

No Whiskey!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of temperance by promoting a desire for rum.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is guaranteed to be a non-intoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1887.
Gents:—The foolish wasting of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

TENTH STREET PAVING.

Is Sioux Falls Stone a Granite?

Barker on the Situation—Shall New Bids be Asked for?

Editor of The Bee.

There seems to be a little discussion by those interested in the paving of Tenth, as to the wisdom of accepting the bid for paving with "Sioux Falls" stone.

Perhaps it would be well to state the fact regarding paving Tenth street. It was decided by the majority of the property owners to try and pave with granite, on the general supposition that it would not cost over $3.50 per square yard. On opening the bids the cost was found to be about eight dollars. It was considered that the great majority of the owners of Tenth street property could not stand so great a tax; and by the concurrence of the council and the board was unanimously rejected. It was then decided to call for bids for granite, sandstone and limestone, and to modify the specifications as to secure more reasonable prices. On opening these bids there were no bids for granite, but there were two for "Sioux Falls" stone, the lowest at four dollars and thirty-five cents per yard. There was one for Minnesota lime and sandstone, an excellent stone, at three dollars and thirty-five cents per yard; one of sandstone from Fort Collins, Col., at three dollars and ninety-eight cents; one of Joliet lime stone at four dollars and eight cents.

On a proposal being made to take the Minnesota stone at three dollars and thirty-five cents, it was stated by the city attorney that the board could not accept this bid, as under the ordinance of the city authorizing the paving of Tenth street, only "granite" could be accepted. It was also intimated that if the board was barred from accepting it, on the ground that it was not granite, it might endanger the city's collection, in which case the city at large would have to pay the cost of paving Tenth. The great wisdom of this advice has already been demonstrated. Two large and wealthy owners have intimated to the board that under the present ordinance if any other stone but granite is put down, they will contest in the courts the legality of the levy.

I should state that it was decided by the board before opening the bids that no paving was to be expected this fall; that all that could be done was to prepare during the winter for the work to be done in the spring, after the first of April, and that all bids were made on that understanding.

It will now be perceived how necessary it is that the board should carefully follow the opinion of their legal adviser and every requirement of the laws and ordinances under which it acts, so as not to vitiate its own work, and so entail litigation on the community. This case necessitates some delay, at which so many grumble.

This being the condition, it becomes necessary, to avoid litigation, that steps should be taken to decide the question, "Is Sioux Falls stone a granite?"

Should this be decided in its favor, which I do not believe, there is nothing but the question of cost, and the fact that many horsemen object to it as being too slippery on such a grade as Tenth. The question of cost is a serious one. Several of the wealthy owners do not care for that, but the great majority, among whom are widows and their children, have nothing but their properties on the street, and are naturally objecting to paying over $3.50 per square yard for paving, and declare that sand, or sound limestone, is sufficiently good and more reasonable in price. They say there is ample time between this and April next to re-advertise for several kinds of stone, and that the chances are much more reasonable prices will be secured. As it is a fact that the second bid brought a saving of fifty thousand dollars over the first bid, this is a reasonable suggestion, especially as the Union Pacific authorities assure us that if a third bid is called for they are prepared to lower their rates to the lowest possible point, so as to secure to Omaha a paving sand stone at a much lower rate than has yet been offered. As the bid of fifty thousand dollars over the first bid, this is a reasonable suggestion, especially as the Union Pacific authorities assure us that if a third bid is called for they are prepared to lower their rates to the lowest possible point, so as to secure to Omaha a paving sand stone at a much lower rate than has yet been offered.

ONE KIND OF STONE AND AT A COST WHICH ONLY THE WEALTHY CAN AFFORD TO PAY.

I therefore offer the above for the careful consideration of tax payers.

Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH BARKER,
Of the Board of Public Works.

FREDERICK WARDE,
Return of the Brilliant Young Tragedian to Omaha.

Mr. Frederick Ward, the brilliant young tragedian, appears at the opera house next Friday and Saturday with a strong company in "Damon and Pythias," "Lady of Lyons," and "Richard III." It may be interesting to the Knights of Pythias to know that Ward and Aveling, who play Damon and Pythias respectively, are Sir Knights, being members of No. 6, Lake Shore Lodge, of Cleveland. This is the only instance where these two characters are portrayed by two actual Knights.

The Quincy Whig of Tuesday, October 10th, contains the following interesting article: "Fred B. Ward and company appeared at the opera house last evening to a very large audience. The attendance was a high compliment to the artists, several of whom have warm friends in this city. The audience, however, was a recognition of the dramatic ability of the stars rather than a manifestation of personal regard for the actors. Its enthusiasm was unbounded, but it evinced a critical appreciation of the talent displayed, and the fact that Mr. Ward was repeatedly called before the curtain was evidence of the intrinsic merit of his performance. The play selected was the historical drama of "Damon and Pythias," which had once been performed here by Mr. Ward and his company, but they were induced to repeat it after urgent solicitation. In it Mr. Ward found opportunity for the display of his remarkable talent, and the surrounding circumstances and the occasion seemed to prompt all the actor's exceptional effort. Mr. Ward was compelled to appear before the footlights at the close of the second act.

At the termination of the fourth act Col. Thomas Duff appeared upon the stage and addressed Mr. Ward, saying he had been honored by being chosen on behalf of Mr. Ward's friends in Quincy to welcome him to the city. Mr. Ward was evidently taken aback by the compliment, and he was pleased in view of the fact that Mr. Ward is one of the few dramatic artists of the day who confine themselves to conscientious interpretation of the works of the masters. He assured Mr. Ward that his friends in Quincy will at all times be glad to welcome him to the city and to pay him the respect due to an actor of his rare attainments. Then quoting "bravery is the soul of wit," Col. Duff said it only remained for him to present a handsome portrait of Mr. Ward. The portrait is a very large crayon of Mr. Ward in costume, and is an elegant piece of work as well as perfect likeness. It is from Scott's studio. A more appropriate token of esteem could not have been selected.

Hess Acme Opera Company.
This famous company appears at the City Hall this evening in the "Chimes of Normandy." Since its last appearance in this city, three more prima donnas have been added to the already large list, making it the largest and most complete English opera organization now in existence. The chorus trained to a standard of excellence rarely seen in any traveling company, has been increased and now numbers fifty voices. The costumes are all new, elegant and appropriate. The properties are likewise specially designed and very elaborate. In fact we do not hesitate to assert that the point of musical talent, chorus, costumes, scenery and mechanical effects the ensemble of the company has been so vastly improved as to be scarcely recognized as the old Hess Acme opera company. The succession of crowded houses to which this company has played since its reorganization will bear out in the above statement.

The company is formed of the following well known artists:
Miss Abbie Carrington, Miss Cora Miller, Miss Emma Elmer, Miss St. Quinten, Miss Rose Leighton, Mr. Henry Peaks, Mr. Alfred Wilke, Mr. George Appleby, Mr. A. W. Tams, Mr. James Peaks, Mr. Mark Smith, Mr. J. W. Jones.

Manager Hess, in his selection of artists, has shown rare good judgment and his return with this immeasurable array of talent will be hailed by the people of Omaha with delight.

SLAVEN'S YOSEMITE COLOGNE.
Made from the wild flowers of the YAK FAMED YOSEMITE VALLEY. It is the most fragrant of perfum t. Manufactured by H. B. Slaven, San Francisco. For sale in Omaha by W. J. Whitehouse and Kennard Bros., & Co.
