DEATH TO DOGS. The Inhuman Way in Which They Are Being Disposed Of.

Founded in the Pound White. It is howls disturb the neighborhood. Under the present ordinance the dogs, whose owners fail to pay license upon them, are locked up in the pound, and after being kept there for a few days are doomed to death, if not claimed, and the additional cost paid. It is not the ordinance itself that the citizens find so much fault with, as the manner in which the unclaimed dogs are disposed of.

The first lot doomed to death were executed by being shot. Those who had taken the contract for killing and burying the dogs at twenty-five cents each, were poor marksmen, and blazed away at the unfortunate canines, few of the bullets striking any vital parts, and the poor dogs, howling about whining, moaning and running, until it seemed as they were being literally tortured to death by inches. The bullets not having the desired effect, the finish of the work was with clubs, and the club then superseded the firearms in the following massacres. The last killing was done with clubs altogether.

It is claimed still further by some conversant with the facts that some young boys are allowed to participate in the slaughter, some as eye-witnesses and others as actual participants, and some parents have been greatly shocked by having their youngsters return home with startling declarations of how they helped kill the dogs. If this is so it is needless to comment on the demoralizing influence upon the youth who share in such proceedings.

Even dogs, numerous as they are, have some rights which the brute-man should respect, and such needless cruelty should be stopped at once. If these who as duty it is to slay the dogs cannot devise any speedier and surer methods than those afforded by poor marksmanship with a revolver or brutal pounding with a club the dogs had better be allowed to run.

There were several broils Sunday night, one at the beer garden, one at the transfer, and two big ones on Broadway. The one near Pearl street drew a large crowd and the most filthy talk and profane language was used, making night hideous indeed, and though the racket kept-up for some twenty minutes or more, no officers appeared and no attempt was made to quiet the same or disperse the crowd. Later there was another row at John Nicholson's saloon, in which a number took part and several got marks of blood. No arrests were made, however, at the time or immediately afterwards.

Officer Morse, whose beat lay along there, and Officer Brooks, who is on Main street, claim to have been off after the row at the darkies who had a row at the lower end of town. The other officers on duty at the other end of town claim to have heard nothing of the row. However this may be, there were no stars twinkling about, and many citizens were disgusted at the fact that such scenes could be kept up for so long a time on the main street of the city, without a single attempt to quiet it.

THE BEE YESTERDAY CHRONICLED THE FACT THAT A WOMAN HAD BEEN BROUGHT TO HER HOME FROM FREMONT, NEB., HAVING, IN A ROW AT THAT PLACE, BEEN QUITE SERIOUSLY STABBED BY AN IRATE FEMINE, WHO WAS AN INMATE OF THE SAME HOUSE.

The wounds, which consist of a cut in the shoulder and one in the breast, are not proving as serious as at first supposed, but are still sufficient to confine her to her home. The woman being respectably connected and having a child, whom she desires to shield from any shame, it is doubtful whether she will prosecute her assailant, all concerned desiring to avoid undue publicity.

The following communication concerning the affair has been received from the Editor of THE BEE: It is not a young Williams girl that got stabbed, but a married woman, and as to the lady's name we do not delay a moment, but go at once and procure a bottle of those wonderful Electric Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of fifty cents.—(Tribune. Sold by C. F. Goodman.)

Special Dispatch to THE BEE. New York, October 23.—According to reports at the state republican headquarters the fight for the Saratoga ticket has assumed a bitter aspect for the republicans during the last week and assurances are said to have been received from different parts of the state of a change in feeling and many indications are discovered of a determination on the part of the republicans to make an effort to avert the disaster of defeat. The importance of securing the assembly is thoroughly appreciated now, and the state committee will see to it that none of the speakers who are on the road and addressing meetings will fail to remind their hearers of that fact, and of the other important fact, that the democrats are pushing forth all their efforts and money to obtain control of the Forty-sixth congress.

The Independence Conservative of the 18th was A. B. Dickel fell from a load of wood several days ago. He got up and walked to the house and in about six hours was taken with internal pains and died the next day. The First Methodist Episcopal church in Des Moines was struck by lightning on the 15th and narrowly escaped destruction. The steeple was damaged, but lightning rods were struck and the pulpit, and the lightning was conducted to the ground, where it dug a hole several feet deep.

A rapidly revolving mule caught the 15-year-old son of William Doe, at his father's wood yard in Dubuque, by the clothing on Wednesday, as the ad was endeavoring to adjust a belt. He was met around twenty times and fatal hurt.

Later reports show the liabilities of the Monroe county bank to be $140,000. The failure will ruin the father and brother of William Miller. On Monday morning more than $100,000 of notes were issued in the amount of the known forgeries is $25,000. Miller is guarded by three men. The exact extent is unknown.

What Constitutes Larceny. New York Times. It has finally been determined by the court of appeals that a person who converts to his own use money or articles entrusted to him for a specific purpose is guilty of larceny. The generally accepted theory has been that such a person committed a mere breach of trust, and could not be punished criminally for it. This theory grew out of a supposed affirmation in the court of appeals of a decision in England in the case of the queen against Thomas. In that case the defendant converted to his own use a quidam entrusted to him to have it changed. Justice Coleridge held that, as the owner of the coin did not expect to receive it back, he had divested himself of its entire possession, and therefore Thomas, to whom it was given for the purpose of having it changed, did not steal it.
