MINOR MENTIONS.

—J. Mueller's Palace Music Hall.

—Sherraden makes photographs.

—The old street cars are being repaired.

—Yesterday the waterworks company paid off their men.

—The August term of the circuit court is expected to open here Monday next.

—Justice Frainey yesterday adjusted three drunks, Boyd, Shaw and Kountze.

—At Shull's butcher shop, south Main street, you can always get the best meats at reasonable prices.

—The outgoing train eastward this afternoon will be over the Chicago & Rock Island.

—At the stock yards there were nineteen cars received by Haas Bros. & Co. No shipments.

—Information wanted of Ory Garnett, who resided in Council Bluffs last July, by his brother, William Garnett, late from Wisconsin. Any information leading to his whereabouts will be gratefully received. Address BEE office, Council Bluffs.

—Reuben Russell, of the water works gang, was yesterday complained of for shreatening to strike Moses Doty over the head with a shovel.

—Arrangements have been made for another exciting base ball contest, to take place between the Spaldings and Council Bluffs. The game is to be called at 4 o'clock.

—This afternoon a race is announced to take place at the driving park between L. Goldstein's horse and one of Dr. Cady's, the purse being for $100. The time fixed for the start is 2 o'clock.

—Rev. A. O. Ballard, of Corning, Iowa, will preach in the Presbyterian church tomorrow morning and evening, and, by order of the Presbytery, will declare the pulpit vacant.

—The authorities ought not to be too hasty about making private individuals fix up their sidewalks, so long as the walks about the Bloomer school building are in such a horrible condition.

—Justice Frainey had before him yesterday the old man Kountze who claimed to be swindled on circus day. The old man was fined for being drunk, while the fellows arrested for swindling him had escaped.

—Those who have had signs sticking out beyond their buildings on Main street and Broadway, have been compelled to pull them in. They in turn are now grumbling about the boxes and barrels which are allowed to obstruct the sidewalks.

—Arrangements have been made so that those of the Grand Army of the Republic who desire to attend the re-union at Grand Island, August 28, can do so for $5.15 round trip. The tickets to be good until September 4.

—To-morrow evening Rev. Mr. Lemon will deliver at the Baptist church, of which he is pastor, a discourse on "Progress of Thought in the Church," it being a review of Henry Ward Beecher's article in The North American Review for August. All are invited.

—Constable Fox, who lost a coat and much strength in arresting a crazy soldier who escaped from Fort Omaha, has sent in a bill for damage to clothing, but the officer in command returns it with the chilling information that there is no provision for paying such a claim.

—T. B. Walker was yesterday before Justice Frainey charged with assaulting T. B. Younghusman, his tenant. It appears that a dispute arose about the use of a team, and the most that was claimed by the latter was that Mr. Walker made use of hot words. The case is to be decided this morning.

—Despite the notices of warning some have been hitching horses to trees by Bayliss' park, and in several instances the horses have gnawed the bark and injured trees greatly. The officers are on the alert, and are determined to catch some of the offenders. They yesterday gave chase to one man but he escaped.

—A large number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor gathered at their residence, 706 Mynster street, on Thursday evening, to witness the opening of a night blooming cereus. Many of those present had never had such an opportunity before, as the flower is rare in these parts. This proved to be an unusually fine one, and it has been placed in spirits to preserve it, if possible.

—Yesterday afternoon Officer Tyson arrested a man sleeping off a drunk in a livery stable hay mow. While taking him to the station the fellow skipped up the alley, and on being overtaken by the officer showed fight; but he was forced to go along and be locked up. His name proved to be Robert Whiting, and he claims Valisca as his home.

—The commissioners appointed to locate the government building were yesterday closing contracts with those whose property they consider likely to be chosen. They will correspond with the department in reference to these before reaching a final conclusion, so that the location will probably not be fully determined for a week or ten days. It is understood that the choice will probably be either Keller's property, corner of Bryant and Broadway; Palmer's property, on Sixth and Broadway, or the Catholic property.

—Yesterday Officer Tyson met a woman on Pearl street who stopped him and desired to have him use his authority to stop the building that was going on in the city, as there was no one paying for it. She was anxious to have the brickyards closed up as the surest way to stop work. The officer took her to the court house to see about it, and the commissioners were notified of her evidently deranged condition. She proved to be Mrs. Tunk, of Hazel Dell township, whose husband is a shoemaker, and formerly lived here. She said she walked in from her home yesterday morning, a distance of ten miles, and her condition was that of one who had walked far in the dust. Her friends were sent for, and on their arrival the necessary papers were made out and last evening she was taken to the asylum.

—There have been frequent complaints about some of the special policemen. It was not long ago that one was charged with trying to secrete a man for whom one of the regular force was hunting. The matter was dropped, however. Some who attended the circus Thursday evening complain that one special policeman insisted on standing at the edge of the ring, obstructing the view of many in the audience. Some yelled for him to sit down and two or three of the circus men spoke to him about it, but he stubbornly refused for a half hour or so and then subsided. Men should learn that the authority to wear a star doesn't make them little gods.

—The Nonpareil has narrowed itself down to one argument only, by which it endeavors to force the anti-Anderson republicans into his support. It does not pretend any longer to urge voters to support Anderson because of his moral or intellectual fitness for the position. It has abandoned all attempts to disprove the serious charges preferred against him by men of his own party. Its argument now is simply that though he may be a bad man and a weak man, yet he is the republican nominee, and ought to be elected, because the next house may be close and the democrats may get a majority. The Nonpareil's position now is that if there was no danger of the democrats getting a majority in the next house, it might do to defeat Anderson, but as it is, he must be elected, bad or not bad. Thinking republicans will not be frightened by any such stuff. The simple question is whether Anderson is, or is not, a fit man to represent the republicans of this district? Each voter should decide that for himself. If he is a man who cannot be trusted, it would be far safer to elect him when there was an overwhelming republican majority in the house, rather than when there is a close contest. If he is a man morally corrupt, or intellectually, or both, he ought not to be elected at all by any party, or for any purpose. To force such a candidate on the party by one majority, and then try to crack a party whip over the back of honest voters, is not true republicanism.

SPOILED THE SPOILS.

An Engineer Saves a Green German From a Confidence Game Just in Time.

The Strange Indifference of a Policeman Who Was Watching the Affair.

Of late there have been several confidence tricks turned in the vicinity of the Drovers' hotel, and yesterday there was another one attempted, which fortunately for the victim was interfered with just in time to save him his money. James Burns, who is a most worthy engineer in the employ of the Chicago & Rock Island railway company about noon time noticed that a confidence shark had a German greenhorn in tow. Soon a friend of the confidence man came up and shook hands with him, and was introduced to the German. The three soon sat down on the street car track and were talking. Burns strolled over that way and plainly saw the German count out about $100 in tens and fives, and as he was about to give over the role of money to the sharpers. Burns asked the greenhorn to come over to him. He at first declined doing so, but as the request was repeated in a very peremptory tone, he went to Burns. At this time one of the confidence men had a check or receipt written out, ready to turn over for the money, but when they overheard Burns posting their victim, they started off at a lively gait and struck out for up town.

Policeman McMillan, the special day policeman at the Union Pacific depot, was apparently watching the performance from the window of his own house near by, but did not make any offer to stop the game or capture the men. It is said that several persons asked him afterwards why he did not arrest them, and his reply was, in substance, that there was no good in doing so, as they would not do anything with them up town.

It seems that the several tricks turned lately have been done by about the same parties each time, and that their haunt seems to be in the vicinity of the Drover's hotel. With the description given and their runaway known, it seems that the police might arrest them if they so chose to do. At least, there is no seeming excuse where a policeman sees the game going on himself. It indicates a bad state of affairs, indeed.

TAKING A TEAM.

A Stock Man Hunting After the Fellow Who Stole His Horses.

A day or two ago two men engaged in trading horses and dickering in stock came to this city from Fremont county. They gave the names of A. M. Smith and Sam Wilcott. Yesterday while Smith was looking after business in one part of the city, Wilcott disappeared with the team and wagon. Smith claimed the property to be his, and that he had hired Wilcott on condition that after he had got broken in he would give him half the profits, and when he had got $50 ahead he would give him a half interest in the property. Wilcott was evidently not satisfied to work and wait, and so skipped with the team. Smith swore out a warrant, and Officer Edgar started on the chase. The team was finally found at William Harris', about twelve miles south of the city. Wilcott had sold the team to him for $90 and skipped. The horses were not in condition to travel back, and Mr. Harris promised to bring them in to-day, and give Smith a chance to prove his right to the property.

JUMPING JUSTICE.

'Squire Abbott Assaulted in the Street and Robbed.

The Highwaymen Escape, Leaving Their Victim Helpless in the Roadway.

E. J. Abbott, the well known justice of the peace, was the victim of a bold and successful robbery Thursday night about 11 o'clock. He was returning to his home on Damon street, and was just about the corner of his own property when he was attacked. The street was dark and there are high banks on each side. Mr. Abbott did not notice any one on the street, and was not on the alert. The first he knew two men jumped at him from behind, and quickly caught him by the throat, while a third man advanced from in front, and attempted to rifle his pockets. Abbott shouted for help, and at the same time struck out at the fellow in front of him, hitting him a stinging blow in the face. The fellow kicked Abbott in the bowels, knocking the wind out of him, and rendering him almost helpless. As he sank to the ground Mr. Abbott managed to get one pocketbook out of his pocket and keep it firmly clutched in his hand. One of the gang in the meantime removed his other pocketbook, and as Mr. Abbott's dog came rushing down from the house the three skipped right lively leaving their victim there unable to move and groaning with the intense pain cause by the kick he had received. Mrs. Abbott heard the noise as did some of the neighbors and they were soon on the spot, and assisted him into the house. Dr. Seybert was called in and found that Mr. Abbott had not been so severely injured as to justify any great alarm as to the final result, though the hurt was a painful one, and caused great bloating and distress. Inflammation was the only thing to be feared, and it was thought this could be avoided by care and quiet.

The pocketbook of which he was robbed contained two five dollar bills, one five dollar gold piece, and a two dollar bill—$17 in all. The thieves as they ran away emptied this, and dropped the pocketbook which was found a short distance from where the attack was made. The pocketbook which he held grasped in his hand contained change and silver to the amount of a few dollars.

The affair was so sudden and so quickly over, and the spot so dark, that Mr. Abbott could gain but a very indefinite idea of the looks of his assailants. It appears that they must have been in wait for him, and hid upon the top of one of the banks by which he passed, for they jumped upon him so suddenly, that he was not aware of the nearness of any one until he heard a rustle, and almost immediately was throttled. It is expected that he will be able to be out again in a few days.

It was rather cool in the highwaymen to pick upon such a victim, as the squire is a man who is not verdant or timid. He was formerly on the police force in Cleveland, has served gallantly in the army, and in fact has had a variety of thrilling experiences, and it had never entered his head that he would be held up on the street and robbed. It adds one more tally to his score of adventures, while at the same time it shows clearly that Council Bluffs has some bold villians who fear neither the law nor it ministers.

Tapping a Till.

Some one slipped into Mr. Jenning's store on Upper Broadway and tapped the till, getting about $25. Suspicion fell upon Ed. Henry, a colored boy, who visited the store about the time of the till-tapping. He wanted some little article for Mrs. Wallace, and on getting it started on the run for home. Soon after the money was missed. He was arrested and lodged in the calaboose, and when the six other prisoners escaped he refused to go. He denies that he took the money, and explains his suspicious running for home by saying that he left a game of cards, with another boy, to go on the errand, and was in a hurry to get home and finish the game. Yesterday the case was continued. His bail was fixed at $300, and in default he was locked up in jail.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Walker left last evening for Denver, where they will take a peep at the big exposition. Mr. Walker has an eye to business, it being his intention to get some good pointers as to the best kind of machinery to purchase for the Consolidated Mining company.

Recognizing Iowa.

The supreme lodge of "Knights of Pythias meets in Detroit on the 23rd. Iowa will be represented by Hon. Jno. Van Valkenburg, of Fort Madison, and A. V. Dodge, of Burlington. As Iowa has contributed largely to the support of the order, and has never been given a supreme lodge chair, it is purposed by the fraternity to press forward Mr. Van Valkenburg for the office of vice chancelor, and it is expected that the claim will be recognized. Mr. Valkenburg is editor of the Knights of Pythias Manual, and has been earnest as well as prominent in building up the interest of the order in this state. He has represented the state in three sessions of the supreme lodge, and at the last session in St. Louis, came within one vote of being elected vice chancelor, he declining to vote himself. It is expected that Iowa will be recognized this time by giving the office to one so worthy of it, and who so well represents the order in the state.

HALF AND HALF.

Six Prisoners Skip From the City Calaboose and Six Remain Behind.

On Thursday night there were twelve prisoners in the city calaboose, some for being drunk, some for larceny and others for like minor offenses. The key to the back door of the calaboose generally hangs in the front office, and in some way this was taken by some one of the prisoners, probably as they were passing in through the office, and later at night was used to unlock the door, so that egress into the yard and from thence over the fence to liberty was very easy. Six of the twelve prisoners thus made good their escape. Among them was Frank Phillips and W. Lloyd, who were arrested on the charge of having swindled an old man named Kountze out of a revolver and some money. Four others arrested for being drunk or disorderly or both, made up the six who escaped. Six remained, including Ed Henry, the colored being charged with stealing $25 from Mr. Jenning's store.

The escape in this instance seems to have been the result of carelessness on the part of the officials, rather than the weakness of the calaboose. Still it reminds the citizens again of the fact that there is no decent or suitable provision for the care of prisoners. It is time that a good jail as well as a good city building was provided. The erection a combination of these two with a market house also, cannot begin any too soon. The property is already purchased, the public has already been assured that such an enterprise would soon be begun, and as everything is ripe, it seems that there ought not to be any delay in meeting the great want.

Mr. J. Marsh, Bank of Toronto, Ont. writes: "Billiousness and dyspepsia seem to have grown up with me; having been a sufferer for years, I have tried many remedies, but with no lasting result until I used your BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. They have been truly a blessing to me, and I cannot speak too highly of them." Price $1.00. 14d-1w
