Rev. k. M. Duff, Episcopal minister at Helena, has gone east for the summer and there is a possibility that he will not re-turn to Montana.

It is reported from Benton that Major J. W. Patrick, who brought a Missouri colony up to the river this s. ring for the Barker district, was tound deed in his cabin at Barker a week or two ago.

A recent Helena horror was the headless sketeton of an infant, which was taken out of a covered flume. Soon after its dis-covery, a band of excited horses trampled the little bones into the mud past recovery. While the nightwatchman was climbing p on the water tank at Forsythe, one night recently, his pistol dr-pped out of his hip pocket and on striking the ground one of the chambe a was discharged. The ball struck the watchman, inflicting a wound from which he died in a few hours. In radroad construction between Bedford and Helena, about 225 teams and 250 men are employed, and the entire work of grading between those points will be completed in about ten weeks. As yet, says the Independent, nothing has been done between Bedford and Bozsman, but it is seem supposed that the work will begin soon. Henry Neal, one of the foremost busi-ness men of Helena, died on the 1st. He ness men of Helena, died on the 1st. He was comparatively a young man, but had achieved marked success in mercantile pursuits, and his death was hastened by an overtaxing of his mental and physical system in that direction. His death makes a wide gap in the commercial circle of the carriers of the capital.

A couple of weeks ago Holter Bros., of Helena, received a telegram from Fort Shaw stating that a lumber raft belonging to them, and containing a out 70,000 feet of lumber, had gone over the falls of the Missouri and was an entire loss. AWFUL AURA.

A Newark Girl Who Prefers Pants to Petticoats.

For about four months, unknown alike to her employers, associates, and the people who patronized the road, a girl of 18 years of age, arrayed in the garb of a male, acted in the capacity of a conductor on the Main street line of street cars. Although the same people rode upon her car each day, and the Argus-eyed guardians of the peace were often among the number, still none ever discovered her sex The conductors, drivers and stable men who met her frequently each day never dreamed but what the conductor of No. — was a genuine boy
An Enquirer reporter, hearing about the case, found the girl at work on Lodge alley. The name she has been under is that of Frank Cham bers. Yesterday, when first espied she had her coat off, sleeves rolled up. and, with broom in hand, was hard at work aweeping. Upon being ap proached, the smalless of her hands her form, and voice all assured the reporter that he had really found the person he was seeking/ Upon being asked how she liked the place she replied that the work was most too hard, and that she would like to obtain some employment that was easier. Yesterday morning she had cleaned five sets of harness and performed various small chores. The newspaper man told her he thought he could obtain her a better position, and made an engagement to meet her in the evening. Having met her and told her that he knew all, she made a clean breast and told the following story: "My right name is Aura M. Scott, and I was born at Homer. Licking county, where I hved until I was 9 years of age. My father was in the Thirty-first Ohion regiment of infantry, and died soon after coming home from the army, and mother died about eight years after father, and I went to live with Mr. William Woodbridge, a retired merchant at Newark, in this state. I was not what is termed a good girl, but the folks accused me of wrong doing of which at that time I was not guilty I thought, however, that as I had the

"We came to Cincinnati and stopped at the American house. Fifth street, between Vine and Race streets, where we lived together for about a month, when my friend received a letter that his mother was aeriously ill at Grand Haven, Mich. and he left me, and I have never seen him since. While we were at the American house we occupied the same room, and no one ever suspected my sex. Just the day before he left ob ained employment at the laundry on Race street, appealte the Arcade, where I tended the office and carried the matter. I left the road in May, having had some trouble with the driver of my car. When I quit I owed the company $6.65. The driver owed me $15, which I had loved him, and I told him to make good the deficiency in my cash account, which he did. The balance of the money he has never paid me.

The girl whose peculiar story is re-lated above was 18 years old last month, and is of medium height. She has a clear, dark skin, dark brown eyes, black hair, good features, and countenance. She talks fluently, but is undoubtedly, as she communication with the world, a company having been formed to run a five mile line from that camp to the W. U. wires at Dillon. two sons. The pictures indicate that the originals belong to the higher walks in life. Aura has gone with the gamins and boys about town, and they all believe her to be a boy among boys when she is with them. Her face and hands were clean yesterday, but the piece of a shirt which she had on was in a filthy condition. She said she had no money, and slept wherever she could find a place and ate when she could earn enough to purchase a meal. She says she will never again wear female attire unless forced to do so. She can give no reason for this determination, excepting that she never did like to wear dresses or even associate with her own

For the people who raised her she seems to have a kindly feeling, as she was very anxious that nothing of her history should be published. Not, she said, on her own account, as she did not care what became of her, but she still had some regard for the feelings of the Woodbridge family. Her last words, she said, when she left Newark were: "Good-by, home, the next place I land will be in the peni-
