THE SCHOOL BOARD. Miscellaneous Business Transacted Last Night.

An adjourned meeting of the board of education was held last evening at the ticket office of the Union Pacific in Millard hotel block.

Roll call showed Messrs. Anderson, Conroy, McShane, Points and President Long present.

Bids were received for the grading of the Eleventh and Center street school site, and the contract was let to the lowest bidder, Anthon Peterson, at 17 cents per yard.

A bid was received from A. H. Doneken to build 134 feet of fencing for the Third ward school house, for $20.00.

The estimates of work done on the Center street and West Omaha schools were approved and payment of the amounts authorized.

The committee on public property and improvements recommended the following salaries for janitors: Central school, $105 for winter months and $80 for summer months; North school, $70 winter and $40 summer months; East and South schools, $40 and $30; Jackson, $26 and $18; West and Hartman, undecided.

The recommendation was adopted. In the matter of the principalship of the Cass street school, the committee on teachers and text books recommended that Miss Willard be appointed until the end of the term.

A ballot resulted: Miss McCarthy, 2; Miss Butterfield, 1; Miss McChesne, 2. No election.

The report of the committee was then adopted by a vote of 3 to 2.

The matter of a change in drawing books was laid over till next regular meeting for action.

Plans for outhouses of Eleventh and Center street school, presented by Clever Brothers, were received and referred to the committee on buildings and property, with power to act.

A school site was offered the board and was referred.

Adjourned to meet at 5 p. m. Thursday.

CONGRATULATING CANFIELD.

Honors Paid to the New Senator from Douglas County.

A Double Serenade--Speeches of Congratulation, Etc.

The closest contest in the election just past, was that between Mr. Geo. H. Canfield, proprietor of the Canfield House, and Mr. Charles H. Dewey, for the position of state senator from Douglas county.

It was a peculiar fight in many respects. Mr. Canfield was put on the ticket, much against his will, after the declination of Judge Savage, just three days before the election.

As a general thing his friends were the friends of Mr. Dewey, for both are men of the same popular characteristics, and without an enemy in the world.

On election day Mr. Canfield's friends were working for him, and Dewey, not thinking that the final struggle would be between the two, and as the result narrowed down and other candidates were left out in the cold, it became a fair, square fight between two of the best and most popular men in the city for supremacy, resulting in victory for the democratic nominee.

Last evening, after the result of the canvass became known, it was determined to tender the successful candidate a testimonial of the sentiment of his friends.

At midnight Prof. Yeager's cornet band, from the Academy of Music, appeared, attended by about a hundred of the friends of the senator, and discoursed some of their choicest selections.

They were invited in and treated to the best the house could afford, including sparkling champagne, which flowed freely as Missouri river water.

Dr. E. Willard Blair made a very apt and happy speech, in which he extolled the qualities of Senator Canfield as a man, a friend and a good citizen, and returned the thanks of the senator for the demonstration of approval.

He was followed by City Editor Kent of The Bee, Sorenson of the Republican, Woodbridge of the Herald, Charles Scanland on behalf of the colored people, and a number of other speakers, representing both political parties, the majority being republicans.

The speeches were followed by songs and recitations from several professional gentlemen present, and by a universal expression of pleasure at the election of a man who is known to be a friend of the kind that can always be tied to. One or two of Mr. Canfield's enthusiastic admirers nominated him as the next governor of Nebraska, and another even landed him in the white house.

The senator is very modest, however, and the highest compliment, and the truest and under whatever circumstances, he would always remember his friends and have a warm spot in his heart for them.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation to Prof. Yeager of a magnificent B flat cornet from Mr. Canfield, who had drawn it very unexpectedly to himself from a subscription in aid of a poor woman.

OMAHA FREIGHT WAR.

The Illinois Central Stands Out.

The Railways Differ About Pooling Arrangements, While Shippers Look Joyfully for Cut Rates.

Railway circles are again being profoundly agitated over certain complications that threaten an old time war in rates on westbound business.

In fact, the chances for a vigorous onslaught on rates is decidedly good. The trouble lies between the five roads comprising the Iowa pool and the Illinois Central road.

The latter does not belong to the Iowa trunk line pool and does not seem very desirous of joining, though asked to do so by the pooling roads.

The lines in the Iowa pool are the Burlington, Northwest, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Rock Island, and Wabash, and all pool on business from and to Omaha and connecting points.

It is a pool virtually on Iowa through business. Now the Illinois Central road has, by a pro rata compact with the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha road, an inlet to Omaha via the latter line and Sioux City, and they are cutting in heavily on through traffic from Omaha to Chicago.

They catch business from the Union Pacific that comes from the Pacific coast, and it is charged by other lines that the Illinois Central is cutting rates, which occasions the diversion of traffic to the new line.

Another cause given is that the freight houses of the Central in Chicago are located right among the wholesale houses, and cartage on goods is saved firms, thus creating a demand for consignments of goods to be shipped via the Illinois Central.

The pool association has been trying to take some action in the matter, and it is understood, is very anxious to get the Illinois Central into the association.

A meeting of the traffic managers of the various roads, with Mr. Tucker, traffic manager of the Illinois Central, was held in Chicago Friday, but no terms were arrived at.

Mr. Tucker has said his road has gained an entrance to Omaha, is working up a big traffic, and proposes to hold their present position.

They are to be backed by the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road and will fight for their traffic if necessary. He claims that the Illinois Central was never anxious to join the Iowa pool and that the latter invited them to come in.

He was not certain what action would be taken but claimed that the Central must receive a good percentage of the pool before they would agree to join.
