

The Daily Bee.

OMAHA. Tuesday Morning July 18.

Weather Report.

(The following observations are taken at the same moment of time at all the stations named.)

Table with columns: STATIONS, Barometer, Thermometer, Wind, and State of Weather.

Water 12 feet 4 inches above low water mark at Omaha, and 7 inches at Yankton.

LOCAL BRIEFVITIES.

Everybody is invited to attend the picnic of the American Legion of Honor on the 19th at Plattsmouth.

We notice a terrible cut on sheet music. See Hoops' advertisement. He means business and no mistake.

A woman was on the mourners' bench in police court yesterday for free use of profane and obscene language. Women's rights are not yet secure.

Workmen are busy cutting a new window in the third story of Boyd's opera house on the east side, which will increase the ventilation of the gallery.

Circulars were yesterday distributed on the streets, reading as follows: "Help the early closing movement by not purchasing dry goods after 6:30 p. m."

The hearing in the case of S. C. Hollander, the alleged incendiary, has been continued until 2 o'clock Wednesday. No ball has been given and he languishes in the county jail.

The meeting of the South Omaha Church Organization which was to have taken place at Haskell Park yesterday, has been postponed to the 31st instant at 7 o'clock p. m. Same place.

A big black cloud came up in the west yesterday which brought with it a storm of wind and rain that lasted all day and filled the gutters with water and the streets with mud. There was some thunder and lightning also.

The thermometer at Max Meyer & Bro., the Jewelers and Opticians, from 12 m. Sunday until 12 m. yesterday, indicated the following: 12 m., 70°; 2 p. m., 61°; 7 p. m., 64°; 9 p. m., 71°; 7 a. m., 72°; 10 a. m., 64°; 12 m., 64°; 2 p. m., 72°.

One day last week Mr. Heimrod, of Heimrod & Dorman, purchased a lot of raspberry bushes of a fruit tree man and on sorting them over to separate the good from the bad he found a five dollar gold piece snugly ensconced among the roots. Those bushes must have been grown at the foot of a rainbow.

A regular meeting of the St. George Society will be held tomorrow evening at their hall, 134 Douglas street. Final arrangements will be made for the picnic. The first lecture of a series on English history and literature will be delivered by the president of the society.

It is reported that a couple of parties raised a grand row at Charlie Foley's restaurant Sunday on Dodge street, and kicked in one of the doors. A man and woman were arrested yesterday for disturbing the peace in that locality but had not been tried yet when The Bee reporter visited police court.

In the police court yesterday one disturber of the peace paid $5 and costs and two drunks paid the usual fine. A man was arrested on the complaint of Amscow for disturbing the peace in the vicinity of Jackson and 13th streets, which case was set for the afternoon. A cripple from Leadville was arrested under the vagrant act and fired over the river.

The new Missouri Pacific ticket office has been opened up in good shape at their headquarters in the elegant room in the corner of the new Paxton, one of the finest locations and offices in the city. The Omaha representatives of the road are on deck and report most satisfactory sales already. They have a unique coupon of the Dolly Varden style and a mammoth ticket case containing postcards that will take a man anywhere on earth except to the North Pole to which the managers of the big line will no doubt build an extension from this city in due time.

Firemen.—All firemen interested in the welfare of the Omaha fire department are requested to attend the meeting of the department at Firemen's hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

By order of CHAS. HUNT, President. JEROME C. PENTZEL, Sec'y. 17-22

THE REUNION.

General Thayer Makes His Staff Appointments in Part.

The Grand Island Independent says: "Gen. Thayer has appointed a portion of his staff for the reunion as follows: Gen. C. H. Frederick, of Douglas county, chief of staff; Capt. H. E. Palmer, of Cass county, adjutant general; Capt. Humphrey, of Pawnee county, assistant adjutant general; Capt. W. A. Deuel, of Hall county, assistant adjutant general; C. L. Howell, of Hall county, quartermaster general; J. O. West, of Hall county, inspector general; J. D. Moore, of Hall county, ordnance officer; Gen. R. B. Livingston, of Cass county, surgeon general; H. C. Russell, of Colfax county, aid-de-camp; Judson Graves, of Antelope county, aid-de-camp. Other staff officers will be announced hereafter.

The committee requested General Thayer to appoint a large number of staff officers on account of the anticipated immense attendance, so that prompt attention may be given to all as they arrive, and to give attention to all during the continuance of the re-union."

BADLY MIXED.

The Iowa Elopement Case in a Peculiar Shape.

Arrested, But by Whom or What for Not Known.

The complications in the Osborne-Hartwell elopement case have become so numerous that the reporters and officers have lost the combination, the parties themselves don't know whether they have committed a crime or not and whether, if they ever did commit a violation of the law, it was the law of Iowa or Nebraska. It is doubtful if the lawyers who have taken hold of the case understand it themselves, and the Iowa marshal is as deep in the mud as they are in the mire.

The facts as near as they can be learned and as briefly as they can be put are about these: Osborne came to Omaha to secure a job. Mrs. Hartwell took advantage of her husband's absence to follow him. They occupied separate rooms at the Canfield, and are said to have behaved as a lady and gentleman should. At this juncture Marshal Smith arrived without any papers and had a special officer mount guard over the parties until he got a requisition. The officers say this was illegal to start with. Mrs. Hartwell had $75 and Osborne $125 and over, and this sum was turned over to Smith, as a sort of bonds for their safe keeping. It is said that they were very foolish to give up the cash, or, in fact, except by a demand, until the proper papers were exhibited.

Saturday night the marshal insisted on having Osborne sleep in his room for greater security and the latter, at the suggestion of a friend who came from Des Moines about the same time, refused. City Marshal Angell was aroused from his Saturday night's slumbers to take the refractory man to jail.

Sunday morning Osborne's lawyers had him and the woman arrested on a charge of adultery committed in Nebraska, and the plan was to take them before Judge Brandeis at once, and by the weakness of the prosecution have them both discharged, as there is no proof that they have been guilty of any infraction of the law in this city. As it is not claimed that they have committed the crime elsewhere, it would look as if the Iowa officer is taking them to the Hawkeye state to be tried for a crime supposed to have been committed on Nebraska soil.

It appears that a requisition cannot be issued by the governor for parties charged with an offense against the laws of Nebraska, and under arrest for the same, and therefore, as long as we could get at it, the case in Brandeis' court is allowed to stand for the present as a sort of bulwark of safety. In the meantime Marshal Smith has filed an affidavit in Judge Boneke's court, charging the eloping parties with being fugitives from justice, and has left for Lincoln to obtain a requisition.

It was intended to bring Osborne and Mrs. Hartwell before Judge Chadwick at 11 a. m. yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus, but no such writ had been issued and so at 3 p. m. the man is confined in the county jail, and Mrs. Hartwell is out on parole.

It is a badly mixed up case, and if the reports are true in a case of "Much Ado About Nothing," the fact that the defendants both came to Omaha and both put up at the same hotel, being, perhaps, open to criticism, but constituting of no crime in the eyes of the law.

In memoriam. One of the saddest deaths we have ever known was that of Mrs. Annie Burnham, wife of W. C. Burnham, who died at her home, in this city, at 5 o'clock Sunday evening, July 9, 1882.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnham were just starting in life, with many bright promises reaching out into the future; but while hopefully and lovingly laboring in holy companionship, death silently and suddenly crept into their bright, cheerful home, and blighted forever their earthly prospects. They were married in Fairbairn, Minn., about four years ago, and two years later moved to this city to make it their permanent home. But, alas! "And things change here; Nothing in this world can last."

THE COMING STAR.

Helen Bancroft and the "Music and Drama."

The last issue of The Music and Drama, one of the most complete publications of the kind sent out from any office, contains among other attractive features a full page portrait of Miss Helen Bancroft, who is pronounced to be "the coming dramatic star."

As it is probable that the brilliant light of this new celestial luminary may flash across our own theatrical horizon before the close of the next season, we make a brief extract from an editorial letter in the paper referred to, by John C. Friend, Speaking of "dramatic aspirants," he says: "In this list, however, I would include one most charming personage who has flashed across the dramatic horizon for a brief period at Daly's and once for an equally brief period in Boston. Her name is Helen Bancroft, a beautiful woman, of graceful carriage, refined tastes, and most artistic sentiment, with dramatic qualities of the highest order, she has but recently aroused the warmest interest, even with the most critical and exacting."

Arriving in the city late in the afternoon, Mrs. Campbell made her appearance at the church after eight o'clock, but after a few brief introductory remarks by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Copeland, the speaker proceeded to address the audience upon reforms in general, taking up temperance and criticizing the want of consistency in all reforms. She said that she believed almost all good people were in favor of reform, but lamented that while temperance workers were snatching a few men from a drunkard's grave, there are others being raised to high places, who are doing the important duty for temperance workers was to see that the next generation should not reform. After speaking at length upon the duties of parents towards their children, she drifted to the subject of woman's suffrage, in which her whole nature seemed most interested.

In treating of this subject, contrary to the general custom of their advocates, she based her argument upon the Bible, quoting passages from the old, and liberally construing the "Testament" to sustain their position. She was not in favor of dragging men down but elevating them to the moral standard of woman. She convinced the audience of her knowledge of the subject, and the various statutes relative to the rights and wrongs of women, citing various laws that have existed from the time of Moses to the present, wherein woman, although she may jointly, with her husband, accumulate a handsome fortune yet has no voice in taxing it or disposing of it in case of the death of her husband. The speaker said that the ballot box for men was the outgrowth of Christian civilization, that the abolition of slavery was the result of Christian civilization, and that the woman suffrage movement is also the result of Christian civilization. She spoke without any affectation, her language was smooth and easy, and her lecture was enlivened with appropriate illustrations.

This evening she will speak at the same church on the suffrage question, at which time she will be pleased to answer various questions that are opposed to the movement may see proper to ask in writing before the lecture begins.

Examination of Teachers. The examination of applicants for teachers' certificates takes place at the high school building, commencing Thursday, July 20th, at 8 a. m.

This will probably be the last meeting of the examiners the present year, and all denizens of underground amputation must be in attendance punctually at aforesaid place.

Notice. The "Hawthorn Centennial Excelsior Roof Paint," was patented May 24th, 1881, and letters patent number 241,803. Any person found or known to tamper with the manufacture of said paint will be punished to the full extent of law. No person has any authority whatever to sell receipts. HAWTHORN & BRO., Lancaster, Pa.

Meeting of the Sufferers. The Omaha Woman Suffrage association met last night at the Unitarian church, with a much larger attendance than usual. The meeting was called to order by the president, W. E. Copeland, after which Miss Campbell, of Massachusetts, addressed the audience an hour and a half upon the adoption of the constitutional amendment. The speaker went over the usual points made by her advocates, basing the movement upon the spirit of the declaration of independence, and citing the old and new testaments for their authority; said that it was not a war of sexes, or intended to disturb the relations of husband and wife, but a peaceful battle of ideas, the natural growth of civilization; that they were endeavoring to brush away the cobwebs of prejudices, and put on the finishing touches of a higher civilization; that they did not want to take from man any of his inalienable rights, but simply asking of man that which he justly claimed for himself—the right to govern their own affairs. She is a fluent and easy speaker, familiar with her subject and carries with her an earnestness that impresses the audience with the sincerity of her course. She traced the growth of governments from the middle ages to the abolition of slavery, and claimed that it was all the outgrowth of Christian civilization. At the close of her address Mrs. Colby, of Beatrice, came forward and, in hurried speech, gave a brief history of the effects woman's suffrage had upon society in general in Wyoming territory. She claimed that crime had been on the decrease since woman exercised her political rights; that they invariably voted for the best man irrespective of political factions or party affiliations; that instead of degrading woman it had given her a greater worth than ever before; that they were sought after none the less by many for their strong minded qualities, which they invariably used to chastise language, enlivening her theme with happy illustrations and appropriate anecdotes. The meeting adjourned to meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock to adopt measures for a vigorous campaign in this section of the state.

I want to rent about September 1st a cottage of four or five rooms, within a reasonable walk of P. O., on line of cars preferred. Address "Mac," Box office.

A Handsome Acknowledgment. OMAHA, July 10, 1882. At a meeting of the Local Association of the Knights of Labor, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, As it has been demonstrated beyond the possibility of a doubt that there has too long existed a misunderstanding between labor and honest enterprise, relative to their interests, which should not exist any longer, and WHEREAS, We believe that these two useful elements should work harmoniously together, and obliterate the past, and combine for the common interest of both, for the reason that if they are divided neither one can long exist, and we believe when we do combine the children of man will come nearer having an Eden here on earth than ever existed before, and WHEREAS, We believe no better method has been advanced than the one set forth by the Knights of Labor. Therefore, be it Resolved, That when we find a man who is willing and able to advocate the principles promulgated by the Knights of Labor, he is worthy of the highest respect of every honest man and woman in the land. And be it Resolved, That we find all of those qualities in the person of the Hon. Chas. H. Letchman; and be it further Resolved, That he is tendered a vote of thanks for the able and eloquent address he delivered to our people, and that his visit to our city will be an event that we will long have cause to remember; and it is further Resolved, That this lodge, the Knights of Labor, tender the members of the A. O. H. band a vote of thanks for the services they rendered to the meeting of the Knights of Labor; and be it Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to THE OMAHA DAILY BEE for publication. By order of the committee.

A GAY LOTHARIO. Who, with the Fly Detective from Kansas City, Falls to Meet Detective Neigh.

Quite a little sensation was created in this city a short time ago by transactions which a Pullman conductor named Rothwell, running between Omaha and Kansas City, and the wife of a well known business man of this city figured. The former subsequently came with a "fly" detective from Kansas City, and pulled the wool over the eyes of several unsuspecting parties by representing that they would make good the charge of blackmail against certain Omaha parties and pleading injured innocences.

The features in the case as given by our correspondent, indicate that the dashing young P. P. C. had been picturing out to the unfortunate woman a glowing picture of the life she could lead from city to city, and in the language of his satanic Nibs, saying virtually: "All these I will give you, if you but bow down and serve me." The temptation was irresistible, and the woman went with him, it is alleged, to Kansas City, St. Joseph and finally to Council Bluffs, registering at the Ogden house, in the latter place as Mr. and Mrs. Rothwell. It is claimed that instructions were left with the clerk of the Ogden to send up no cards or notes, the undesirable advent of the husband being feared, and a liberal supply of wine, beer, was ordered to make the hours of night pass with a good effect. In the morning board and lodging was engaged for the lady for one week. This little escapade was followed shortly by the arrest of Rothwell in this city by Detective Neigh, when it is said he begged abjectly for mercy, pleaded the claims of an invalid wife and promised if leniently dealt with to furnish evidence of other criminal acts on the part of his friend. Being allowed to return to Kansas City to procure the promised evidence he complied by an attempt to bluff the Omaha officers. He was then arrested and taken before Justice Wright, who put him under bonds for an appearance yesterday afternoon.
