THREE TICKETS IN IOWA. The Parties all Represented in the Congressional Contests With Their Quota of Candidates.

Gen. Dodge's Reminiscences--The Drive Well Frauds--Railroad Notes.

Des Moines Cor. St. Paul Pioneer Press. The democrats of the Third congressional district despairing of hearing from J. M. Griffith, who was nominated for congress August 27th, and who is in Europe, the central committee concluded to let him slide, and have substituted C. W. Durham, now mayor of Independence, to furnish the corpse for the political funeral in November.

For the first time in several years the three parties have a full congressional ticket in the field. Through Mr. Freeland in the Eighth he declared he did not want it. No person has yet been substituted. The democratic central committee is sending out letters to the faithful asking for money--liberal contributions to the state campaign fund, which does not dovetail well with the second plank in their state platform. But the platform was constructed for belief, anyhow.

It is not a little significant that in Third and Fourth congressional districts, where the vote was almost solid against the prohibition amendment, Updegraff and Henderson are practically running for congress. It was until the 15th the democrats had a candidate, while in the Third district the success was but little better.

Two very estimable young women are running for county recorder. Miss Mattie Wells is the republican candidate in Henry county, and Miss Emma Gill the democratic candidate in Sac. Miss Wells will be elected, while the other will go to jail. The Independent School district of Spencer, in Clay county, shows the unusual confidence of an equal number of boys and girls in the public school organization. Webster City does the same.

GEN. A. C. DODGE. The venerable Gen. A. C. Dodge was here this week, at the request of the governor, to aid in making a distribution of the aid sent to the governor for the benefit of the cyclone sufferers of last June. The amount was nearly $40,000. The governor had previously sent competent persons to make individual investigation of every case of loss and damage outside of Grinnell, and the facts were laid before the committee. It is believed an equitable and satisfactory distribution has been made. The general is a component part of the history of Iowa from its organization. He is one of the old time gentlemen, whom it is a pleasure to meet. He is rich in reminiscences and incidents of early days, which, related now, seem almost incredible. Given an opportunity and he delights to recall them. He is a splendid conversationalist, yet measured in speech--the result of age. You would scarcely believe it, but he says that when he was elected to congress for his first term, the territory where Minneapolis, St. Paul and Fort Snelling now are, was a part of Clayton county. It was called Fort Snelling settlement, and he received forty votes in the district now comprising the two cities. That year the district paid taxes to the Clayton county tax collector, $128. That was in the year 1840. He has been a resident here since 1827, and during that time without change of residence has been a citizen of three territories and one state.

THE DRIVE-WELL FRAUD. The victims of the drive-well royalty swindle will be pleased to know that the plunderers have been knocked out of court again. Several weeks ago I wrote that the defendants in New Jersey had succeeded in getting an appeal to the supreme court, which was just what the plaintiffs did not want. The defense in all these cases in the several states is the same--that is, like the movements of an Elgin watch, they are interchangeable. What fits a case in New Jersey will fit a case in Minnesota and Iowa, and attorneys are so helping each other. A few days ago, from private sources, information was received that Green's attorneys had got scooped again. Since the supersedeas was ordered in the appeal cases Green's attorneys have at their wit's end and to get around it. It blocked their little game of bringing suits against anybody for royalty until the case was decided in the supreme court, and royalty was what they were after. One day last week Judge Buchanan, counsel for defendant, was surprised with a notice to come into court at Trenton and make answer to a motion of Green's attorneys to set aside the supersedeas before Judge Nixon of the federal court. He was not a little astonished, and could not see on what possible ground the motion could be based. He was on hand and Green's attorney called up his motion and read to the court the statutes which provided that a stay of proceedings (supersedeas) must be granted within sixty days or afterward, upon the permission of a judge of the appellate court. He squared himself away to proceed with his argument to show that inasmuch as the stay was granted upon application to Judge Nixon, and not to a judge of the appellate court, the proceedings were irregular and should be set aside. Judge Nixon asked the lawyer what he was reading his law from, to which the lawyer replied that it was a compilation of decisions of the court, and that there was a comma after the word "afterward." The judge handed the lawyer a copy of the Revised Statutes and requested him to read his law from that. He promptly assented and read that the proceedings must be granted "within sixty days, or afterward upon the permission of a judge of the appellate court." The judge informed him that the location of the comma made a difference in the law, and as the supersedeas had been granted within the sixty days, it was useless to make any argument on the motion, and the motion would be dismissed. The judge suggested to him that with a little more care and attention to the law he would have been saved the embarrassment of such a blunder.

RAILROAD NOTES. The name of the Forest City Southern railroad company has been changed to that of Chicago, Iowa & Dakota railroad company. Judge Porter, formerly president of the Central Iowa, is the master spirit of this new project, which is likely to culminate in an important line, as its name indicates. It is now being built from Grinnell, in Hardin county, to Forest City, in Winnebago county--eighty miles.

Judge Williams, of Clayton county, is very quietly pushing forward a new railroad project, 700 miles long, which is to connect the Red river country with Chicago, via Clinton and Davenport. Surveys are now being made up the valley of the Wapinequo river. The preliminary work is to be done the present year and constructed next year.

Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern officials were at Decatur a few days since, in response to a call from citizens to consider a proposition to extend the Burlington road to that point, probably from Postville. The result is not known, but will be soon.

It has been announced that a through solid train, with sleepers, would be put on the Wabash between Chicago and St. Louis last Monday, but at this writing the same has not appeared. There appears to be a hitch somewhere. E. Q.

BURLINGTON JUNCTION NEWS. Correspondence of THE BEE: BURLINGTON JUNCTION, Mo., October 23--Last Friday our little city was thrown into a high fever heat of excitement by U. S. Marshall R. M. Elliott, of Kansas City, appearing in our midst and arresting Edward Jerome, who had resided here for a number of years, on the charge of counterfeiting. Jerome has been in the bakery and restaurant business and was generally considered honest. He passed some spurious money on our postmaster, I. B. Chrisinger, and W. J. Mendonhall, and it is owing to their efforts that he has been detected. Their evidence as to the counterfeiting was very meagre, however until the marshal came, when he accused Jerome of it, showing him some of the coin. Then Jerome was so very accommodating as to crawl under a building and dig up and bring out discs for the coinage of dollars, half dollars and ten cent pieces. He also showed the marshal a half metal and pounded glass he had on hand. He had erected a furnace with bellows and had everything in first-class order. He "gave away" some accomplices who at one time lived here, but now are away. Their names are withheld for the present. Jerome was taken to Kansas City where he had his preliminary hearing and was bound over till November 4th for trial. In default of bail he was committed to jail.

is becoming famous as a political speaker. His democratic friends are sending for him in all parts of the county. Barney has given the question of politics much study, and we are glad he is able to express himself so ably. The "boys" are in anticipation of a fine treat as Mr. Walford Yeabate, of Mayville, has agreed to come and show the inconsistencies of "disproportionate pizeness." Ware's bank is the only one we have now, and it is doing a magnificent business. The German-American Insurance Company has paid Will R. Gay his loss. W. J. Nelson has returned from his Ohio visit. He brings his aged father with him. It is now a conceded fact that our next county court will be temperance. Then saloons must "git up an git." The Bee comes to us each day freighted with his honey of news. We like it, and think we could not get along without it. Therefore please accept the above compliment and with best wishes, I am Yours very truly, JASON FALL.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE. Mr. Roosevelt. S. G. W., of Fairfield, sent a communication to the Republican, alleging that scandalous scenes occurred among the women at an election in Rawlins, Wyoming, quoting as authority an article, the responsibility of which has since been answered by Dr. George M. Prentice, of Fairfield. I wrote to the postmaster of Rawlins, asking him as to the probability of that statement being true, and received from him the following reply, which I ask you to publish, inasmuch as you need the latter mentioned as a part of your argument against woman suffrage. Respectfully, CLARA B. COLBY. BEATRICE, October 24, 1882.

Mrs. Clara B. Colby, Beatrice, Neb.: MAJESTY: I have just received your favor of the 15th inst., with enclosed signed S. G. W., and in reply to say I have been a resident of Wyoming since 1858, and a resident of Rawlins since 1869, and must say I have no knowledge of the scene and row he describes, and believe it to be a gross fabrication. Our elections here are as orderly as in any part of the country, and it is the opinion generally that our elections are more quiet and orderly on account of woman suffrage, than they would otherwise be. In my opinion good will result in any state or territory adopting woman suffrage. Very respectfully yours, JAMES FARRIS, P. M. RAWLINS, October 21, 1882.

SHERMANOAH ITEMS. Correspondence of THE BEE: SHERMANOAH, Ia., October 20.--Sherandoah is still on the boom. Not perhaps, as much as earlier in the season, but still there is a steady increase in what it takes to make a city, namely--capital and population. It will undoubtedly be better for the future prosperity of our town, if we take a good long, steady look at the future before rushing too frantically into everything that opens up. Our new normal building is ready for the roof. It is certainly a conspicuous object to travelers passing through, standing as it does, four stories above the basement, on one of the highest points in this section of the county. Nevertheless some of our citizens persist in thinking that we have a normal school building at the expense of H. A. S. machine shops. The Sherandoah house with Sam Scott as proprietor, is increasing its patronage every day. Sam has been there before and knows how to dish them up. Bill Priestman reads THE BEE and as a consequence is called the "Republican Democrat," and best builder in this neck of timber. W. J. Staples is a No. 1 tonorial artist, but a terrible democrat. Pusey and he would make a good team. C. S. Burr is on his feet once more ready to face anything from a "Bushel of Corn" to the "President of the First National Bank."

If you want to see the nicest boot and shoe room in the state step into D. Thomas' under the opera house. Lovetto Wells supported by Yates & Brown's Chicago theater company, gave a three nights entertainment here last week that for excellence is seldom if ever excelled outside of the large cities. L. H. Phillips as Ingomar, and Lovetto Wells as Parthena, are simply par-excellent. Politically we have no air in this district. Hutchins has a walk-away without opposition. Freight trains will commence running on the H. & S. road next Monday. Passenger trains will be put on November 1. The city sires have ordered the litching racks of Sheridan avenue. The farmers request a vote against it. Any person having "the aim of life" and wishing to invest, could find immediate run for twenty-five tenement houses at a big interest. Wedding cards are out for a big wedding here next week. A young groceryman is going to be Benedict. Particulars next time. There are two or three more on the tapis, according to Madam Rumor, but are not yet fully settled. By next time I hope to give you some news. Yours, etc., ADOLPH.

*If Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham truly discovered the Bleeders' Friend, which the ancient Alectons sought for so much patient research and persistent experiment, her medicine comes, at least, likely to command an immense sale and universal popularity in the future. If rapid progress and eminent success furnish any basis for correct judgment, Mrs. Pinkham is most promising competitor for such honorable distinction as the alchemists failed to achieve.
