MINOR MENTIONS.

—J. Mueller's Palace Music Hall.

—The Catholic fair at the opera house should be remembered.

—Subscribe for newspapers and periodicals at H. E. Seaman's book store.

—Permit to wed was yesterday given to George Thayer, of Washington township, and Mary Kearney, of Hardin township.

—Birthday, Holiday and Wedding Gifts at H. E. Seaman's. nov9-tf

—New lot nicely decorated, 56 pieces, of tea sets, only $5 at Maurer & Craig.

—Attention Rescue No. 3. A special meeting will be held this evening. Business of importance. Each and every member requested to be present.

—Hand-painted china, art pottery, solid silverware, bronzes, &c., at Maurer & Craig.

—The new meat market of Shull & Mullen, 799 South Main street, guarantee best of meats and prompt attention.

—The Catholic fair is still in progress. "The Rescue of Little Red Riding Hood" is to be repeated in connection therewith Friday afternoon at Dohany's. It should draw a crowd.

—A fine assortment of Boots and Shoes, sufficient to supply the demands of all, at George Blaxim's south Main street.

—Cheap Railroad tickets to all points, Bushnell, five doors north of postoffice, sells them. Entrance, Main or Pearl streets.

—A number of the young and old bachelors of the Congregational church are arranging for a "bachelor" social at the residence of A. B. Walker on the 23d inst. "Jym Natus" promises to be present on the occasion, and a good time is being prepared for all.

—Six room house, a store room well located and a forty acre improved, two miles from this city, for rent by W. R. Vaughan.

—Joseph Reiter makes the Finest Suits in the latest styles, at the lowest possible prices. His merchant tailoring establishment is at 310 Upper Broadway, Council Bluffs.

—A skillful operation, an ovarian tumor weighing twenty-five pounds was removed from Mrs. J. Schnitz. The operation was performed by Dr. Hart assisted by Drs. Green, McCrea, Lacey and Seifert, there were also present Dr. Cook, of this city, and Dr. Smith, of New York. The patient is doing well.

—Fred Brack, a rag picker, was arrested on the charge of larceny. It appears that while going the rounds he came across some old coats and vests, which men at work on the streets had laid aside while engaged in active duty. He sold the old clothes for rags and discovered his mistake.

—Joseph Mims is the name of a colored man who was occupying the dwelling house owned by J. M. Palmer, and burned Monday. He is a worthy colored man, without a family, and has been keeping about thirty boarders. He came from Cedar Rapids about eight weeks ago, and his loss on furniture is about $100, while he lost also $20 in cash.

—The Iowa Stock Insurance company, which has its headquarters at 103 Pearl street, is now fully organized under the state laws, and the following have been elected officers: S. M. Crooks, president; J. C. Hoffman, vice president; N. B. Easton, secretary, and N. B. Moore, attorney. The Citizens' bank has been selected as a depository. The company has already gained considerable business, and is increasing rapidly.

—Last evening there was a large company of friends gathered at the residence of Mrs. R. M. Osborne, on Third avenue, to witness the marriage of her daughter, Miss Louie E. Osborne, to Charles H. Ferson, the cashier of the Council Bluffs Gaslight company. Rev. J. Z. Armstrong, of the First Methodist church, officiated. The contracting parties are both widely known in this city, and have a large circle of admiring friends, whose best wishes and heartiest congratulations are called forth by the event of their union. The occasion was an enjoyable one in all its details and many beautiful and valuable gifts were presented, while the hospitality shown the guests was complete in every respect.

—The Crawford County Bulletin, democratic, and red-hotth so, says of the result: "Although Mr. Pusey is elected by an overwhelming majority, we do not claim it as a democratic victory. While Mr. Pusey is a democrat he is not a bitter partisan who will sacrifice the people's interests for party ends. He could not have been elected but for republican votes, and his triumph represents the united interests of the best elements of both parties. There was a spontaneous uprising in behalf of good government, personal integrity, pure morals and executive ability. The seal of public disapproval has consigned the hero of the bond and shears to the shades of private life. Honest republicans have joined hands with democrats and declared that honest men are more sacred than party ties. Machine politicians are remanded to the rear until the interests of the people are respected in their conclaves. The time has come when a nomination is not equivalent to an election, and only men of good judgment and respectability can hope to attain the best offices in the gift of the people."

How Much Will Do It?

How much of Thomas' Eclectric Oil is required to cure? Only a very little. A few drops will cure any kind of an ache; and but a trifle more is needed for sprains and lameness. Rheumatism is not so readily affected; an ounce and sometimes two ounces are required. No medicine, however, is so sure to cure with the same number of applications.

The only iron preparation that does not color the teeth, and will not cause headache or constipation, as other iron preparations will, is Brown's Iron Bitters.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Some of the Police Officers Said to Have Been Bribed

Five Crooks Arrested and Then Turned Loose.

The Affidavit of an Eye Witness.

Yesterday there was a sensational outbreak in police circles, the details of which are of startling interest, as they cluster about an open charge that Officers Cusick and Sterling had been bribed, it being claimed that after arresting five supposed crooks, they allowed them to go again, the cause being as stated by the accuser, money slipped into the hands of the officers.

The chief accuser is Thomas J. Gillis, a cripple, who has lived here some time, and who gains a livelihood by selling songs on the various trains running out of Council Bluffs. He is a married man, and lives in a comfortable manner here, dresses well, and manages to all appearance to get a pretty good living out of what seems to be a not over-profitable means, selling songs for whatever the buyer may choose to give. He is known to all the railway men, and he claims that he has been instructed by some of the officers of the C. B. & Q railway company to notify conductors and others if any sharpers who may try to work the trains, as he knows many of them. He claims that by doing so he has got several of the crooks down upon him, and some of them have made threats against him.

Yesterday morning it appears they arranged to carry this threat into execution. While he was in a car of the C., B. & Q train, which was standing at the transfer, ready to start out, five of them pitched onto him, one drawing a dirk, but the others preventing its use, after one pass had been made which cut Gillis' coat. They then thumped him several times, and the passengers seeking to interfere they drew revolvers and presented them. They then left the car, and Officer Cusick being told that there was a row started after them, together with Officer Sterling, who chanced to be at the depot to meet his sister-in-law. Officer McMillen, of the U. P. force, went also. The five men were arrested, and Officer McMillan, turning back to the depot, left the city's officers to go on with the prisoners. A little distance further the men were let go.

The crippled man, Gillis, says that he saw money passed to the officers "to fix them," and that was the reason the men were let go, and that he was himself given a $5 gold piece and told that would pay him for the thumping he had received, and told to go on about his business. Officers Cusick and Sterling deny that they ever received a cent, and claim that Gillis, after receiving the $5, refused to appear to prosecute, and so the men were let go.

The charge is a serious one against these officers, and they should not be adjudged hastily. The public is naturally suspicious, because of the fact that confidence men have been doing more or less work here all summer, and none have been brought to justice. THE BEE has time and again urged that they be arrested under the vagrancy law, which is broad enough for that purpose, it providing that men having the reputation of crooks may be punished, whether they have money in their pockets and good clothes on their backs or not. If arrested under this law the city could be made an uncomfortable place for them to stay, but not even this much has been done Two at least of the five men charged with this assault have been hanging about here for months, and have the reputation of crooks.

It was a bad break for the officers when they let these five go, instead of taking them to the police station and making Gillis go there as a witness, if he did not want to go voluntarily. While it is claimed that Gillis, in making the charge of bribery, is actuated by either malice or a desire to gain public sympathy, yet it is a sufficiently serious matter and the surrounding circumstances are so suspicious that a full investigation should be had, both in justice to the public and in justice to the officers, who have lived here long, and whose reputations are at stake.

The following sworn statement of Thomas J. Gillis is given, that the public may be in possession of all the facts:

STATE OF IOWA, } ss.
POTTAWATTAMIE COUNTY, }

Thomas J. Gillis, being duly sworn, deposeth and saith: On the 15th day of November, 1882, while on a train of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy at the transfer, in this city, I was assaulted by five men, whom I have known as confidence men and crooks, and who have had a grudge against me because at sundry times I have warned passengers to look out for them. One of them struck me and then pulled a dirk, when one of the others said, "Cheese it; don't use the shivel on him; slug him." The other three had revolvers, and pointing them at passengers, prevented their interfering. One of them then hit me again. I got away and rushed out of the car. They tried to get out the other end, and there being too big a crowd, they came back, got off the car and put for the Drovers' hotel. Officer Cusick came running up the sidewalk and I told him what the trouble was, and Officers Sterling and McMillan, the officers at the depot, came up also, and all of us started after them, On catching up with the men, McMillan tried to arrest them, and on being threatened told them "to make no break, as it would be no go." When quieted down McMillan left them for Officers Cusick and Sterling to take to the station. They started off, and when back of the Drovers' hotel then Cusick told me I had better let it drop, as they had witnesses against me, that I tried to fire a gun on them. About a hundred yards from the hotel one of the gang pulled out a roll of bills and passed Officer Sterling a couple of bills or so, and called to one of the others, who was walking with Cusick, and me, and gave him some of the money, which this man afterwards slipped into Cusick's hands The "con." man then told me that if I would keep my mouth shut down there I could make $100 a month. He then slipped a $5 gold piece into my hand After going a little way further Cusick told me I had better go back to the depot and drop this, or he would take me up with them and put me in the hole. I started back, and after going about twenty rods, Cusick caught up with me and walked back to the depot with me. I was told afterwards that Officer Sterling walked with the men as far as the packing house and then left them.

THOMAS J. GILLIS.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of November, 1882.

[SEAL] EDWIN J. ABBOTT, Notary Public.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Officer Sterling says: "I was at the transfer to meet one of my relatives, and noticed five men whom I thought were sharpers. They got off the street car. I had to look after my relative, and after getting the lady seated in the street car, I was told by the driver that there was a fuss. I started, and met Officers Cusick and McMillen, and after telling my relative that she she would have to go up town alone as I had business, started after Cusick and McMillen, and caught up with the men at the same time they did. The cripple was there to and he pointed out a man as the one that hit him. This man denied it, and said the cripple pulled a gun on him, and hit him, and showed his hand where he had hit him over the knuckles. There was some hot talk between the cripple and this man, but this was quieted, and we officers started with the men, McMillen going only as far as the Drovers' hotel. On the way from the Drovers' hotel to the school house the cripple fell behind with one of these men. I heard him call out 'I am not going to do anything more about these men. I am going back, and won't appear against them. I'm just as much to blame as they are.' Cusick called me back, and then the cripple said 'You fellows have been fixed.' I then said, 'Now, you'll all go up.' The cripple was fetched up to the crowd then, and one of the party said to the cripple, 'Now give me back that $5.' The cripple then said, 'I ain't going to do anything with them. I won't appear against them,' and started back toward the depot, Officer Cusick going with him. The men then walked along with me three or four blocks and then they turned off, and I came up town. The reason why I did not bring the men up to the station was that I saw nothing of the row myself, and as long as the cripple refused to appear, I thought it was no use. He seemed not to be hurt badly, and I thought if anyone ought to be arrested it was him, by the way he talked. The cripple claimed that the man had a knife and that his coat was cut, but could see no cut on his coat, and could find no knife on the man."

Officer Cusick corroborates the statement of Officer Sterling, and says that "on the way back to the depot with Gillis he charged me with being fixed. I pulled everything out of my pockets, keys, whistle, etc., and I showed him them and offered to let him search me, and that he could have all the money he could find on me. He would not do this That conversation was in the presence of James McMahon, who chanced to be near. Of the five men I knew only two of them as crooks, and notified Chancey Cook, the Northwestern conductor, to look out for them, and had started back to another train when the row started on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy."

Both officers insist that the charge is false, and propose to make it warm for Gillis, whose reputation they claim is not of the best.

About 5 o'clock last evening Officer Sterling found the five men who were let go in the morning, and they went with him to the police station, where a complaint had been lodged against them, charging them with assault with intent to do great bodily harm. The gave bonds of $300 to appear in court to-day, and the officers say they propose to go to the bottom of the matter and establish their innocence, and it is expected that the five men will testify that Gillis' statement is false. There promises to be more music before there is less.

The venerable father of Jerry Meyers, who has been visiting in this city for a short time, has returned to his home in Pennsylvania.

J. A. Bede, of the Union Arrow, was in the city yesterday and favored THE BEE with a congratulatory call. He has had a bitter fight against Anderson, and rejoices accordingly in the result of the election. He don't have to guard his office now to keep it from being sacked by Anderson men.

BEFORE THE BOARD.

Sundry Matters Disposed of by the Board of Supervisors and Adjournment Taken.

The county board of supervisors completed their business yesterday afternoon and adjourned until the next regular meeting, in January.

The bridge petitioned for by G. W Graybill and others, was referred to S. G. Underwood, to report at the January term.

On the petition of E. Burliridge and others for a bridge in Bonner township, Mr. Phillips reported, recommending the building of the same as soon as the funds permitted.

Mr. Phillips was instructed to have three sets of piles drove for a bridge near Barton's, in Hazel Dell township.

A number of tax matters were disposed of, consuming the rest of the time until adjournment.

The board put off the allowing of many bills of constables, election boards, etc, until the next meeting.

"Don't Hurry, Gentlemen."

Said a man on his way to be hanged, "there'll be no fun till I get there." We say to the dyspeptic, nervous, and debilitated, don't hurry thoughtlessly for some remedy of doubtful merit, uncertain of relief, when you can get at the druggists for one dollar Burdock Blood Bitters almost sure to cure and certain to benefit.

The Harvest of Hair.

Hair Dresser.

About the month of May the gatherers of the lower order of trade, peddlers, etc., commence harvesting; they come to the villages at regular intervals. The largest cut is made in Auvernia department (Western France) during the annual fair, about St. John's day, when the gatherer, with his wares and shining coin, most successfully tempts the unsophisticated country girls and becomes owner of the choicest of their hair at the lowest possible price. The provincial girl, as she is called, will make her choice of merchandise or give orders for something else. The scissors may at once come into use, and accounts settled, or she may take advance payments for her silken coils, to be cut at some future time, the hair to grow until a time stipulated. Advances may be made on the next tour or five years' crop; the executioner with his scissors will rather be later than too soon to uncoil his hair debtor, for such debts are always honored. These gatherings (one of the curiosities of Parisian industry) last from spring to fall, when the gatherers make their last delivery of hair, balance merchandise or contracts taken, square their own accounts, and return to their various trades, by which they strive to accumulate small sums of money or merchandise to assist them in their luring traffic next spring. Large quantities of beautiful hair, soft, clean and delightfully perfumed, come into the market. One can almost imagine that he can yet see the hand of the lever on its waving brilliancy. A considerable quantity of hair is derived from chapels or shrines in Brittany, where, according to an old custom, a great number of devotees make offerings of their hair to poor Mother Virgin Mary, and as those donations accumulate they are scattered among all nations, creeds, virtues, or otherwise—such is heavenly accommodation In Venetia, Lombardy and Piedmont, two thousand gatherers are employed, who send their cuttings to the French market.

"Men are but sorry witnesses in their own cause." The praise of Kidney-Wort comes from the mouths of those who have been made strong and healthy by it. Listen: "It is curing everybody," writes a druggist. "Kidney-Wort is the most popular medicine we sell." It should be by right, for no other medicine has such specific action on the liver, bowels and kidneys.

Brother Gardner's Religion.

Detroit Free Press.

I want a religion, my friends, dat kin stan' temptashun. I want one dat kin meet Satan at de doah of a circus an' knock him colder dan a wedge. I want one dat will let me play euchre an' yet keep me from cheatin'. I want one dat will go wid me to de theater an' enjoy what am good an' condemn what am bad. I want a religion widout any dyspepsia or liber complaint in it. If it am de sort of a religion dat a dance am gwine to peel off I want to know it in time to look fur a kind dat will stick to me frew thick an' thin. A person who am afeared dat de minit he begins to smile his religion will begin to crack like new varnish must be in an uncomfortable state o' mind. Let me be tempted. If my religion am strong 'nuff to resist I shall have de glory of victory. If it am not, let me ax for forgiveness an' tighten up do bolts an' try again. Be good. Respect de church. Reverence true Christianity, an' try an foller de teachin' of de good book, but be keerful how you clothe yourselves in armor dat will be shivered by de sounds of a fiddle an' fall to de ground at de sight of a circus purcession. Let us now assault de reg'lar order o' bizness.
