Do a "Tough and Fair" Battle in West Virginia.

At the End of Thirty-One Hotly Contested Rounds.

The Friends of Walling Throw Up the Sponge.

The Fight in Detail- "A Very Quiet

Affair."

Philadelphia Record. GREENSBOROUGH, Pa., Jone 28 .- fought, The prize fight between Campbell and Walling took place to-day, siren and county, West Virginia. The battleground was in a bottom, under the grateful shade of a locust tree, surrounded by forest-covered hills. The ropes and stakes were arranged at 9:20 a. m., and thirty-five minutes later Welling stepped into the ring county, West Virginia. The battlelater Walling stepped into the ring and waited for Campbell, who followed him in about ten minutes. The Remaining in Postoffice du ring the week demeanor of the two men differed ending July 1, 1882. widely. Walting was very quiet and undemonstrative, but Campbell threw Andrews, D-2 undemonstrative, but Campbell threw his hat into the inclosure with a whoop ere he crossed the ropes. "One hundred dollars I win this fight," yelled Campbell. Nobody took him up, and the proceedings opened with the choosing of the usual officials, as follows: Referee, Pat Kelly; time-keeper, James Johnson; umpire for Walling, James Pearson, and for Brown, W keeper, James Johnson; umpire for Walling, James Pearson, and for Campbell, Calvin Cusart. Campbell's seconds were Pete Sweeney and Chas. Robinson, while Patsy Malley and George Johnson handled Walling.

The toss for corners resulted in favor

The toss for corners resulted in favor of Campbell, and he placed his adversary where the sun would shine in his Eveland, C.S. eyes. There was a drizzling fall of rain at the time, but before the fight was ended the sun shone brightly. The referee made a short speech, say Gagan & Bussey Gilman, D E from Colorado to settle the question Gomerison, O as to which was the better man, and Gray, W A asking for them a fair show and no favor. The crowd by this time had reached to about 200 persons, the news Higgins, T D that a prize fight was to take place Jorg nsen, J having attracted nearly all the male Jackman, W J Jahansson, C J having attracted nearly all the male population within a radius of several miles. Round 4—Walling's left hand was Webb, W in good condition thus far, and he proved the fact by driving it with a straight-from-the-shoulder blow into Campbell's left eye. Campbell slipped West, G M Campbell's left eye. Campbell slipped but recovered, and after exchanging a few rapid bedy blows the men fell together.

Round 5—Campbell rushed in with one of his favorite lunges at the ribs Walling, who seemed to have got the power of both hands into his left, dealt his opponent two or three terrific left-handers in the eyes and nose, dealt his opponent two or three terrific left-handers in the eyes and nose, getting away with very light punishment. A clinch resulted in a fall for both men. Walling had decidedly the best of this round. Campbell's face was bathed in blood, while Walling showed scarcely any marks.

Round 6—This was the hottest round of the fight. Campbell led off with a resounding thump in the ribs.

Tens of thousands of dollars are squandered yearly upon traveline quacks, who go from town to town prof ssing to cure all the ills that our poor humanity is heir to. Why will not the public learn common sense, and it they are suffering from dyspepsia or liver complaint, invest a dollar in Sprinky Blossom, sold by all druggists and indorse; by the faculty. See testimonials. Price 59 cents, trial bottles 10 cents.

Round 8-Campbell appeared to know that something was wrong with Walling, and rushed at him with a painful blow on the eye. Walling let fly with both hands, visiting his man's nose and eyes with sanguinary and darkening effect.

Round 9 to 12-The next four rounds were all in Walling's favor, he making up for his lack of striking ability by getting in most of his rather feeble blows without return.

Round 13 - Campbell, who began to signs of weakness in his legs, threw all his strength into a running blow at Walling's ribs, following it up with another over the left eye. He re ceived smash on the nose, and then Walling dropped. Campbell's face was in a raw condition. However, he still smiled as well as the condition of his features would allow, and loudly expressed confidence of winning the

The rest of the fight was a repetition of the previous rounds. Walling, though suffering intense pain from his broken knuckles every time struck his opponent, came up to the scratch in good shape until the end of the thirty-first round. In this round after fighting pretty evenly all over the ring, Campbell wound up by plant ing a wicked, crushing stroke on the side of Walling's occit, which dropped him. His seconds picked up the fal-len fighter, and found that the last blow had finished him. Up went the sponge at 10.51, and the yells of Campbell and his triends, the latter lifting the victor and earrying him around the ring.

Campbell passed around the hat for the benefit of the vanquished man, and raised Sti, which was handed over to Walling with the assurance that no ill will was entertained against him by his late antagonist. As soon as the fight was over the excorsionists returned to Brownsville by the steamer Harry, and thence by train to Pittsburg. The battle w. . one of the hardest and fairest ev e
