Dry goods, carpets, boots and shoes, hats and caps, manufactured clothing and furnishing goods, millinery, etc., are in increased demand over former seasons at a corresponding period, and there is every indication at the p esent time of a large fall trade.

Drugs continue to improve and the advance on some staples in this line still remains firm.

Metals and tinners' stock are in fair request, and prices remain unchanged.

Building material of all kinds is in fair movement at quotations. The produce market was very active throughout the week. Apples and peaches continue in good supply and prices rule reasonably good, good quality of apples selling at $2.25@2.50 per bbl., but there is considerable off stock in the market, which is sold for what it will bring.

Fresh stock in melons is scarce. The glut in market of last week is over. Watermelons to-day are worth from $15 to $18 per 100. Nutmeg melons are out of market, and probably will remain in this condition until home grown appears, which will be in a few days.

Berries of all kinds are scarce and higher, the supply mostly from home gar-

Lemons are plenty and lower, selling at $6.00 Oranges are scarce at quotations.

Butter and eggs remain about the same -the demand about equal to the supply. Choice lots of butter find ready sale on local account. Onions are coming in freely and prices declining, selling at 40@60c per bu. The supply of potatoes is not equal to the demand, selling readily at 30c.

The Investigation of the Charges Preferred by the Council.

A Number of Witnesses Examined.

The investigation of the charges preferred against City Marshal Angell was begun Friday afternoon, the council meeting in committee of the whole and indulging in a three hour session to begin with, after which an adjournment was taken until Saturday evening at 7:30. There were present the following members of the council: Baker, Behm, Corby, Dellone, Dunham, Herman, Kaufmann, Leeder, Mc-Guckin, O'Keefe and Thrane.

Mr. Kaufmann was elected chair-

The city marshal was present, accompanied by his counsel, Col. Smythe, the city F. being represented on the other hand by Hon. Charles Ogden and J. J. O'Connell, Esq. After some technical wrangling the marshal's counsel asked for an adjournment on the grounds that he had not had time to properly prepare his defense, but his request was not complied with and and the council proceeded with the investigation. Mr. Ed. Leeder being sworn, testified that he knew of a place called the St. Elmo theater, and also that female waiters were engaged during the months of June and July for the eigars, beer, &c. Col. Smythe objected to Mr. Leeder's testimony on the ground that he was one of the jurors trying the case, and it was the first time in his life that he had seen one of the judges or jurors put upon the witness stand to give testimony relating to the case they were trying. His objection was, however, overruled.

The witness continued that he went into the "green room" or "black room" and saw some ladies there in various costumes; some did not have any costumes. He stood round there and pretty soon he was asked by the adies if he didn't want to buy something, and finally he bought some wine and beer. Pressed as to whether he brought these facts home to the marshal, he replied that he did notify both the marshal and deputy. The marshal himself did not say anything, but the deputy admitted that he knew all this was going on. He had made inquiries two or three times as to what the marshal had done in the matter but he could not discover that he had done anything. Mr. Samuel Shears, the proprietor of the Millard hotel, testified that on the night of the 22nd of July and on several other nights, he had heard vomen using language that would shock men, let alone women. Asked as to the nature of the houses where this language was carried on he said re could not conceive from his knowedge of the world that it came from any but houses of prostitution.

Mr. Dellone testified substantially as follows: On the night of the 23d he was up in the hotel and Mr. Shears at the Millard yesterday. old him about the racket. On the second night after the racket he told the marshal, who said, "well, I thought they were all out of there.' Ie pointed out to the marshal that the vilest epithets were used. He called his attention to one house in particular, on Twelfth street, just a little ways north of Douglas and back of a liquor atore. Judge Beneke testified that no charges have been preferred by the marshal against the owners of the St. Eimo theatre for employing female waiters to solicit the sale of Grinks.

He also testified that Nugent & Co. had a license to show at the time Henry Mead gave his tight rope exhibition. J. J. L. C. Jewett, the city clerk, testified that Harry Mead had never made any application to give a tight rope exhibition across Douglas street r any other street. Charles Banckes had seen a man walk across a rope on Douglas street on two occasions. He also gave simtlar testimony in regard to houses of prostitution on Twelfth street, in corroboration of statements made by former witnesses. Lena Lott testified that she was arrested last May, on the corner of ler, of Fremont, are guests of the Metro-Ninth street. Deputy Marshal Mc-Clure took three rings from her, and then let her go. She offered the rings to Judge Beneke, but he refused them, and then she gave them to Mc-Clure, and she had never got the rings back again. Officer McCune testified that he remembered arresting Mrs. Finnerty on the 25th of May last, on a warrant out against her for being a prostitute. When arrested she paid her fine to McClure. He saw her pay it himself. She was re-arrested the same night and again paid a fine to McClure. McClure told her he would take it and hand it to the judge. Officer Frank Kaspar testified substantially the same as last witness, whom he assisted in arresting Miss Finnerty. Pressed as to whether she was not told at the jail that depositing $10 he would release her, he denied this, and further stated that she was unfit to go on the streets.

Deputy McClure admitted receiving $6 fine from Carrie Mullins for the month of July, for which he gave a Officer O'Grady had reported to the marshal on several occasions that certain saloons were selling liquors after 12 o'clock. When he was notified, the marshal told him that he was to go in and arrest the propietors who kept open after midnight, but he had not done it because he did not think it right. Wm, Roach testified to being arcested some months ago for intoxication. At the time he was arrested he was searched and a revolver found on him. McCture told him that he would give him the revolver but would rearrest him for carrying it. He therefore sold the revolver and gave him a bill of sale for it in order to get away. Sever 1 other witnesses of minor importance were then examined and the co nail clourned until Saturday
