A Remarkable Instance of the Fact in Western Iowa and Nebraska.

Gen. Grant the Club Candidate for Governor of New York.

MAPLE RIVER JUNCTION, Ia., August .- Western Iowa, like Nebraska, this and west, we find there is a noticeable change, and the corn is small and in that condition is "topping out" and rarely found, although oats and other small grains are plenty, and have generally done better than corn in this wet season. Here the rye, barley and wheat are good, "better than the toes here ever grown in Western Iowa, and perhaps the same may be said of corn and wheat. Every stranger from Nebraska, or learned from the tourist, of this water shed and begins to conprehend the "richness of a western harvest," and contemplates the mystery of the hidden wealth that to-day is gushing out of these prairie farms, as abundantly as oil from a great flowing oil well, and fils the mind of the beholder with visions of the "Gold of Ophir," the "Fountain of vouth," and the In Stock and Manufacturthe "Fountain of youth," and the "Land of perpetual spring," while it repeats the oft-suggested thought of All Goods Warranted as the "greatness," as well as richness of these prairies, and the important part these western states will soon play in the political as well as commercial re-MRS. The party papers admonish all to rally around the grand and glorious parties, and pretend to lash all who dare to break away from the heard. Congressmen vote millions for the public good, but that "good" is party first and the nation afterward, and disreputable men are put forward to honorable places, because they have done good stealing or have faithfully helped to cover up the rottenness of party rule. When, only a few days ago, an editor of Iowa, with his right hand raised for an emphatic his right hand raised for an emphatic the young lady over the long and stroke upon the table, said, in answer fruitless visits of the chronic caller to my question, "Yes, sir, the lowest, and most damnable republican who stands in shoes, is better than a democrat," I began to review the field to see if that is the feeling of any outside of the wire pullers who are trying to whip the party into line and get, or retain office. I aslo look for the signs of sincerity among the leaders, and I challenge the honest thinking man to-day to find any evidence to prove a contradiction to the maxim given by Bob. soll at Cieveland, that Ingerpeople have long been deceived into believing that the control of caucuses is patriotism, and that party management is statesmanship," and the second statement that the men who are doing the heavy work to-day in the various states for both republican and democratic parties are generally working under the general management of a "general pool," that really defeats which ever party it chooses, and elects it own choice, while keeping up the party, with the usual amount of prohibition, woman suffrage, anti-Mormon, or Chinese, thrown in for variety, and as new capitul stock with which to trade for new votes. I will give a few facts to explain my position. We find by careful examination that in many towns in western Iowa and Nebrasks, the editors of both parties who are shouting for "party," always have a good understanding between them, and know ust how to work together with and for the "powers that be," just as The Omaha Herald and Republican al-ways have the "key note" given them, and the exact time to start, so every-but the people of the nation are watching the "cause and effect," the new moves on the checker-board, and the public are beginning to distrust every movement that is brought up under the leadership and cry of "party," especially the two old parties, beheving that where the cry of "party" is raised there new deviltry is being planted. The people are saying "stand aside" and we will select men for ourselves. It may seem severe to speak thus plainly, but the people feel it, and are waiting for men to appear who are "tried in the fire," and they will gather around such; and we are forced to tell the truth and note the fact that such feeling does exist, and like Humphrey Gifford said, "I cannot say the crow is

These facts are seen in counted as they left the hold of the most every county in Nebraska, and quite recently in Western Iowa. A good man and a good republican was into new barrels holding about fifty whipped in an election because the Union Pacific road dare not trust him with a seat in the Iowa legisla-ture, and it became necessary for the official republican managers to work hard to get the democratic candidate shipped to England, from whence elected. "Wanted to creep up stairs withou my hearing you, eh! Didn't think is was an hour after midnight, did you?" The girl made no reply, and the mother continued: "Did he propose this time?"

"Why, mother!" exclaimed the daughter. "You can 'why mother' all you want to, but don't I know he has been coming here for the last year! Don't I know that you have burned up at least four tons of coal courting around here? The girl got her shoes off, and the mother stood in the stair door and asked:

"Emeline, have you got any grit?" "I guess so." "I guess you haven't. I just wish that fellow with false teeth and a mole on his chin would come sparking me.

Do you know what would happen, "Well, I'll tell you. He'd come to time in sixty days or he'd get out of this mansion like a goat jumping for

And Emeline went to bed hugging this thought to her bosom. Occasionally such visits become se burdensome that the young lady talks to the young man herself.
