from ten cents upwards, according to their means, and such funds will be forwarded at once to Mayor Ferry, at Grinnell, by the United States Express company. Agents are hereby requested to receive the same and forward free, sending duplicate list of contributions to Superintendent Quick."

VANDERBILT'S MOVEMENTS. The special train conveying Wm. H. Vanderbilt and his party is expected in from St. Paul to-night or to-morrow. Mr. Vanderbilt is accompanied by J. H. Vanderbilt, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Augustus Schell, T. C. Eastman, William Turnbull, Gen. George Magee, Edward Ellis, S. F. Dewey and J. Tillinghast. The party is on a tour of inspection of the Chicago & Northwestern, now practically a part of the Vanderbilt system of roads. It had been the intention to extend the trip to Denver, but this it is learned from one of the gentlemen accompanying Mr. Vanderbilt, has been given up, and the party will go no further west than Omaha. From Omaha the party will return to Chicago via the Chicago & Northwestern, expecting to arrive there next Saturday or Sunday.

Mr. James Fillinghast, assistant to the president and general superintendent of the New York Central west of Albany, stated to a Chicago Tribune correspondent that Mr. Vanderbilt's present trip had no special significance, but was for the purpose of inspecting the Chicago & Northwestern and acquainting himself with its resources and prospects. It is, however, rumored that he has purchased five millions of the stock of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and this is stated to be undoubtedly true by good authority. Another rumor credits Vanderbilt with the purchase of a large interest, estimated anywhere from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000, in the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba railway.

THE NEW FREIGHT DEPOT. Plans for the new freight depot of the B. & M. railway, which will be erected between Howard and Jackson and Seventh and Eighth streets, have been submitted. They contemplate a structure 220 feet long and 50 feet wide, one story in height.

EXPENSIVE ENTERTAINMENT. A Western Man Loses a Wallet and Contents Valued at $5000. A gentleman from the western part of the state, while watching the ropewalking of Foster in front of the Academy of Music Tuesday, was relieved of his "wreath skin," in which was about $385 in notes, between $85 and $100 in county warrants, a pass over the western Pacific road, and four or five hundred good fat dollars. The notes, warrants and pass being useless to any one but the loser, he is willing to give the money to the "ripper" if the papers are left at The Bee office.

AMERICA'S GREATEST CRANK. George Francis Train—His Appearance and Tomfoolery. Speaking of cranks, says a writer in The Detroit Chief, perhaps this is a good place to say that I stumbled on to my old friend, George Francis Train, in Madison square, the other day. He has sat bareheaded in the park every day for five years and more now, but he has moved his seat from Twenty-Fourth street, where he was when I wrote of him two years ago. He will explain a bench all to himself, and it is located at the intersection of Broadway and Fifth avenue, near the Brunwick, but, as the newspapers pay but little or no attention to him now, strangers have some difficulty in finding him. His skin is very dark from exposure to the wind and the sun, his hair is mere white than ever, and I fancy that his wonderful eyes were growing a little dull and dim. He was surrounded by the usual number of children as I came up, and he had more jumping ropes, playthings and candy for them than ever. He looked up at his everlasting book with a good novel—as I saluted him with "Good morning, Mr. Train." Placing his fingers quickly to his lips, he made a motion as if he were throwing me a kiss, and then he tapped significantly his ear. "What?" I exclaimed, much astonished. He repeated the gesture. "You don't mean to tell me, old friend, that you are deaf?" I asked. Without looking at me he drew a card from his pocket, and with a blue pencil traced thereon, in a round, free hand, the following: "Only talk with children. Not spoken for one year to adults." I wrote on the card my name and added: "I am a child." He replied to the name and wrote again: "Any paper could make a fortune if they could have enough truth to make truth speak! But being unlearned, the individual fails to make me speak. I have lost all interest in type. Before midsummer 10,000 people will be here daily, and no one knows why. Press dare not mention it. It's an astounding evolution." A little 10-year old girl, who, with her hands on her knees, was watching Train as he wrote, asked: "Say, don't you write any more poetry?" "Oh, yes, Fannie," was the answer; "but I don't publish any more. I wrote something this morning." Then he drew from his pocket, and proceeded to read to her some rhymes on "The Organization of Man," but before he had completed a stanza there was a crowd around his bench, and he ceased saying what he was watching. Train as he wrote, asked: "Say, don't you write any more poetry?" "Oh, yes, Fannie," was the answer; "but I don't publish any more. I wrote something this morning." Then he drew from his pocket, and proceeded to read to her some rhymes on "The Organization of Man," but before he had completed a stanza there was a crowd around his bench, and he ceased saying what he was watching.

A Little Damp. "Have we had any rain in Indiana this spring?" he echoed, as he turned in his seat. "Yes." "Well, it's been a little damp out there," he softly answered. "The day before leaving home I had to hang up 25 of my ducks. They had become so water-logged that they could no longer swim. During the month of April it rained on 29 different days." "What about the other day?" "Oh, that was the day on which it snowed 22 straight hours." "How is corn?" "Well, I planted mine in two feet of water, and 'tween you and me I don't expect over thirty bushels to the acre." "What looking well!" "Tolerably well, but the sturgeon and catfish are doing considerable damage." "Didn't you get any dry weather in May?" "There was about fifteen minutes one day when I tried to clear up, but I hadn't commenced to bring out my sheep before the rain came down again." "Grass must be good!" "Shouldn't wonder, but can't say. When I get back I'm going down in a diving bell to see." "Got your potatoes in?" "Not yet; I've got them loaded on a snow, sashed in the field in three feet of water." "Then the prospect looks gloomy!" "No; any air—not any. I've got an ark almost ready to sail, and if it will only rain for another week I'll be the best fixed man in Indiana."

Pretty Good. John Bacon, Laporte, Ind., writes: "Your 'Spring Breeze' is all you cracked it up to be. My dyspepsia has all vanished, and I feel like a new man. I also should like to take a dozen bottles, so that I could oblige my friends occasionally." Price, 50 cents; trial bottles, 10 cents. je19-1m

DISTRICT COURT.

Carr Kendall Pleads Guilty and Will Get a Light Sentence.

The Hammer Homicide Case Postponed Till Monday.

In district court yesterday the case of the State Bank of Nebraska vs. John Green, involving about $15,000 closed after six days occupied in taking testimony and the jury at once went out.

The criminal docket was taken up, the case of Carr Kendall, indicted for the theft of jewelry from the residence of Mr. Chas. E. Abert on the morning of May 12th, during a fire, being first. Two witnesses were put on the stand for the state, after which Kendall withdrew his plea of "not guilty" and entered a plea of "guilty." It is understood that he will be sentenced to but one year.

The other fireman, Clark, who was indicted on the same charge and is out on bail, will be prosecuted vigorously by the state.

Thomas Donahue, the colored man indicted for the robbery of E. M. Bartlett's house, was tried during the afternoon.

The trial of Chas. Koster, in the Hammer case, was postponed to Monday next to allow the state to secure absent witnesses. By agreement of counsel James Whitney, the base ball pitcher of the Boston nine, who is here at considerable inconvenience and expense was excused from further attendance, it being agreed to use his testimony as given at the last trial.

Mr. Whitney loses $25 for every day that he is absent from his club, that being the daily fine for absentees. He will probably leave for the east to-day.
