Some interesting studies of the advance in prices during the last twelve months have been made by the Public. Comparing the prices in the middle sumption by rich and poor. of June last year and this, it appears trifling. Altogether the advance has been rather more than 25 per cent; $74.92 being required, June 30, 1882. to purchase the food that could have been puchased June 14, 1881, for chairman. $59.70. In clothing, metals, and lumber there has been scarcely any change in prices. Since November, 1878, the advance in grain has been more than one half, in meats nearly one-halt, in dairy products a little less, in sugar a very small advance. Altogether the advance of prices in food has been 50 per cent, what in November, 1878, cost $49.54, now costing $74.93. Prices of clothing, metal and lumber have also advanced, but in smaller percentages. Aggregating all these classes of articles, it is shown that what now costs $144.53 cost only $108.76 in November, 1878. Prices at that time were much lower than they were before the war. The articles included in the Public tables would have cost $134.74 at the prices in January, 1860, and $128.98 a year
