

A MODEL HURRAH.

The Valentine Meeting at Grand Island Painted by a Master Hand.

A Funeral Gathering and Feeble Attempt to Explain.

Correspondence of THE BEE.

GRAND ISLAND, October 25.—For some week or ten days previous to last Saturday the good people of this vicinity had their attention called to large posters containing the announcement that there would be a grand republican rally at this place Saturday, October 21, the chief attraction of which would be that much abused but very good individual who so lately has been converted to the belief that the dear farmers and workmen are really the only classes who have any rights and need any legislation, namely, as "the boys" would say, "Our Val," the great champion of the down-trodden, over-taxed and oppressed people. Our heavy guns, in a political way, were very busy spreading their good news to the good people at large and the farmers in particular, telling them to be sure and turn out, as the anti-monopols would receive such a drubbing at the hands of a prominent member of Special order No. 220 as would effectively lay them on the shelf for all time to come. The aforementioned heavy guns made elaborate preparations to receive the conquering hero in a style befitting one who occupies such a prominent position of trust and confidence in the minds of the—U. P. management. The band wagon was trotted out and the U. P. band boys took their seats preparatory to starting for the depot. At about one o'clock a special train arrived, from which alighted the West Point statesman, followed by the Valentine Glee club. The line of march was headed by the band, followed by the farmers' friend, accompanied by George H. Thummel (who, by the way, is the U. P. attorney in this place), and a number of other politicians. After passing through several of our principal streets they drew up at the pavilion erected for the occasion and unloaded bag and baggage. But, much to their chagrin and disappointment, the people, for reasons best known to themselves, neglected to put in their appearance and be convinced by the mighty logic of this "rosy garden" farmer. They were not the jolliest crowd in existence the rest of the afternoon and the big fizzle cast a gloom over the proceedings which (in their minds) was to have been such a glorious victory—sort of a triumphal march, you know.

In the evening Leiderskrantz hall was comfortably filled by people anxious to satisfy their curiosity and hear the sweet songsters of the wild, wild west. Mr. Dawes made the opening speech, and it seemed to be the general opinion that if he had been allowed to occupy the floor a longer time he would have done as much good for the cause as Valentine did it injury, which is saying a good deal. He spoke in a straight-forward, manly way, and did not degrade himself by low, personal attacks or by a sanctimonious rehearsal of every good deed done in his life, either in private or public, but took up political issues and handled them in a fair and open manner. Mr. Wilson, the chairman of the meeting (who also has a fat job at the hands of the U. P. management) next introduced, with a very pretty little story about the much clubbed apple tree bearing the best fruit, &c., the gentleman who occupied such a prominent position in the United States cavalry that Secretary Stanton said it gave his name to the special order. As he stepped to the front and commenced to speak his little peace he reminded your correspondent of the little boy who had been disobeying his parent and when caught in the act tried to explain his conduct by saying he wanted to be good and meant to do right and if he had been naughty he didn't think he deserved a spanking, "cause all the other boys had been just as bad as he was. He actually had the cheek and unblinking effrontery to say that his vote on the harbor and river steal was cast after careful research and examination; that he then and now considered it the proper thing to do, and that his reason for voting for it was that he considered it in opposition to the gigantic monopolies of the country and a severe check upon them. But he was very careful not to mention that some, and, in fact, a large number, of the streams on which thousands of dollars are to be spent are not respectable frog-pods. He explained his very unsavory record in the star route case by stating that the man on the front, who had been right to a frequent mail as the man in New York or Chicago, but failed to notice the fact that one on account of business must have rapid transit for his communications in order to carry it on, and that the man on the border of civilization has no more use for a daily mail than he has for the Wall street quotations. He was very anxious to draw the attention of his audience to his record for the last four years and no more. He refrained from mentioning his previous record with studied care. No doubt he would have plead youth and ignorance if asked about it and claim he was misled by older and as he thought wiser men. He begged for votes in the most pitiful manner, but we think he will find it without effect when the votes come to be counted. He was followed by Judge Mason who made a speech which for the number of insults, degraded and indecent remarks it equalled by few and excelled by none. No true statesman would be guilty of carrying a political debate into the depths of his slide and personal abuse which he did, and he was heartily condemned and censured by all present regardless of party. He could say nothing too harsh or indecent about Senator Van Wyck. But he also was very careful not to call to the attention of his hearers to his own conduct in 1872 when he stamped this state in company with J. Sterling Morton. It was astonishing how forgetful some of these would-be statesmen were of their own

STATE JO. TINGS.

A young man named Lester had his leg broken at Beatrice on the 23d by a kick from a horse.

Reed, the De Witt wife murderer, has been indicted around the neck for a degree, and the case continued till spring to give his attorneys time to procure evidence of his insanity.

Tan Hurley, the horse thief arrested at Blue Springs, could not be convicted, owing to lack of evidence. But as he tried to escape from jail at Beatrice by starting a fire in it, they salted him for five years in the pen.

Near Rising City, on the 15th, Chas. Cook, aged 15, caught a fox in the air in dismounting from a male, and in trying to get it loose scared the animal, which ran away and dragged the boy a long distance, kicking him at almost every jump. The boy was badly injured, but will recover.

A responsible party will buy a banking business or open a new bank in a good live town. Interested parties address P. O. drawer No. 64, Omaha, Neb. 16-1.

The Railroad and the Cattle Buyer. Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

CHICAGO, October 26.—A local paper says there is considerable feeling against the existence of a pool which absorbs very near all the western cattle. The pool, it is stated on good authority, is formed of Nelson Morris and L. Doud & Co., of Chicago, and H. Meyers, of New York. Every day one or two buyers representing the combination, or syndicate as it is called at the yards, receive nearly all the western cattle. Outsiders wanting a load cannot be accommodated even at an increased price. The combination is shipping all purchases to very few people, mostly in New York and Philadelphia. Outsiders say the action of the pool is manifestly detrimental to sellers, as by an arrangement with certain commission men they are buying at their own prices, and by preventing competition are injuring the seller. Outsiders at the yards blame the commission men more than they do the members of the syndicate, for without the assistance of the former the latter could not buy up all they wish to at the expense of the sellers, and so long as the railroad sharks can certainly about all of our profits we cannot afford to pay the old-time prices for cattle we ship. I tell you the pool is at the bottom of it all. Farmers and producers everywhere are made to suffer because of this gigantic monopoly, and all I have to say is that so long as the law of the land permits this pooling system, just so long will the dear commercial public be made to suffer.

The Fight in New York. Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

NEW YORK, October 26.—The republican county convention met last night and after a long session endorsed all the nominees of the citizens' committee except Wm. A. Butler for county commissioner. After a long and earnest fight John J. O'Brien was nominated for the office. The anti-Kelly-Tammany county convention endorsed the citizens' ticket.

Sherman Speckifying. Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., October 26.—The weather was fine yesterday and the shooting of the first day of the army rifle match was good. Generals Sherman and Sheridan were present and were greatly pleased. General Sherman addressed the school of application.

Indictments. Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

NEW YORK, October 26.—The grand jury yesterday found indictments against three policemen for violation of the election laws, intimidating voters and fraud. The reporter was also indicted and a number who registered falsely. Indictments were found against W. D. C. Rawson, telegraph operator, and George Reed, conductor of the New Haven train, charging them with the responsibility for the late Harlem tunnel disaster.

Fatal Fireworks. Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

PHILADELPHIA, October 25.—An accident at the fireworks exhibition in the park last night resulted from the bursting of the iron stars in a large mortar before they were shot from it. Thus far seven people have died from the effects of the injuries and one died from heart disease superinduced by unnatural excitement at the time.

Courtship, Marriage and Desertion in Three Days.

All the Result of a Man Getting Drunk and Then Getting Sober.

Special to Cincinnati Commercial.

NEW YORK, October 23.—A woman of common appearance, thirty years old, who gave her name as Mrs. May Shibley, went to police headquarters to-day and made inquiries for her husband, Henry Frederick Shibley. She says that she was married to him on Friday evening last, and that he disappeared on Saturday. He had been acquainted with her only two days previous to their marriage. In reply to questions, she said that her husband was a farmer, of Newell, Iowa, and that he was a native of England, and was thirty years old. She herself was born in Jackson, Miss., but she had lived in this city several years, supporting herself by making wax flowers. Her name before her marriage was May Evans. On Wednesday evening she met Shibley in the Atlantic Garden in the Bowery. He had arrived from Iowa only a few hours previous to the meeting and he was much under the influence of liquor. Two men, who appeared to be acquaintances, were with him. He introduced himself to her in the garden and treated her to lager beer. When they had talked together some time, he said that he had come to New York to meet a sister who would arrive from Europe on a steamship of the White Star Line. Women were appreciated in Iowa, he added, because they were so scarce. He had a large farm at Newell, and was well off financially.

"I never loved a woman before," he said, "but I really love you. I will give you $40 a month and pay your traveling expenses if you will go to Iowa and buy housekeeper."

The woman said that she accepted his offer, and they went to the rooms of Mrs. M. D. Wilson, on the top floor of the tenement house, at 69 James street. Shibley knew Mrs. Wilson, and she provided a room for the woman. He drank heavily that night, and was drunk on Thursday, when he proposed to her that if she would be his wife instead of his housekeeper, they would go to the National Theater, in the Bowery, in the evening, and sit in a box.

Shibley scattered silver coin among the boys in the gallery and produced echoes of beer for the orchestra. He was still very drunk on Friday, but he wanted to get one of the Union Chapel of the Five Points of the married at 8 p. m., where they were married by the Rev. S. J. Ferguson, Mrs. Wilson and her husband being witnesses of the ceremony. Shibley said that an uncle in England had died, leaving him about $200,000.

He wished to get one of the $1,000 bills changed. The man gave him a certificate and a wedding ring which he had given to his bride, he took also. The certificate lacked a date, and the ring had no inscription. He promised to return both to her together, with money enough to buy a wedding outfit. His wife did not see him again. It was her belief to-day that thieves had murdered him. Mrs. Wilson and the police thought that Shibley had repented of his marriage and had fled from the city.

There was no information about him on the police records. When Shibley reached the city on Wednesday he registered at the Commodorian hotel. It was said at the hotel to-day that he was not there. The two men who were his companions at the hotel, had gone away. The record of Shibley's marriage, as filed in the bureau of vital statistics. His wife said that she would remain at No. 69 James street for the present, in the hope of his return. It was possible, she thought, that he might be wandering about the city intoxicated. The Rev. Mr. Ferguson stated that he noticed that Shibley was under the influence of liquor on Friday evening after the marriage ceremony had been performed.

BIBBICK'S BLOOD PURIFIER

Mr. J. G. Robertson, Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "I was suffering from general debility, want of appetite, constipation, etc., so that I was a burden after using Bibbick's Blood Purifier I felt better than for years. I cannot praise your Bitters too much."

R. Gibbs, of Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "Your Bibbick's Blood Purifier, in chronic diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, have been signally successful with me. I have used them myself with best results, for torpidity of the liver, and in case of a friend of mine suffering from Dropsy, the effect was marvellous."

Bruce Turner, Rochester, N. Y., writes: "I have been subject to serious disorder of the kidneys, and unable to attend to business; Bibbick's Blood Purifier relieved me before half a bottle was used. I feel confident that they will entirely cure me."

Asaiah Hall, Hinghamton, N. Y., writes: "I suffered with a dull pain through my left leg and shoulder. Lost my spirits, appetite and color, and could with difficulty keep up my day. Took your Bibbick's Blood Purifier as directed, and I now feel so well as to walk as if I were a young man."

Mr. Noah Bates, Elmira, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I had an attack of bilious fever, and after that I was afflicted with nervous debility. I suffered greatly from nervous debility. I used your Bibbick's Blood Purifier, and the improvement was so visible that I was able to resume my usual mode of life. I am now, though 61 years of age, as hale and vigorous as I ever was."

C. Brinkley Robinson, proprietor of The Cattle Feeders, Toronto, Ont., writes: "For years I suffered greatly from nervous debility. I used your Bibbick's Blood Purifier, and the improvement was so visible that I was able to resume my usual mode of life. I am now, though 61 years of age, as hale and vigorous as I ever was."

Mrs. Wallace, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "I have used Bibbick's Blood Purifier for nervous and bilious debility, and can recommend it to anyone who is a sufferer from biliousness."

Mrs. M. McMillan, Albany, N. Y., writes: "For several years I have suffered from all the ailments of nervous debility, dyspepsia, and constipation, and I now feel so well as to walk as if I were a young man. I am entirely relieved."
