The Capturer a Boy of Twenty-two.

The State Journal of Sunday morning says: The arrival of the Atchison train at the penitentiary shortly before noon yesterday, closed the third act of one of the most terrible tragedies ever enacted in this section of the western country.

RED-HANDED RUFFIANS had reached a section of the country where they could defy pursuit and capture. An outraged people saw themselves powerless to inflict the vengeance which the crime deserved.

Passing the northeast corner of Treco county, the fugitives stole two fresh horses from the ranch of Mr. Charles Fouts, of Wa Keeny. This act was doubtless necessary, but it sealed their fate.

COOL CANIS.

An Omaha Editor Among the Toughest of New Mexico.

George F. Canis, well known in this city, where at one time he held the responsible position of night editor of THE BEE, had some genuine frontier editorial experience in New Mexico on Monday last.

The storm soon broke and just as Canis emerged from the dining room of his hotel McMains backed by an infuriated mob confronted George F. and heaped the vilest abuse upon him.

McMains addressed the crowd, adding fuel to the flame, and closed by again demanding the files of The News and Press.

Canis coolly said he was unable to produce them. Finally he was asked to dictate a letter of retraction. This he refused to do, but said he would write one himself, and so he did, stating therein that the publication referred to had been the result of misinformation secured from certain parties.

McMains, and he advised the crowd to disperse. Canis remained in Raton a few days and then in company with one of his printers, Frank W. Glendinning, started for Las Vegas.

Those who knew him here never imagined that he had so much "sand," but opportunity has shown him up in truly heroic style.
