A Jug Handled Contest Between the Leavenworth Reds and the Council Bluffs Nine.

It seemed as if the weather was determined to spoil the promised sport of a exciting contest between the Council Bluffs nine and the Leavenworth Reds. The rain did succeed in spoiling the arrangements for the game Friday afternoon, and on Saturday there seemed no better promise of any better condition of affairs, but the boys were nerved on to play, partly because such strong pressure had been brought to bear from the Omaha ball tossers to get the Reds to throw up the engagement here, and play here.

Table showing scores of the game between Council Bluffs and Leavenworth. Includes columns for AB, R, H, E, PO, A, E and rows for various players like Strook, G. K. Smith, Mack, Hart, Clinton, etc.

Evils to be Avoided. Over-eating is in one sense as productive of evil as intemperance in drinking. Avoid both, and keep the blood purified with BUNGE'S BLOOD PURIFIER, and you will be rewarded with robust health and an invigorated system. Price $100. j25-41w POSTOFFICE ROBBERS. Who Were Promptly Caught With the Plunder in Their Possession. Correspondence of The Bee.

WEST SIDE, IOWA, July 28.—Last night about midnight some parties broke open the hardware store and postoffice of H. B. Allen, at Walled Lake, and carried away valuables, including stamps, registered letters, small amount of money, and number of revolvers. They forced the door open by prying with chisels and bars, which they left when they retired. Deputy Constable Geo. Burgan and Lewis Stella, his assistant, arrived here this forenoon with a team, and assisted by Deputy Sheriff McCracken and Marshal A. Schuyler, of this place, made a successful "still hunt" of the town, culminating in the arrest of two hard looking young men, as they were about to take "foot passage" westward on the track. They started the foot race while they pulled out their revolvers, of which they had a good supply, but they concluded not to use them when they discovered the sharp officers had the drop on them, and began throwing the silver-plated pistols into the grass. Both were caught after a few minutes search among the freight cars and tall grass and weeds, and ironed together they were loaded into a wagon and started on a return to Walled Lake. They had quite a "kit" of burglar tools, such as drills, punches, fuse, several stolen revolvers, money and postage stamps. The officers of Walled Lake are spoken of in terms of praise for their great promptness and efficient action, and they feel confident they have the evidence to convict, beyond a doubt, and the general impression was expressed that these parties are hardened in crime. Among other things one of them offered to tell where he threw a revolver if the constable would give him a dollar. The money was promptly given him and they found the death messenger as he told them. A Friend in Need. Time over and again THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL has proved a salutary friend to the distressed. As a reliable curative for croup in children, sore throat and bronchial affections, and as a positive external remedy for pain, it is a never-failing antidote. j25-41w

IOWA ITEMS. The new Congregational church at Hanlan was dedicated Sunday, the 23d instant.

A law school has been established in Keokuk in connection with the college of Physicians and Surgeons. Two young men who last spring in Butler county brutally outraged a Miss Needham, have just been arrested in Auburn.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad company will build an extension of their road from Ottumwa to Sigourney.

The Clarissa C. Cook home for indigent females, at Davenport, is completed at a cost of $25,000, exclusive of five acres of ground donated for the site.

The contract for building the new hotel to be put up at Emmetsburg by the Scottish American land company has been let for $19,000.

Tipton is having trouble with her electric light company. The light, in a act of going forty cents a day, as first figured, requires 800 pounds of coal to run it one night.

On a train near Ottumwa the other day a maner grossly insulted a young lady who was traveling alone. She appealed to the conductor for protection, and to his credit be said he gave the scoundrel a vigorous thumping.

The Des Moines Leader has a special from Lowrie, saying that there are eighteen cases of small pox at Lake City, Calhoun county, that three deaths had occurred, and another was hourly expected.

P. McCoy, of Boone, while drawing the pump out of his well to clean it, lost his balance and fell headfirst into the well. He was not missed for several hours, and when found his feet only were sticking out of the water.

The governor has appointed A. A. Reynolds, of Clinton; S. P. Bryan and C. S. Watkins, of Davenport; Mrs. George G. Wright, of Des Moines, and Mrs. A. C. Lowely, of Madison, to represent Iowa at the national conference of charities and correction at Madison, August 7.

Mrs. Clute, of Pacific Junction, is the banner woman as a bread winner. She sets all of the type for the Gazette, and at odd times performs all of the household duties for her family, consisting of her husband, herself and two boarders, cooking three full meals a day, and is as happy and cheerful as a lark.

A Marshallowen mother was startled the other day at hearing piercing shrieks from her baby, which she put on the grass in the front yard, and running quickly to the spot was horrified to see that a hog had the little innocent by the ear and was dragging it away. The child has a sore ear but otherwise is all right.

Fortunes of Farmers and Merchants. Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgment in taking care of the health of yourself and family. If you are ill, have a low complexion, poor appetite, and depressed spirits, and generally debilitated, do not delay a moment, but get at once, and procure a bottle of those wonderful Electric Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of 25 cents.—Tribune. Sold by C. F. Goodman.

American Hero Worship. The story ran along one of the Pennsylvania lines of railroad that the illustrious son of Boston, Mr. Sullivan, whose fame has suffered some slight eclipse owing to his failure to carry out a contract relative to the suppression of the gentleman from England known in the sporting world as Tug Wilson, was on board one of the trains. If the announcement had been that Arabi Pasha was passing that way with Admiral Seymour in hot pursuit, it could not have created more popular interest. At every station the platforms were crowded with throngs of people, many of whom had abandoned their work to catch a glimpse of the victor of Paddy Ryan. There was everywhere a loud demand that the hero step forward to receive his merited plaudits. The conductor of the train, advised of the excitement along the line and desirous of doing what lay in his power to gratify the grateful curiosity of his countrymen and reflect honor upon his train, induced the drummer of a New York shirt house to personate Mr. Sullivan. He appeared upon the platform of the car and bowed like a Chesterfield while the brassy admirers of the exponents of the manly art cheered him without stint. This farce was kept up all along the line. If this particular drummer had as much muscle as drummers are generally supposed to have of cheek, he would have passed readily enough for the "best" man in America. If a great philanthropist had been upon the train, some renowned humanitarian, some great professor of the healing art, some rescuer of the world, would the workers of these shops have thrown down their tools to run out and cheer him on his way!

Frank Bardal, North Bennett street, Buffalo, says: "I have tried your Spitzer's Balm as a family medicine, and have never come across anything to do so much good in so short a time in cases of indigestion, dyspepsia and derangement of the stomach; I strongly recommend it." Price 50 cents; trial bottles 10 cents. j25-41w

A WOMAN'S GRIT AND GRIP. Holding by the Gown a somnambulist Who was Suspended from an Upper Story Window.

Atlanta Constitution. Last night a lady who resides on Ivy St. was "at home" to quite a number of her friends, and a pleasant evening was the result. Before the hour for separation had arrived, however, one of the guests of the lady was taken quite ill and escorted to a bed room, where she was disrobed and made free as easy as every possible kindness could offer. About 12 o'clock she fell into a quiet sleep, and the young lady who was watching by her side, thinking that her guest had forgotten her pills in sweet slumber, lay down upon a sofa beside a window in the room, and was soon lost in the arms of the world. How long she slept she does not know, but while in the midst of a pleasant dream she felt something brush across her face, and with a start, awoke. Her awaking saved the life of her friend, but came near causing her own death.

The something which brushed across her face and awoke her was the night-dress of that friend, who had, in a somnambulist fit, arisen from her bed and walked across the room to the window beside which the lady was sleeping. To get to the window she crawled over the sleeping form of her host, and then began an exit which must have resulted in death but for the work of her gown. Hardly realizing what she was doing, the lady grabbed the white fabric which had aroused her with both hands, and as she did so her ears were greeted with screams just outside the window. In an instant she realized that she was holding her friend in mid-air, and that to loosen her grasp on the cloth was to insure her death. She was not physically strong, but with a nerve rarely equalled she tightened her hold and then joined in with her friend's call for aid. Soon their combined screams awoke the inmates of the house, who hastened to the room and rescued the young lady from her aerial position. As soon as the somnambulist, for such she acknowledged herself to be, was drawn into the room, the young lady who awoke her life fainter and this morning her nervous prostration is so great that her friends are in great anxiety for her.

Skimpy Men. "Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Impotency, Sexual Debility. $1. Dairy Farming. St. Louis Dispatch.

If Americans are the most extravagant meat-eaters in the world it is because they have more meat of good quality to eat than any other people. Our western prairies abound in cattle, our western farms with sheep and pigs, and our forests have been well supplied with game; and these sources of supply have given us not only an abundance of cheap flesh, but a greater variety to choose from than is to be found elsewhere, except some of the distant British provinces. But it is becoming evident that meat will not always be abundant and cheap. The sharp warning conveyed in the rise in prices last spring cannot be safely overlooked. That sudden and unlooked-for advance was caused by the perishing of cattle in Colorado and Montana in the severe winter of 1881, and the starving that followed the drought of last summer—and these causes may be encountered again. Besides, the western states are settling up rapidly, and farms and fences are taking up the lands that served as free feeding ranges. Cotton and grain farms are pushing the feeding ground in Texas further and further west every year; and the plains and valleys of Colorado and Montana are being gradually converted into farms, from which all cattle, except such as belong to the land-owners, are excluded. Ten years from now six or seven million souls will have been added to our population, and this will materially circumscribe the areas now occupied as free feeding grounds for cattle. A short grain or potato crop may be made good in a single year, but the destruction made in cattle herds by a severe winter or a calamitous drought, which causes animals to perish for want of forage and water, cannot be repaired for several years. With a succession of the foregoing of young animals by liberal feeding, the present scarcity may be overcome, and the price of meat brought down to a point within the reach of laboring men. But it is possible that the day of cheap meat in the country is ended; that beef and mutton will be exalted into a luxury, and that families of limited means will need to provide themselves with such substitutes as can be obtained. In the old countries cheese is the favorite substitute for meat, and it is largely used in England, Scotland and France. Our people have not treated this estimable article of food with the respect it is entitled to, and a very large proportion of the cheese made in the country figures chiefly in our export tables; it goes abroad to be eaten by Europeans, who more accurately appreciate it. An American laborer would regard a meal of bread and cheese as poor fare, and even the fashion in higher circles which prescribes a bit of cheese after dinner as an agent of digestion is reluctantly observed. In Europe the article is considered the basis of a good meal, and in families of limited means, and a dinner of bread and cheese, with some cheap beverage as an accompaniment, is never despised. Cheese eating will certainly increase with the scarcity of meat, and this will cause cheese-making to become an important feature in western agriculture. The creamery system inaugurated in Iowa and Northern Illinois gives the key to the most economical and satisfactory method of converting milk into both butter and cheese, and as the demand for these articles must grow with the increasing scarcity of meat, dairy farming cannot but continue a profitable—the most profitable—form of agriculture in the west.

Nearly a Miracle. E. Asmitz, Hall, Binghamton, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for several months with a dull pain through left lung and shoulders. I lost my spirits, appetite and color, and could with difficulty keep up my day. My mother procured some BUNGE'S BLOOD PURIFIER; took them as directed, and have felt no pain since first week after using them, and am now quite well." Price $1.00. j25-41w
