

PERFECTING THE POOL.

An Ironclad Agreement Finally Settles the Disputes Between the Railroads.

The Union Pacific Gets 51 Per Cent, the Burlington 30, and the Santa Fe 19.

History of the Differences Regarding Extensions and Percentages in Past Meetings.

The Rio Grande Becomes a Factor.

After laborious sessions that occupied the better portion of two days and nights, the general managers of the pool railroad lines adjourned last night, having come to a final settlement of all difficulties and differences, and prepared their new pool agreement in detail.

The workingmen and farmers of Douglas county, who are in accord with the principles enunciated by the state anti-monopoly convention held at Hastings, September 27th, 1882, are hereby invited to elect delegates to a convention that will nominate a legislative ticket for Douglas county, consisting of two members of the senate and eight members of the house of representatives, also one county commissioner and such precinct officers as may be designated by the county commissioners at their election proclamation.

It will be remembered that a pool agreement has been pending for months; that the general managers at one time were hopelessly at sea and apparently irresolute, that the questions of difference were referred to the presidents of the four great roads; that they in turn failed to bridge the trouble, and remanded the matter back to the general managers, with orders that they must come to a compromise and agreement. All this time it was impossible to definitely ascertain the cause of the disagreement, but the presumption was that it was owing to the one hand, to the opposition to the claim for percentage made by the Burlington, and on the other, to the demand of the Union Pacific people that the Burlington be not extended in Colorado into their territory.

Now it seems that there was a misunderstanding regarding the demand of the Union Pacific people that the Burlington should build no more roads west of Denver. The Burlington people believed that the Union Pacific wanted to cross a line for several years, the term of the "irrevocable agreement" between the Union Pacific, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and Denver & Rio Grande railroads, because the Union Pacific placed its claim that such a clause should be inserted into the new agreement, for the reason that the old one provided that the roads should keep out of each other's territory. The Union Pacific people subsequently claimed in the light of a partial excuse, that it was not their intention that the Burlington should agree not to build any new lines into the Union Pacific territory during the term of the new agreement, which was only for one year.

It appears that the Burlington people had no intention of building beyond Denver just at present, but they did not propose to accede to any terms that would keep out of the Union Pacific territory west of Denver, but because it wanted a rearrangement of the percentages originally agreed upon. The Union Pacific folks then receded from the position they had taken, and stated that they would not insist upon the Burlington management making such a pledge.

Subsequently the report leaked out that the object of the Union Pacific in refusing to sign the new pooling agreement after it had been drawn up was not because the Burlington would not pledge itself to keep out of the Union Pacific territory west of Denver, but because it wanted a rearrangement of the percentages originally agreed upon. The Union Pacific company thought it had allowed the Burlington and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe larger percentages of the business than it should have done, and the only way in which they could force a rearrangement, without laying themselves open to censure, was by bringing up the matter about the Burlington extensions in Colorado.

One of the percentages claimed to be more than the road was entitled to was the 50 per cent. of the Pueblo business granted the Santa Fe. The latter people maintained their claim, however, and the Union Pacific and conference just closed concerned in the claim. The remaining 50 per cent of the Pueblo business is equally divided between the Burlington and the Santa Fe from Denver. The Santa Fe over the Burlington and the traffic from Pueblo, and the Union Pacific a proportionate part of the Rio Grande gets the distance between the two cities, pool line. It will have the only third management in laying the question, which has so often been the subject of dispute. By Denver arrangements now made the Santa Fe and New Orleans is hopelessly crowded under, as a possible feeder for through eastern business. Of the general Colorado business to be through Denver, the Union Pacific will receive 51 per cent., the Burlington 30 per cent. and the Santa Fe 19 per cent.

This is the division made at the recent meeting in Omaha. There remains nothing more to be done but the adoption and engraving of the rules governing the distribution of the business, when one of the strongest railroad pools ever known in this country will be complete.

Yesterday the basis was also laid for a pool between the Denver & Rio Grande and the South Park. The managers had a meeting, came to a perfect and harmonious understanding and drafted the agreements, but owing to the lateness of the hour last night when the latter had been prepared for signatures it was impossible to recall the officials interested. No information could be obtained as to the percentages and division of business, but it is said that the terms are fair and satisfactory to both roads. This pool will probably be made when Mr. Clark of the Union Pacific returns to the city. He is accompanying Manager Kimball on a western inspection. Manager Potter of the Burlington will return to Chicago this morning. Manager Wheeler of the Santa Fe, is still in the city, but will probably turn to Topeka on today's "Thunderbolt."

Call for a Workingmen and Farmers' County Convention.

Every element of trade and each element of common labor shall be represented by five delegates. Where mechanics or laborers have no organization, they may organize for this purpose, as for instance, blacksmiths, carpenters, machinists, tinmiths, smelting works laborers, etc. Every precinct outside of the city of Omaha shall be entitled to five delegates to be chosen by the farmers. It is recommended that the meetings to select delegates in the city by any labor organization or element shall be held upon a call issued three days previous through THE OMAHA BEE. Such call shall state the time and place of meeting, and name of organization or labor element. In the country precincts the meetings shall be held in pursuance of a notice printed or written, conspicuously posted in at least three public places within the precinct for at least one week.

These meetings shall be held within two weeks from this date. Only delegates elected in pursuance of these recommendations and having proper credentials, will be admitted to seats in the convention. No proxies will be allowed, but alternates may be elected to take the place of delegates that may be absent. Delegates will be given to the delegates so elected as to the time and place of holding the convention, and arrangements will be made for a grand mass meeting to rally the constituents on the same evening after the convention has adjourned. By order of the committee.

JOHN BOSWICK, Chairman. Kidney Complaint Cured. E. Turner, Rochester, N. Y., writes: "I have been for over a year subject to serious disorder of the kidneys, and often unable to attend to business; I procured your Burdock's Blood Bitters, and was relieved. I took half a bottle was used. I intend to continue, as I feel confident that they will entirely cure me." Price $1.00.

THE MINDEN MURDERERS. They Are Still at Large With Slight Prospects of Capture. There is but little that is new in regard to the pursuit of the Minden murderers. They are being pursued by half a dozen parties, one of which is led by Adjutant General Alexander. On Friday morning General Alexander telegraphed to the governor at Denver that he was leaving for the south with a large body of well armed men, and hoped to intercept the murderers, but had no information as to their whereabouts.

Sheriff Ensign of Lincoln received the following telegram Friday: INDIANOLA, Oct. 20. I have just received the following note from Sheriff Wood: "The following Abilene: The murder of John Woods stole two horses of Sheriff Wood about four miles north of Lyndon mills, in Fergus county, Neb., were last seen about October 15th, and northeast of about twenty miles from the divide between the Snake and Beaver creeks, Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock, supposed to be traveling southwest. S. W. H. telegraphed the governor received a telegram from a constable at Lenora, Kan., that two men, brothers of the murderers, had been arrested at that place, charged with stealing horses."

At midnight, the governor received a dispatch from Alexander dated Buffalo Park (old Buffalo Gap), a station on the Central Branch of the U. P., near the northern line of Gove county, Kansas, and about 45 miles west of south from Lenora. He had learned that the real names of the murderers were Mart Rimmelman and Dick Bonhout, but had learned nothing reliable as to their whereabouts. It looks now as though the men had succeeded in reaching the more unsettled portions of Kansas and had made good their escape. Governor St. John, of Kansas, telegraphed Governor Noyes that the men were seen to cross the north fork of the Solomon at 2 o'clock Friday, but this is evidently a mistake.

GREATEST OF ALL.

A Chance to Invest in First Mortgage Bonds

On the Jasper Walls, Fearly Gates and Golden Streets, Of the New Jerusalem.

In presenting our work to your many readers we wish to speak of the foundation of the Mission and its object, what it has done, what it is doing, what it wants to do. To many of your readers a history of the foundation and work of the Mission is unnecessary for they have watched its movements, prayed for it, worked for it, contributed toward its support, and have considered it a factor for good in our city. To others, who have but recently taken up their residence in our fast growing city and who are willing to "do all they can," we wish to present a history of the FOUNDATION OF THE MISSION AND ITS OBJECT. The Mission was founded in October, 1875, just seven years ago, under the name of the "Christian Workers' Association," its object being, as stated in the constitution, "to advance the interests of the Christian religion by active Christian work."

We will now briefly give a synopsis of WHAT IT HAS DONE. Its constitutional object is one that is as "broad as the sea," and admits of any kind of work that will "advance the interests of the Christian religion." The mission started in a very humble manner, its first work being a Sabbath school for new boys and bootblacks, then an Industrial school was started where little girls were gathered together and taught to sew. After moving from "Collar to post" for sometime, on the 15th day of July, 1886, we were enabled to move into our present building on Tenth street, which was bought and paid for.

For seven years Sabbath and Industrial schools have been carried on constantly. Words of counsel and encouragement, new hopes, new aspirations, and new desires have been given the children. Food, clothing, shoes, and many other necessities of life have been given to suffering ones. Picnics, dinners, societies, etc., have been given for the pleasure of the scholars. Let us see

WHAT IT IS DOING. The reports of the various departments will speak for themselves. INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL. Total attendance for last quarter, 1,172; average attendance of teachers, 6; number of garments made, 176. MRS. W. W. MARSH, Sec'y.

SABBATH SCHOOL. Total number attendances for last quarter, 1,350; average daily attendance, 104; total collections, $28 01. C. E. REYNOLDS, Treasurer.

TRUSTEES' REPORT. We will state that many of our friends have made contributions to our work in answer to appeals for aid, and we desire to say that $1,500 has been received from that source. About $100 of this amount was used in repairs upon our building and some of the funds were used in relief work and in the Sabbath school. Our treasurer reports total cash on hand in all departments, $288.86; amount in sinking fund, $257.54. A. C. KENNEDY, Treasurer.

RELIEF DEPARTMENT. We will let the report of our superintendent of this department, Mrs. Jardine, speak for itself: REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT. The relief department of the Omaha Mission for the last quarter is as follows: We have given to fifteen children, and to a clothing and four pair of shoes to a member of half-breed school. We have also distributed a number of hats and bonnets. To several families outside of the city we have given clothing, and to a poor woman who was sick and without friends, we have given medicine and other help. Have visited 35 families and have in some cases relieved pressing wants with the Mission's limited means.

We see every day the great need in Omaha of a temporary home and some means of giving a little temporary help to bridge over a dark gloom for some poor helpless woman and children. There are many circumstances in this city which make a temporary home a necessity. Sickness, death, inability to obtain employment, and the one great calamity that overshadows all other—the desertion of father and husband of his family. Such a case came under our notice last week. A man who had lived happily with his family for eight years said to his wife that his business called him to some other city, and that he would have to sell out and go there. He sold all they had, pocketed the money and left her with two children (one a babe only one month old) to battle with the cold and storm of a Nebraska winter. We are thankful the Mission was able to assist this helpless woman a little. We have helped her to furnish a room, and given her little girl a new dress. We hope she will now get along nicely.

In another sad case, where the father and mother have been sick since the spring, we gave all the Mission could afford, then we called upon the county commissioners and they gave them some assistance. Several dollars have been collected for them. It requires a great deal when families have to be carried for months. Their oldest boy is now sick with fever. I fear medical aid has come too late. I visited him this morning and found him very low. Think of it, a family of five without a nickel and the husband sick. Another case, a poor widow, who for years has made a comfortable living by washing, was last winter taken down with inflammatory rheumatism. She had to spend all her little savings for medicine and doctor bills. She was penniless, helpless, and threatened with being turned out by her landlord. When I saw her she said she did not know how many nights she had laid awake wishing the Lord would let her die. She had not a relative in this country.

"I could make such a good living," she said, "were it not for those stiff hands and feet. Oh, do help me to get better."

I got a physician and medicine for her, a few groceries and some coal. We are hopeful that she may recover her health. I could mention other cases, but this is sufficient for the public to have an idea of the work the mission is doing.

There are many noble hearted persons in this city who would be glad to respond to the call of charity, but these poor suffering ones don't come under their notice. We need a place where the prosperous and poor may meet together, and the former be blessed by giving and the latter by receiving.

MISS E. SYLVESTER, Sec. MRS. J. B. JARDINE, Sept. "Now let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter."

WHAT THE MISSION WANTS TO DO. It has been our aim for a long time past to devise ways and means to make this mission more complete, more useful, more practical. We desire to establish in connection with the mission a HOME FOR THE FRIENDLESS. To secure a building and furnish it as a temporary home for the poor and friendless in cases of sudden emergency and distress. In order to do this we will need a number of earnest workers.

We will need the continued support of the press and those who have assisted us in the past. We will need the help of all benevolent people. Our plans will be published soon, in the meantime you are not to consider this matter carefully, remembering that "inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

"Bless ye another burdens. It is more blessed to give than to receive." A. G. CHARLTON, Secretary.

Fortunes of Farmers and Merchants. Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgment in taking care of the family. If you are bilious, have a low appetite, and are generally debilitated, do not delay a moment, but get a course of Burdock's Blood Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of fifty cents.—(Tribune. Sold by C. F. Goodman.)

Army Orders. First Lieutenant E. D. Thomas, 5th cavalry, A. A. Q. M., will sell to Brevet Major General O. O. Howard, U. S. A. one sorrel horse, the property of the government, for which he is responsible, at actual cost if known.

The leave of absence for fifteen days granted First Lieutenant William P. Hall, R. Q. M. 5th cavalry, by paragraph 1, special orders No. 108, current series, from these headquarters, is extended four days.

The following is published for the information and guidance of all concerned: 1st Extract from an endorsement of communication from these headquarters, submitted by the general of the army to the honorable the secretary of war.

The general's style and character but reflect the experience of the past hundred years, which is, that every military post of the United States in troops should be assembled under arms, at least once each day, leaving it discretionary with the commanding officer whether in the morning, "troop" or evening "retreat"—and Extract from decision returned by direction of the honorable the secretary of war. It appears to him that action in accordance with the views of the general would obviate the objections to Sunday parades presented in your communication.

Gallery practice will be resumed this winter. During the months of January, February and March, each troop and company will fire twice a week. Firing during January will be at 50 feet, standing. On February at 100 feet, kneeling. On March at 100 feet, lying. Firing at greater ranges than 50 feet may be conducted out doors near the quarters. Should circumstances not permit, however, of using a greater range than 50 feet, firing may be in February kneeling, and in March lying at that distance. To secure uniformity practice at all distances will be at a target 8x12 inches, with bull's-eye 1 1/2 inches in diameter, which is the size of the ordnance paper target.

Monthly records of best firing, on form 30-c, giving distance and position, will be sent direct to Department Headquarters. It is expected that this course of gallery practice will be the means of thorough grounding troops in the proper positions and necessary theoretical instruction; and thus be a saving of time when the spring practice begins. Its importance in the instruction of recruits can not be overestimated.

The attention of post commanders is called to the concluding paragraph of general orders No. 32, department headquarters, 1881, which will also govern gallery practice.

COL. L. T. FOSTER. Youngstown, Ohio, May 15, 1886. Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co.—I had a very valuable Hambleton colt that I prized very highly. He had a large bone spur on one joint and was small one of the other, which made him very lame; I had him under the charge of two veterinarians who failed to cure him. I was one day reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spavin Cure in the Chicago Express, I determined to try it and got our carriage next to send for it, and they ordered three bottles; I took all I thought I would give it a thorough trial, I used it according to directions and the fourth day the colt ceased to be lame and the bone spur has disappeared. I used one bottle and the colt limps are as free of lumps and as smooth as any horse in the state. He is entirely cured. The cure was so remarkable that I have letters of my neighbors having the remaining two bottles who are now using it. Very respectfully, L. T. FOSTER.
