A TUNEFUL LIAR.

He Who Turns the Crank of Gould's Official Organ.

A Fremont's Commitments to the Boardless Scribe.

FREMONT, July 18

The juvenile skull and crossbones who draws a yearly stipend from Jay Gould for steering one of the handles to that wind-scavenger—the Omaha Republican—and whose only recommendations for this honorable position were a lack of principle and an overwhelming amount of cheek, has discovered something very startling in the declaration of principles of the Fremont anti-monopoly league.

Now as these principles are the same as adopted by the anti-monopoly convention held at Lincoln last June, it is somewhat surprising that we have not heard from this corporation "load stabber" before in regard to these principles. He has probably just received word from Jay Gould to open his mouth, and in his endeavor to do as his master bid him, he has opened it so wide that he has jammed his foot slap into it. He says the Fremont league is composed of "a dozen Democrats and a couple of Rosenzers." To commence with, this is a contemptible lie, and there is no question but that he knew he was lying when he penned those words. But he is paid for doing this dirty work, and he really expects nothing better from him.

This article of little over a column in length reads so much like the articles that Mr. Vining used to write to the Fremont Tribune in reply to Theron Nye (the paternal ancestor of this roster) that one cannot doubt but that they are the "so-called descendants of a common progenitor." The article in which I refer was written and published several years ago. Mr. Nye complained very bitterly of the discrimination against business men of Fremont by the Union Pacific railway company. The discussion got to be very hot, Mr. Nye reiterating his charges of discrimination and discrimination and of giving nothing with all the same possible for a man in his position. Does this sort of Jay Gould remember these articles? Did he think then and does he think now that his father was a "political mudrill" for defending himself against this robbing institution?

Again, he says that Fremont has not suffered at the hands of railway companies, and again he knows he lies. Every farmer and every dealer in merchandise that ships a loaded car across the bridge at Omaha and pays that toll of from five to ten dollars, suffers at the hands of railway companies. In Council Bluffs, Iowa, coal is being retailed at $3.50 per ton. We pay for the same article here in Fremont $6 per ton. Of course this extra $2.50 per ton does not tend to our disadvantage. On the contrary, this is probably what gives to Fremont the position of an important interior city, with a splendid market and large business performance. "Oh! consistency, thou art a jewel."

Again he says: "However, if a genuine republican should happen to become imbued with anti-monopoly principles, it would be a good thing for him to remember that his party is composed of honest men, &c."

About the best thing for a citizen of Nebraska to remember is that he is a republican in congress by a notorious, dishonest and corrupt third class politician, and whose name is Valentine. In connection with this it would be quite as well to remember also that the Omaha Republican has used and is using every means whether honorable or dishonorable, to whitewash this political cancer, and then has the brazen impudence to parade its filthy carcass before intelligent people as an honest paper.

Unquestionably there are honest men in the republican party, as there is in the democratic party, and these are the very men who are becoming members of the anti-monopoly league and farmers' alliances. They are men who have not grasped the iron coils of the Dodge county jail. They have never sold themselves body and soul to corrupt corporations. They are honest men, earning their living by the sweat of their brow. They are men who have been plundered of their hard-earned money by corporation kings and their tools. And, furthermore, they far outnumber "a dozen democrats and a couple of Rosenzers," as Valentine and Fred. Nye will learn to their sorrow before the fall campaign is over.

Very truly yours,

ANTI-MONOPOLY.

BOARD OF TRADE COMMITTEE.

A Meeting to Consider the Old Paving Problem. The committee on paving of the board of trade, met yesterday afternoon, Guy Barton chairman. Max Meyer, P. E. Her, W. J. Broatch and Thomas Gibson were present. President Clark, of the board, also attended. The committee first adopted recommendations to the city council in regard to measures preventive of tearing up the streets when paved, and then considering the utility of a thorough foundation before paving, as one of the most important steps toward the permanency of pavements. After having fairly entered upon their work the committee adjourned until to-day.

The recommendation to the city council was that an ordinance should be passed requiring owners of lots to lay service pipes, gas, etc., on all streets that are to be paved, wherever the paving is decided upon, and before the laying of pavements begins. In respect to foundation the committee reported that whatever form of pavement should be adopted the foundation should be composed of broken stone and sand or concrete.

Northern Pacific Railroad Land Grants.

PHILADELPHIA RECORD. A bare majority of the fifteen members of the judiciary committee of the house reported in effect that the lands of the Northern Pacific railroad company were non-forfeitable. Seven members of the committee, under the lead of Proctor Knott, dissent from this conclusion. As given by The New York Sun correspondent, the minority report sets forth that the Northern Pacific was chartered by act of congress approved June 4, 1864, in which a conditional grant of land was made, estimated by the auditor of railroad accounts at 52,920,000 acres or 90,500 square miles. In 1870 congress authorized the company to issue bonds to aid in constructing and equipping the road, the bonds to be secured by mortgage on its rights and property of all kinds. Under this authority the company issued in the following July $30,000,000 of bonds, to run thirty years, at 7 1/2-10 per cent. interest. The report intimates that the crash of 1873 was brought on by the ability of those interested in the Northern Pacific to keep it longer afloat. The real value of its bonds was disclosed then, and they continued to decline until April, 1875, when the foreclosure proceedings were begun in New York. Under decree of the court the property and franchises were sold, and purchased by a committee for the bondholders. The bonds had gone down before the suit was brought to 20 cents on the dollar, and before the decree to 14 cents. The report infers, therefore, that at the time of the sale the largest part of the bonds were in the hands of speculators, who had bought them up at these low figures. So far as the stock of the company is concerned, no quotations appear from the time of the failure of Jay Cooke & Co., but the report says it was a notorious fact that the stock was held at merely a nominal value, and that large blocks were sold at from 5 to 10 cents on the dollar.

On September 30, 1875—the company having been organized on a plan by which the bondholders were to be reimbursed for the principal and interest on their bonds up to July 1, 1878, in preferred stock at par, entitled to 8 per cent. interest, before any other dividends were paid, these bonds to be convertible into certain bonds belonging to the company—preferred stock to the amount of $91,000,000 was issued to the holders of common stock in the old company, share for share, to the amount of $49,000,000. If the legality of these proceedings be admitted, says the report, the stockholders obtained $100,000,000 in preferred and common stock, with the franchises and property of the company, including the right to 90,000 square miles of land, at a probable outlay of twelve millions or less. The most prodigious generosity could only allow the company a sufficient amount of land to enable it to finish its road free of cost. Eleven hundred and eighty miles of the road are now completed, or 500 more than when the auditor's last report was made. This amount of the road 27,800,000 earned acres. The average price the land heretofore sold has brought has been $3.46 an acre. The lands already earned amount to $139,000,000. The low figure estimates the average cost per mile at $28,000, and as there remain 600 miles to be built, the cost will be $178,400,000. If this sum be deducted from the $139,000,000, the estimated worth of the land already earned, the report argues that the company has already received enough to enable it to build its remaining line free of cost, besides getting $21,500,000 over and above.

Again, the auditor reports that the whole number of miles upon which the company is entitled over subsidy is 2,450, or 600 more than the committee estimates the length of the main line to be. The additional 600 miles, at $28,000 a mile, would cost $16,800,000 over and above the cost of all the subsidized lines, main and branch. The auditor estimates the cost of the entire system of roads of the company at $75,000,000. This subtracted from the value of the land already earned leaves a $140,000,000, which the report calls a gift to the company over and above the cost of building the road. The report makes another estimate on land already earned. The report suggests that "this is enough to satisfy the equity of the company," and this it gets beyond precavence. But if there be applied to auditor's estimates to the grant, earned and unearned, the result is that the land figured at $2.50 an acre is worth $144,800,000. The estimated total cost of the entire road is $74,363,410, leaving a balance of $70,436,590, which, the report says, is donated to the company in addition to the entire cost of the road. For this colossal gift it is suggested that the United States is never to receive one penny in return. In view of these facts, the report very naturally recommends that all lands remaining unearned on January 1, 1882, be forfeited to the United States.
