LOCAL BREVITIES

"Fritz in Ireland" at the Opera House to-night.

Twenty-eight cars of stock came in on the U. P. yesterday.

The water mains leading to the state fair grounds are being distributed.

There was a bad break in the water pipe yesterday, which flooded the vicinity of 17th and Isard streets.

The fifty feet extension of the grand stand at the associations grounds will be finished by Saturday.

The Academy of Music will reopen this evening with a powerful company, Manager Nugent at the helm.

N. B.—A contract for 100,000 yards of sheet asphalt is to be let in Washington Saturday, there being 400,000 already.

There will be no matinee performance at Boyd's Opera House today. Those having purchased tickets will have their money refunded.

The festival at Grace Mission Wednesday evening in aid of Trinity Cathedral building fund was a complete success. The net proceeds amounting to $60.

A six year old son of Max Boehneke living in North Omaha had his arm broken Thursday afternoon. Dr. Neville attended him and he is doing as well as can be expected.

The following are the announcements of Union Pacific agents: B. & M., August 5; Dubuque, August 12; Wahoon, August 19; Standards, of St. Louis, Mo., August 26.

Re-Mayor Vaughan, of Council Bluffs, telegraphed Mr. Julius Thiele, of Tiroll gardens to send his Bavarian band over yesterday to play at a festival to be held six miles from Council Bluffs.

Two plain drunks and two disturbers of the peace were dealt with by Judge Denke yesterday. Four men arrested as tramps, for sleeping in box cars, proved to be farm laborers and were discharged.

One of the loveliest bouquets our reporter has received this season was given him by Mr. E. C. Erling, the 16th street florist the other evening, on the occasion of the blooming of his night blooming cereus.

Mr. J. Harris, the well known clothier, wishes a correction made in the report of Rosenfeld's failure. The location is not the southeast corner of Tenth and Farnam, but between Tenth and Eleventh streets on Farnam.

A man was arrested by Officer Jacobson Thursday afternoon on suspicion of being the same who robbed the Grand Island victim at the noon train, and the latter had been telegraphed to return by this morning's Denver train.

Pile drying for the new freight depot of the B. & M. railway, near the foot of Harney street, has commenced. Contractor Stephenson has nearly finished excavating and filling in the pond. The new depot will be spacious and substantial.

Much credit is due Messrs. W. C. Burnham and Arthur Hall, the two employees at Mr. A. B. Habermann's, for their wise action Thursday by which the diamonds were recovered from Kusick. They deserve the highest compliments for their clever work.

The Dean and Mrs. Millspaugh expressed themselves as pleased that so many of the parishioners and friends were present at the reception Thursday. Their only regret was that even more did not honor them at their general prayer gathering.

Three of the bridges across North Omaha creek are cut off from travel, that at 16th street, 23d street and 24th street. The first is owing to the work of constructing the sewer, the second for repairs and the last is the one broken down by the mules, which is still unbroken.

Hon. A. J. Hancock is erecting a magnificent row of buildings on Capitol avenue near Sixteenth street. The style of architecture is the same as the celebrated Bovee row that ornamented Eighteenth street near Cass, some years ago.

The examination of Anthony Kusick for holding the Yates diamonds after they were found, will come off at 10 a. m. to-day. He is still in the county jail. His employes and houses speak very well of him and think he acted through ignorance entirely in retaining the property.

The train bound west had to back up and take a fresh start yesterday for some mysterious cause. As Capt. John B. Fury stood on one of the car platforms telling one of his Banquet's history stories to Col. Frank Hanlon, it is supposed that this operated as a six brake and had the effect of bringing the train to a halt.

A terrible runaway occurred Thursday evening on 20th and Cumine streets. The driver jumped out and escaped with a fractured ankle, and the horse ran all the way to 12th street before he was caught, taking the insurance at a loss.

The B. & M.'s will go into today's game with three new players who have just arrived from the east. Jones, the pitcher, and Steers, the catcher, are both said to be fine players. The third is an unknown professional from Buffalo, N. Y., who is expected in time for today's game. Today's game will be one of the events of the season.

The BEE desires to call the attention of the county commissioners to the existence of a fine healthy bed of Canada thistles in the neighborhood of the U. P. stock yards. It is to be hoped that the C. C. will take steps at once to have these pests removed before they go to seed, otherwise great damage to crops will be the result.

A special telegram from THE BEE correspondent announces the safe arrival in Cheyenne of the Omaha Board of Trade excursionists at noon yesterday.

Prof. Perry, of Williams college, will lecture in this city, on Wednesday evening next, on the subject of the tariff. He is a free trader.

"FRITZ IN IRELAND" Joe Emmett at Boyd's Opera House Last Night.

The attendance at the Boyd last night filled the theatre from parquette to ceiling. The potent attraction was Mr. J. K. Emmett in "Fritz in Ireland."

Mr. Emmett is still at the head of the list of actors who essay his line of business. His voice has not all its early and original sweetness, but his pathos, his acting, his sketches and his placid humor are such as have never been before.

It was, perhaps, more to enjoy the latter than to delight in the former, that the audience had gathered, well knowing that time, even with such notes as were those of Emmett's, too often deals most harshly. As a consequence, the attendance was amusee, may, delighted. And frequent bursts of laughter, alternating with volumes of applause, attend the delight. It made little difference that the piece struggled bravely to be a melo-drama, and to interest the auditors by a complicated plot which nobody cared to follow; it was of no matter that the incidents abounded, and, consequently, that probability was scattered to the winds, the audience enjoyed it greatly. Mr. Emmett sang about a half a dozen of his prettiest songs, the most successful being "The Cuckoo" and "The Brother's Lullaby." In the latter, as of old, and to the writer it is a remembrance of nearly thirteen years, the marvelous and sympathetic style and tone, which have so often made the auditor's eyes glisten with tears, were noticed by stirring effect.

It is not Mr. Emmett's fault, perhaps, that a very noticeable mediocrity would characterize a number of his supporting company. It is true, some of the performers had but little, very little to do, but it is not Mr. Emmett's fault, perhaps, that a very noticeable mediocrity would characterize a number of his supporting company. NEW ENGINE HOUSE

Chief Engineer Butler's Plans—It Will be Up in Ninety Days.

The subscription of $500 by the citizens of Omaha, with the addition of the $1,000 voted by the city council for the purpose, will at once be utilized for the erection of a horse-car house on the old site occupied by No. 2, just north of Strang's block, on Tenth street.

Chief Butler says he is not an architect, but knows what he wants, and his plans are already drawn for the building, which he expects to complete for occupancy within ninety days. It is to be a two-story brick building, 22 by 44 feet in size. The first floor will contain a horse cart room (engines being discarded), 20 by 28 feet in size; two stalls for horses, a grain room and long-hose rack, towers being out of place. On the second floor there will be a sleeping room, 20 by 24, for the boys, a hay and grain room, bath room and water closets.

While the $1,500 seems a small amount, the house will be worth much more, as the chief and his men will do all the carpenter work themselves and much of the other work, and will save expense in many directions. The house will be in the way of the lot about $2,000, and will contain all the modern improvements and facilities for quick work.

The work will be begun at once, in fact when the alarm sounded this morning Mr. Butler was just starting to see the city engineer and get the grade of the lot, so that the dirt might be removed right away. The chief hopes to get a similar house on No. 3's lot by next summer, as the present one is not only unhealthy, damp and bad, but actually unsafe to life. The tower is rotten six feet up from the foundation, and is propped to keep from being blown over on Alf Jones' house.

A FIREMAN'S FIRE Charles G. Hunt's Residence Badly Damaged Yesterday.

About 10 o'clock yesterday a fire broke out in the house of Assistant Chief Engineer Charles Hunt, on Nineteenth street, between Nicholas and Paul. The fire was first discovered by a neighbor, Mr. Louis Faiste, who sent the alarm in to No. 1, and the boys were soon on the grounds and had a stream on. They had a hard fight before they could overcome all the obstructions. The rear part of the building, where the fire originated, was badly used up, and the department worked hard to save the remainder. About the time the fire was out the Hooks arrived with the Chief and No. 2, and rendered all the assistance possible under the circumstances.

The loss to Mr. Hunt will be heavy, although he has policies on both horse and furniture in McKoon & Sturgis' agency for $400 on the former and $300 on the latter.

The cause of the delay in the arrival of the Hooks and No. 2 was a trouble in the circuit, owing to which the alarm, which was sent in from box 17, did not come in correctly, as it sounded first three strokes and then one, so he was unable to ascertain the whereabouts of the fire until a telephone message came in. Further, he stated that the wires are rusty and out of order, and it would be necessary to put them in shape immediately. The loss he estimates at about $600.

Nut-Lock Washer Company. Articles of incorporation of the Van Kuran Elastic Nut Lock Washer company have been filed in the county clerk's office. The object of the company is to establish manufactories and to manufacture washers for railway rail-joints and other purposes.

The principal place of business is to be at Omaha. The capital stock is $50,000, divided into five hundred shares of $100 each. 20 per cent of the stock to be paid at the time of subscription, and the balance as called for by the board of directors. The highest amount of liability or indebtedness to which the corporation shall at any time subject itself is $10,000.

The affairs of the corporation are to be conducted by a board of five directors, and by a president, vice president, treasurer, secretary and general manager.

The time of commencement of the corporation was June 30, 1882, and its limitation will be June 30th, 1981. The articles of incorporation are signed by C. B. Rustin, president; C. O. Howell, vice president, and S. VanKuran, secretary.

Stephenson's Mania. It would seem that Jim Stephenson cannot rest unless he is engaged in some work of improvement. His palatial stables were handsome enough already for the most particular, but Jim has gone to work and added still further to their beauty by refitting his office quarters. The walls are superbly papered; oil paintings of equine subjects appear at intervals; the floor is laid in marble, and both the public and private rooms are most tastefully furnished to correspond. Altogether Jim has one of the finest business headquarters in the city, and the mania for having everything about him cozy and neat is most worthy of imitation.

"Gilded Palaces of Sin." To the Editor of The Bee: In your issue of Thursday you close an article as follows: "There seems to be a mania for coziness among the clerical employees in the country these days, but whether it comes from a desire to live beyond their means or because they are obliged to work for such small salaries that they cannot support themselves honestly and respectably, it is hard to say."

To this the undersigned would add that the explanation is not difficult so long as we continue for the education

RELIGIOUS RACKET.

The State Sabbath School Convention at Fremont.

The State Sabbath school convention which has been in session at Fremont during the past week held its closing session Thursday at the opera house.

The representatives from the various schools of Omaha were delightedly entertained by the citizens of Fremont, and they give glowing reports of the success of the convention.

There were nearly one hundred and fifty delegates present. Twenty-three counties report organizations, and during the ensuing year it is hoped that many more will be organized. It was much desired that Douglas county should fall into line with an active association, and it will be the endeavor of the member of the state executive committee from this and Sarpy counties to have a good work organized before the next convention.

Among those from a distance who aided materially in the convention were Messrs. F. G. Ensign, of Chicago, and Wm. Reynolds, of Peoria, Ills. Their advice and counsel for future work among the youth of our rapidly growing state will assist the state workers very much.

The convention closed with a memorial service in commemoration of Col. Watson B. Smith, who was an earnest worker in the Sabbath school cause. It was much regretted that Rev. A. F. Sherrill, of this city, was unable to be present. In his absence tributes were paid to his memory by Mr. Q. P. Gage, of Fremont, Mrs. La Follett, and Geo. T. Howser, general secretary of Omaha Y. M. C. A., and Rev. J. W. Osborn, of Fremont.

A Conundrum. Is the right to vote is inherent in this nation, then why cannot women vote now?—DEB.

There may be several answers to this conundrum, but the one that first occurs to me is that you and I and several other gentlemen have declared that she should not, and we have enacted the declaration into a law and made it a part of our constitution, and, as you have frequently remarked, the army and navy stand at our backs to help us enforce the interdiction. Can't you think up something hard?

The Olive Branch Correspondence of The Bee. COLUMBIAN, Neb., August 3.—I see from your correspondent at Plum Creek that I. P. Olive is missing. He is here with 700 head of horses now and seems to be in good health.

WAITERS WANTS.

They Demand More Wages and Get Them.

The waiters employed at the Millard became dissatisfied recently at their work, which they thought too heavy, and their wages they thought too light.

The Millard has had an unprecedented run of business since it opened, and almost every night has turned away from twenty-five to fifty guests, after doubling up all that was possible. This, of course, made the dining room work quite heavy, and there was a kick.

The proprietors telegraphed to Chicago for six additional waiters, who arrived yesterday, but demanding $25 a month, where the regular wages were $20, they were allowed to take a walk, which they did. This was shortly before the dinner hour yesterday and the regular forces, "taking the bull by the horns," walked down to the office and demanded $25 a month. No $25 no grub for guests. It was a ground hog case and the managers gracefully acquiesced.

The waiters went back to work and the hungry travelers got their Monday meal as usual. It is safe, however, to predict that about sixteen new faces will be seen in the Millard dining room in the course of the next month.

HIS LAST JOURNEY. The Remains of William Aust Will Arrive in Omaha To-day.

A special dispatch to THE BEE last evening announced the fact that the body of the late William Aust arrived at Sidney yesterday afternoon from the grave on Snake creek, in charge of Mr. H. Nieman, who was sent out by the Knights of Pythias to remove it to this city for final interment.

The remains were forwarded by express from Sidney last evening, and will arrive at 3:25 p. m. to-day. They will lie in state at Undertaker Jacob's establishment until Sunday at 2 p. m., when they will be buried under the auspices of the K. of P.

NELIGH NOTES. Correspondence of The Bee. NELIGH, Neb., August 1.—Having some business interests at this place and vicinity I have been spending a few weeks here. I have taken special pains to look over the crops and improvements of this section and wish to call the attention of your many readers to the garden of Nebraska. I have had the pleasure of meeting several tourists from Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin, and all unite in the one opinion that the Elkhorn Valley contains the best crops that they have seen.

I may be a little more enthusiastic from the fact that I have just visited by the kind invitation of Captain R. K. Beecham his forty acre farm just outside the village limits.

Captain Beecham is the senior editor of The Neigh Republican, was a soldier in the war of the rebellion from the beginning to the end, and is made of that kind of material that makes good soldiers, and also makes the West blossom and bring forth the evidence of the latter, is abundant by looking over his, what is popularly called in this section, a "cabbage patch farm."

The Captain's garden contains everything that can be practically produced in this climate, and its rank, healthy growth speaks more than my pen can not only for the soil but for the work and management bestowed upon it. His efforts in horticulture have been equally successful and can not be excelled in the Elkhorn Valley, if in the state. The Neigh Republican is an independent newspaper, and the fact that Captain Beecham owns so good a farm and garden, has a tendency to make and keep him and his newspaper independent. He has not found it necessary to ask or accept a pass over any railroad in the state, and will not dance to party music unless he is suited with the kind of music they furnish. He feels very confident that he can live and make his paper live without supporting "Our Val" for the sake of land office patronage or any other consideration.

I most heartily congratulate Antelope county and Neigh in the possession of one editor and one paper that is truly independent politically and able to defend those principles on which our government is founded.

I cannot close this letter without calling attention to the "Advocate," a weekly republican paper published here by one of Val's editors. Last week the "Advocate" printed the name of E. K. Valentine for member of congress, and if this suit to his proposed party was not sufficient, this week he proposed the name of E. S. Barber for secretary of state, both of these rights on the heels of the recently published exposures of fraud by Val, and usurpation of power for Val's benefit by the other.

One of the leading republicans of this county (no friend to Valentine, however), told me that he had been asked to name his price if he had any, so it seems that the monopolies have just the tool they want in Val, and that money is to be poured out in sufficient quantity to elect him.

Now if this last is disputed, I will give the name of the party and back it with two affidavits that never have been questioned.

Yours for right against monopoly. D.
