

The Daily Bee. COUNCIL BLUFFS. Tuesday Morning Nov. 15.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Advance, $1.00 per Week; By Mail, $10.00 per Year.

Office: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

M. G. GRIFFIN, Manager. H. W. TILKON, City Editor.

MINOR MENTIONS.

J. Mueller's Palace Music Hall. Subscribers for newspapers and periodicals at H. E. Seaman's book store.

The windows are being put into Shurgart's new block. Col. Hoffmeyer will have steam up in a day or two, and the new milling machinery will be set in motion.

Birthday, Holiday and Wedding Gifts at H. E. Seaman's. New lot nicely decorated, 56 pieces, for tea sets, only $5 at Maurer & Craig.

The district court of Carroll county opened yesterday. Judge Reed, (Colonel) Daisley, J. N. Baldwin and others have gone there.

Only one drunk to break the monotony of Monday morning in the police court. He gave his name as John Dunn, and was fined $7.00.

Hand-painted china, art pottery, solid silverware, bronzes, etc., at Maurer & Craig.

The new market of Shull & Mullen, 799 South Main street, guarantee best of meats and prompt attention.

The county board of supervisors went into session yesterday, and will continue their doings until some time to-morrow.

The Young Men's Christian association held a half-hour prayer meeting at their rooms every evening this week, commencing at 7 o'clock.

A fine assortment of Boots and Shoes, sufficient to supply the demands of all, at George Blaxin's south Main street.

Cheap Railroad tickets to all points, Bushnell, five doors north of postoffice, sells them. Entrance, Main or Pearl streets.

Anderson seems to be the last "Charley Ross." Where is he? Some say he has gone to Washington. Some say to Des Moines. More say they don't know.

"Handy Andy" is to be given at Dohany's to-night, it being the second entertainment of the Catholic fair. The admission is only 25 cents.

M. B. Brown, the efficient manager of the Western Union, advertises a house for rent in another column.

Six room house, a store room well located and a forty acre improved, two miles from this city, for rent by W. R. Vaughan.

Joseph Reiter makes the Finest Suits in the latest styles, at the lowest possible price. His merchant tailoring establishment is at 310 Upper Broadway, Council Bluffs.

The two little wooden buildings on Broadway nearly opposite the city building, one occupied by Walters Bros. and the other by Mr. Niles, have been vacated and are now being torn down to make room for a two-story brick building, of about forty feet depth, to be erected at once by Mr. T. W. Woolley, who owns the property.

The sharp turn in the weather necessitating extra fires, should be also accompanied by a little extra caution as to the condition of flues and pipes. A little carelessness at this season is liable to cause much trouble. Care should also be taken in depositing ashes.

The following have been given leave to marry: James Tarlton and Charolotta A. Murph, of Neola; Robert Morrison of Honey Creek, and Hannah Print, of Pottawatomie county; S. P. Thomas and Nancy Thornhill, of Council Bluffs.

Thomas Fay, charged with murdering a drayman by stabbing him in a saloon row, and who has been lying in jail here awaiting trial, was taken to Carroll county yesterday, the district court having opened there.

W. H. Knepper, the tobacconist on Broadway, opposite the Nonpareil, is getting in a new and large supply of fine-cut, plug and smoking tobaccos, and a great variety of fancy goods and smokers' articles. He surely has one of the best stocks of cigars and other goods ever seen here.

Pethybridge & Neunas, proprietors of the Broadway meat market, are doing a thriving business at the Orvis Packing Co.'s old stand, No. 357 Broadway. They are enterprising and accommodating gentlemen, and we bespeak for them a liberal patronage. See their "ad" in another column.

The Catholic fair opened last evening at Dohany's hall, with the presentation of the operetta "Little Red Riding Hood." About seventy took part, mostly children, and they presented it charmingly, it proving to be a fine musical treat. The work of preparation must have been great, but those who undertook it, as well as those who participated on the stage, may well congratulate themselves, and will surely be congratulated by others. It would well bear repetition. The fair will continue through the week. To-night the boys are to give the drama "Handy Andy."

A really sickening case of diphtheria has been brought to the attention of the county authorities and a few of the charitable inclined residents. The family referred to consists of a father and thirteen children, living near the Christian church. The wife and mother lies dead in the house, having succumbed to malarial fever, aggravated by hunger and lack of almost all the necessities of life. Several other of the family are suffering from malarial fever, and from a want of the usual comforts of life. One of the girls is now lying upon a death bed and will probably pass beyond any need of human help before this reaches the eye of the readers. The husband and father is himself being rapidly prostrated by disease. The house is barren of anything in the line of furniture worth mentioning. Some provisions have been sent in by Dr. Burroughs, representing the county, and arrangements made for decently burying the mother. Some charitable souls have been contributing some needed comforts, and it is hoped that the necessities at least will now be provided, for the sight of this home is indeed sickening.

CITY COUNCIL. An Important Business Meeting—Paving and Electric Lights.

At the adjourned meeting of the city council last night, a full board present, the council proceeded to elect an assessor, reserving the right to elect one or two more, or such assistants as may be required, at a subsequent meeting. On the first ballot C. E. Stone was elected unanimously.

The county board of supervisors were present, and conferred with the council informally about the levee matter and Union avenue bridge. The city engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for paving Broadway from the Methodist church to the Northwestern depot, and Main street from Broadway to the Rock Island depot, one set of plans to be for granite, another for wooden blocks, the purpose being to have both streets paved with either one or the other next spring.

The master of electric light was called up and the informal expression of the council was in favor of a local company securing an exhibition here and if it proved successful to give a franchise. The council adjourned until Friday night with the agreement to go in a body this morning to visit the Upper Broadway culvert at the creek, and the levee.

Hobby. Our hobby is honest made boots and shoes. Small profits and quick returns. Z. T. LINDBRY & Co.

The only iron preparation that does not color the teeth, and will not cause headache or constipation, as other iron preparations will, is Brown's Iron Bitters.

Lively Talk on Paving. A largely attended meeting of the board of trade was held last night to discuss the paving of Main and Broadway. All seemed in favor of paving, but a hot discussion arose as to whether stone or wood should be used. Neither side would yield and an adjournment was taken till next Monday night to allow time for each side to bring in statistics and experiences of other cities.

Harrison County's Vote. The official vote of Harrison county gives the republican state ticket two hundred and sixty six majority, but gives Pusey eight majority over Anderson.

COUNT OF THE COUNTY. The Supervisors Meet and Canvass the Vote—Pusey's Majority on the Gain.

Yesterday the county board of supervisors met in regular session, there being in attendance Messrs. Clayton, Frum, Underwood and Phillips, Supervisor Dye being absent. An official canvass of the vote was made, showing the same results as have already been given in THE BEE, the figures being slightly different in some cases. The count on the state ticket, varying but little on the several candidates, resulted in the main as follows:

Republican..... 3,430 Democrat..... 3,094 Greenback..... 156

The count on congressman showed Anderson to have fallen far behind his ticket, he having received 2,706 votes, while Pusey received 4,071, and Hatton, greenbacker, 222, making Pusey's majority 1,365.

For clerk the republican candidate, S. D. Street receives 3,683, and Gallagher 3,429. Street's majority 253.

For county recorder the democratic candidate, Brodbeck, receives 3,407, Keller receiving 3,472, giving the former a majority of 135.

For supervisors, Frum, republican, received 3,856; Putnam, the republican candidate, 3,094; Kirkwood, democrat, 3,818, and Dye, democrat, 3,410. This elects Frum and Kirkwood.

The proposition to build a new county jail met with an overwhelming defeat, the vote of the county showing 2,370 in favor of a new jail, and 3,166 against it, the proposal being defeated by 796 majority. While this city voted almost solidly for it, the county voted straight against it.

"Don't Hurry, Gentlemen." Said a man on his way to be hanged, "there'll be no fun till I get there." We say to the dyspeptic, nervous, and debilitated, don't hurry thoughtlessly for some remedy of doubtful merit, uncertain of relief, when you can get at the druggists for one dollar Burdock Blood Bitters almost sure to cure and certain to benefit.

A MORNING FIRE. A Dwelling House Belonging to J. M. Palmer Burned to the Ground.

Yesterday morning, shortly after 2 o'clock, an alarm of fire was sent in by telephone from the Drovers' hotel, caused by the discovery of flames issuing from a dwelling house located just opposite. The rough condition of the roads made the steamer a little late in reaching the spot, and in the mean time the flames gained great headway and threatened the hotel so that the liveliest work with buckets and pails became necessary to save it. On the arrival of the fire department there could be little done for the burning house beyond saving a portion of the contents, the building itself being so enveloped in flames that nothing could prevent its being burned to the ground. Fortunately the hotel was saved. The house thus burned was owned by Mr. J. M. Palmer, and the loss will reach about $1,800, on which there was an insurance in Odel & Day's agency, of $1,200. The cause of the fire is unknown. The house was occupied by a colored family, who kept a number of boarders.

Do not be deceived. Insist on having the genuine Brown's Iron Bitters made only by the Brown Chemical Co., and take nothing else.

THE NEW DIRECTORY. It Shows the Population of Council Bluffs to be 21,354.

The new directory of Council Bluffs is now being distributed, and the compiler, J. P. Bushnell, has kindly placed one upon THE BEE's table. It is a volume of about 350 pages, presenting an attractive typographical appearance, while the matter is arranged in very convenient form for ready reference. It appears from what examination we have thus far given it to be far above the usual directory in accuracy and completeness, and it contains much valuable information besides the alphabetical list of citizens. It evidently takes rank as the best directory yet furnished this city, and as the most getting great credit on account of the length of time since the last one and the many changes here, it will be welcome to every counting room, office and business house.

The population of the city, as shown by a careful canvass, proves to be 21,354, estimating four persons to every acre given a place in the directory. The work contains a review of the various interests of the city, a resume of its history, the facts of its growth and prospects, a special showing of the railways which make this one of the great railway centers of the country. Besides a complete resident and business directory there is a complete showing of the churches, schools and societies. The volume contains also a list of the city officers, and one also of the states of Iowa, a full street and avenue directory is also presented, giving both the old and new names.

One of the best features of the book is that it contains a complete list of the post-offices in Iowa, with the money order offices and county seats. The census of Iowa and that of the United States and territory is given, and finally the constitution of the state.

Taken all in all, it appears to be one of the most complete and valuable directories which any city could ask for, and Mr. Bushnell is certainly entitled to credit.

Depend Upon It. Mother Shilton's Ointment and Lumbago's are very uncertain things, but Shilton's Electric Oil can be depended upon always. It cures aches and pains of every description.

Moved Their Quarters. Walters Bros., harness makers and dealers in saddlery, and turf goods, have removed to J. B. Lewis' old stand, opposite the Ogden house, where they will be pleased to meet their old customers and many new ones.

First Rate Evidence. "Often unable to attend business, being subject to serious disorder of the kidneys. After a long illness I obtained Burdock Blood Bitters and was relieved by half a bottle," Mr. E. Turner, of Rochester, N. Y., takes the pains to write.

THE ELEPHANTS' BATH. Barnum's Twenty Elephants Take a Dip in the Sad Sea-Waves.

Barnum took a notion to give twenty of his elephants a swim in the salt water of the ocean, near the Park, near the showman's mansion, is a magnificent area of tastefully improved land, reaching down to the water's edge, and fringed with a gently sloping, pebbly beach. To this beach the elephants were marched in a stately procession, followed by an immense crowd, which seemed to embrace half the people of Connecticut. Thousands of people were on hand to enjoy the fun. As soon as the elephants got a sight of the Sound they made a break for the water, with expressions of the most stupendous joy. They showed no desire to keep near the shore, but pushed for deep water, where they began to play with all the heartiness of a lot of school-boys left loose in the surf. Never had elephants displayed to a paying crowd their capacity for fun and frolic in so pronounced a manner. They frisked like puppies, tumbling each other over in the water and performing all sorts of wild gymnastic feats. Two elephants would sportively go for a third and duck him under the water. Then half a dozen of them would fill their trunks with water and squirt it at each other as children in the surf splash water in each other's faces with their hands. Sometimes an elephant would be missing for several minutes, and people would get an idea that he had sunk to rise no more. But, presently, the round black nozzle of his trunk would appear on the surface, reminding the spectator that a beast with such a long nose can remain out of sight as long as he pleases, if he only keeps the end of his breathing apparatus within reach of fresh air.

"Emperor," the large and unruly elephant, who made such trouble last summer when he escaped at Troy and went on a rampage through the streets of that city at night, showed a sportively riotous disposition. He acted as if he was drunk and wanted to get up a fight among the other elephants. He is next to Jumbo in size, and is ten times as frisky. He took several of the little elephants one by one and tossed them over and around in the water as if they were cats. Two or three of the little ones thought it was too much of a good thing, and seemed to want to utilize their efforts to play a trick on the monster, and hold him under the water. This they tried for a little while, but soon got enough of it. They knew how ugly he could be when he felt like it, and so, after a few weak trials, they concluded to let him alone. After awhile Emperor and another elephant nearly as big as himself took a notion to start off toward the Long Island shore. Side by side, as if harnessed together, they swam majestically away, but returned no more. When they had gone several hundred yards one of the keepers put after them in a row-boat, and soon caught up with them. He had a pole with a hook at the end, and used among elephants for an instrument of correction. After he had given Emperor one or two punches with this the beast turned and gave the boat a push with his shoulder, indicative of what he might further do if annoyed. The boat began to fill, and the frightened keeper headed for shore. As he turned the other elephant gave the boat a whack with his trunk, just as a lit's reminder. For a few moments there was deep excitement among the crowd for nobody knew but that the creatures might take it into their heads to swim the whole length of Long Island Sound, and thence out to sea. Somebody suggested sending a steam tug after them, and others idly suggested proposed hurricanes and landslides. The venerable Barnum sat on the porch of the bathing pavilion, near by, and laughed like a big boy, heartily enjoying the fun, and knowing that the votes of Ardinghall, the chief trader, would in time avail to prevent the animals from being lost at sea. In a few minutes Ardinghall's word of command was heard from the beach. Instantly the swimmers turned and headed for the shore, greeted by immense cheering from the crowd. The whole swim of the elephantine party lasted about two hours, to the great delight of the boats themselves and the Bredgeporters who were assembled to see them. Interest in the performance did not for a moment flag, though the day was cold and drizzly. The elephants would have staid in the water all the afternoon, had they not been commanded to come out. When called to come to the shore they obeyed very reluctantly, performing all sorts of capers. One muscular elephant would his trunk around one of the posts supporting the platform which extends out from the bathing pavilion over the water of the sound. He was about to pull this post up, the effect of which would have been to give a large party of people an unexpected bath. His keeper told him to stop it. With the aid of a boy caught in the act of stealing jam from his mother's pantry, the beast let go of the post, tucked his trunk under his left fore leg, and ambled ashore.

Arrived on the pebbly beach the elephants had to be chained or hobbed to prevent them from doing mischief as they paraded through the streets for their winter quarters, which are about half a mile from the shore. While the keepers were adjusting the chains the boats made the most of their opportunity to have some fun with the soft mud at the water's edge, in which they were standing. Scooping up as much of it as they could conveniently handle with their trunks they slung it around at each other and at the bystanders. There was a sudden scattering among the boys and others who were thus visited with a baptism of mud. The chaining completed, the whole party marched off as stately and solemn as if no such picnic as they had enjoyed had ever been heard of. Jumbo was kept at home.

A colored man living on Indiana street lately had occasion to ask the advice of the patrolman in that district, as to how he should treat some boys who called him names as he passed a certain corner.

"I wouldn't mind 'em," was the reply.

"Just what I reckoned on," said the complainant. "I had my mind made up to treat 'em wid proud disdain. But dar's a naybur o' mine who frowns clubs at my dog an' cusses my child'en. Would you also come de proud disdain over him?"

"Cos I think so."

"Dar's wife she man libin' round de corner who say I stole his ax. I reckon dat proud disdain will fix him if I keep it up long enough?"

"It certainly will."

"Wall, den it am settled dat I doan' talk back in none o' dese cases, but dar' am one fing I wans understood right heah an' now.
