Put Up in Two-Pound Cans for Family Use, Detroit Free Press.

This is the lark. Take a good look at the picture, so that you may recognize the original when you walk out.

"What are his chief virtues?" "He hasn't any."

"What is his chief value?" "His right to vote, and his readiness to sell out to the highest bidder."

"Is he a rare bird?" "He is that. The species used to be so plenty that every city had them by the score."

"Is he a valuable bird?" "His carcass is valued at from two to five cents per pound, according to the price of soap."

"Yes, in a few short years the masher will be known on earth no more. The Smithsonian institute and two or three medical colleges will have specimens preserved in alcohol and skeletons on exhibition."

"The Yellow-Cart Craze, New York Letter to Cincinnati Enquirer." The fashionable girl now distinguishes herself by wearing a yellow cart.

Druggist's Testimony, H. F. McCarthy, druggist, Ottawa, Ont., states that he was afflicted with chronic bronchitis for some years.

Sheep on Small Farms, Many affirm that it is no longer profitable to keep sheep on small farms, especially where the land is quite valuable.

Put Up in Two-Pound Cans for Family Use, This is the lark. Take a good look at the picture, so that you may recognize the original when you walk out.

"What are his chief virtues?" "He hasn't any." "Does he sing?" "He does. He sings his best about midnight, and he has been known to wake up policemen sleeping in a stairway four blocks distant."

"What is his chief value?" "His right to vote, and his readiness to sell out to the highest bidder." "Would it be a sin to kill a lark?" "It would be against the law. There is no need to kill him, however. His life is short and full of cold and hunger and rags and ailments and hard knocks, and nobody remembers where he is buried or cares what became of his bones. We will now turn to the picture of THE MASHER."

"Is he a rare bird?" "He is that. The species used to be so plenty that every city had them by the score, but of late years the folk-killer has got in his work so well that only about a dozen mashers can now be found in the whole United States."

"Certainly, he has stood before the glass for hours to practice on that look. When he parts his hair in the centre, waxes his little mustache and takes his dear little cane in hand for a walk on the street, he calculates that sweet look will knock down every second lady he meets."

When old John Robinson's only and supremely isolated world renowned and universe-defying congress of pink-eyed ponies and mealy neynas struck Ogden, nobody seemed to know how it happened, but the whole of northern Utah was aflame with the pink sun bonnets and bedtick pantaloons of the Latter-Day Saints.

The fashionable girl now distinguishes herself by wearing a yellow cart. It might be more correct to say that the yellow cart wears the fashionable girl, or that they wear each other.

A man in a cart regarded as an ashamed of his position to begin with and showed it in his sheepish manner. He was in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred unable to adapt himself to the jerks of the vehicle, but tried to sit bolt upright, and failed miserably.

The performance at Ogden was postponed thirty minutes for the arrival of one family alone that had been delayed by a hot box. The circus manager estimated that he runs the circus at an expense of $100 per hour, but when this family got there and he figured up the price of admission he was ahead $35.23, to say nothing of peanuts and the minstrel show receipts.
