LOCAL BREVITIES.

—The weather is growing considerably milder.

—Park Goodwin's majority in the district is about 300.

—There were two deaths at St. Joseph's hospital Tuesday.

—Wesley Linton was arrested yesterday for threatening the life of John Mullinger.

—Lucy Ryan and her husband Tony have made up and left town together.

—A force of men has resumed the work on Douglas street paving with well advised celerity.

—Thanksgiving services will inaugurate the use of the new Swedish church on Cass street.

—The funeral of the late Harry S. Parmalee took place at 2 p. m. yesterday. He leaves a wife and one child.

—If our good people knew how cheap Frederick, the Hatter, is selling his Winter Caps they would all give him a call.

—The E. M. A. will hold their monthly social on Thursday evening, Nov. 16th. All members are requested to be present.

—The price of beer is raised to $2.25 per keg by the Omaha brewers in consequence of the advance in the cost of hops.

—Fenden Brown, who was so badly hurt by Gorman last Friday night and was sent up to St. Joseph's hospital on Sunday in a critical condition, is reported much better and able to appear in court and testify against the prisoners.

—Two or three colored men have been arrested on suspicion of being James Olcott's assailant but he was unable to identify either. It was so dark at the time that it is probable he did not see the man's features at all.

—The W. C. T. U. will hold their weekly meeting in the parlors of the Baptist church on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 16th, at 3 o'clock. Every member is requested to be present. By order of the Secretary.

—An excitement was occasioned on Saunders street yesterday by a horse falling into a trench dug by the water works company. The trench was exactly as long as the horse's body and so close a fit that he stood upright in it with his head resting outside on the surface. One end of the trench was dug out and the horse extricated himself without serious injury.

—Hon. Frank Colpetzer, representative elect from Douglas county, desires THE BEE to correct the statement made in Monday's issue that he takes his certificate by virtue of Jefferson precinct being thrown out in the canvas. It seems that his majority would have been increased instead of diminished had the vote of Jefferson been counted. Mr. Colpetzer says he would not take an office if he could only get it through a mistake.

—Herbert Leavitt, the accommodating and efficient deputy clerk of Douglas county, was absent from his post Tuesday, a very unusual occurrence, and his friends feared that he was sick. He did not give any explanation yesterday but a BEE reporter received the information from another source that he had stayed at home to give a reception to a new son and heir, which arrived Monday. It was a ten pounder. Both mother and child are doing well —As will be seen by a dispatch published elsewhere the executive committee of the Irish National Land League has advised the reorganization of the League with a view of giving prestige to the national movement. It will be remembered that a few weeks ago the Omaha branch met and determined whatever the rest did they would not disband and a prominent member said to THE BEE reporter yesterday: "Just wait and you shall see the Omaha League booming under its new auspices very soon.

—One of the regular periodical boarders at the city and county jail was brought before Judge Beneke yesterday on the old charge of intoxication. He had just completed a term of 18 days and as he said he was about to leave town the judge gave him 30 days at hard labor and suspended sentence until 12 o'clock, with the admonition that if he was found within the city limits again in the year 1882, he would be sent up to serve out his time. As the prisoner went down Farnam street he turned a wistful look at the jail on the hill and remarked "Farewell, my home, farewell. Oh it is hard to be banished from the place we love."

—The fifth annual ball of the Pioneer hook and ladder company will be held at Masonic hall on November 29th. The committee on arrangements is composed of Ed. Wittig, Chas. Fisher, J. Rothholz, T. H. Koester and L. Kroetzsch.

—Hon. Joseph Redman was united in marriage to Mrs. Libbie Hascall on Sunday evening, Nov. 12, 1882, at the residence of David Harper, Esq., Rev. G. F. Stelling, D. D., officiating.

—At the board of public works, at an informal meeting immediately after the adjournment of the city council Tuesday night, let the contract for paving Tenth street with Sioux Falls stone to Mr. Mack, that vexed question may be regarded as settled. A good chance to see specimens of the new paving material is offered by a pile of the granite blocks in front of Kuhn's drug store on Douglas and Fifteenth, while the limestone blocks near by offer a striking contract. It is proposed to begin the shipment of the stone to Omaha at once.

—The storm doors now being placed in front of entrance to Boyd's opera house will be ornamental as well as useful during the winter months.

—The number of the aspirants of the Sisters of Mercy in this city, yesteday at the convent on St. Mary's avenue, was decreased by the death of one of their most promising members. Miss Lucy Fitzgerald, a young lady both of brilliancy and accomplishments, and but recently arrived in this country from Ireland, was the victim, succumbing after an illness of but a few days to an attack of typhoid fever. Miss Fitzgerald was admitted among the aspirants to the order of the sisters above mentioned in July of the present year, and had almost passed the period of probation preparatory to being admitted among the novices. The deceased has friends living in New Castle, Neb., to whom a telegram of the event has been sent. The funeral will take place this morning from the novitiate on St. Mary's, avenue to the cemetery of the Holy Sepulctre.

A Challenge Accepted.

Mr. Jack Manley:

Seeing your challenge in yesterday morning's Republican, stating that you would like to spar me for $250 a side, and would prefer me to all others in the city, I hereby accept your challenge, and to show you that I mean business, I have deposited a forfeit of fifty dollars with Manager Nugent of the Academy of Music as an earnest of good faith, so as not to interfere with your engagements, I will let you name the time and place, time not to exceed two weeks from date. I do not claim the championship of Nebraska, and as a sparrer I ceased to appear before the public two years ago, but as I have a few friends in the city who feel confident that I am a match for you, I will contest with you for the two hundred and fifty dollars a side.

Yours respectfully,
WILLIAM MCCUNE

A SUPERB SOUVENIR.

Which is desiered for presentation to ex-Superintendent Bob Law.

Mr. Robert Law, so long a popular division superintendent on the U. P., and recently appointed to a responsible position on the C. B. & Q., is expected to make another visit to Cheyenne previous to his departure to his new headquarters at Keokuk, and his friends propose to make it the occasion for an expression of their good wishes for his future success and prosperity.

There is now to be seen in the window of a Cheyenne jewelry establishment a magnificent set of solid silverware, consisting of 132 pieces, of antique design, as follows:

One dozer gilded ice cream spoons, all of different patterns, one soup ladle, one oyster ladle, two gravy ladles, one sugar ladle, fish knives and forks, berry spoon, preserve spoon, salid spoon, sugar spoon, gravy spoon, a set of butter knives, one pickle fork, one dozen desert knives, one dozen coffee spoons, one carving set of five pieces, one oyster tureen, three ten-inch double dishes, one dozen tea spoons, one dozen desert spoons, one dozen table spoons, one and a half dozen table spoons, one and a half dozen desert spoons.

All of the above are engraved with the initial "L," and are contained in an elegant cabinet marked, "Robert Law; from his Cheyenne friends." The silverware is valued at $750, and is a handsome tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Law.

PHENOMENAL WEATHER

Signal Service Transfers—The Sudden Change of the Past Week.

A great many of our citizens will remember Mr. L. M. Dey, who was the observer of the signal office at this point about a year ago, and left Omaha to go to Pike's Peak, where he wished to make some scientific observations and have greater leisure to pursue his studies. We learn that Mr. Dey has again been transferred at his own request to Louisville, Ky., having left Pike's Peak station on the 9th inst.

Mr. Dudley B. Notson, assistant observer at Omaha station, is awaiting orders for transfer by promotion as observer of some other station not yet designated. Who will be sent here to take his place as Observer Pollock's assistant is not yet known.

In connection with this subject it is pertinent to remark that the weather for the past week has been phenomenal as far as the sudden change from summer's heat to winter's blast is concerned. On Friday night last the temperature was 74° and intense lightning prevailed from six o'clock in the evening. At 10:30 loud thunder was added to the lightning and soon after a heavy rain began to pour down, mingled at first with some hail, which continued all night and until 10 o'clock Saturday morning. At first the wind was from the south and quite moderate but when it veered toward the north and the wind increased to a gale of 24 miles an hour, the falling temperature was rapid and attained a difference of 53 degrees within 24 hours. Thenceforth the weather remained cold, the coldest being on the morning of Monday, when the mercury stood at 14° and never rising above 50°, which was the temperature indicated at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

Yesterday light snows were reported from St. Vincent, Minn., and Buford and Bismarck, Dakota, with slightly higher temperature, which would indicate somewhat warmer and cloudy weather shortly here.

A NOVEL SCHEME.

Something that Takes the Cake for Novelty and Railway Comfort.

The Union Pacific Proposes to "See" the Dining Car System and "Go It One Better."

Organization of the "Overland Opera House Company."

The Latest Thing in the Way of Railway Advertising and Philanthropy.

It is an open secret that the monopolies with which "antis" have to deal out in this western country, whatever may be their faults, are not soulless, and that they do all they can for the amusement and welfare of their men, from setting up a full fledged hospital for train and shop men to supporting a first class base ball club for their clerks and sending them out over the main line and branches to entertain settlers on the railroad lands. In fact there is nothing small about the U. P. folks, not even their feet, which are usually excepted by courtesy.

The latest stroke of philanthropy is foreshadowed in the organization of a company to be known as the "Overland Opera House Co.," whose articles of incorporation state that its object is "the carrying out of a plan already devised whereby the best plays, operas and oratorios can be produced with the most desirable and elaborate surroundings in cities and towns where, because of the lack of facilities, such performances have not been given."

The capital stock is fixed at $250,000 in 5,000 shares of $50 each, which will enable employees in every department to invest their surplus earnings with this company.

The headquarters of the company will be in Omaha but operations will extend over the entire territory covered by the U. P. track and provision is made in the articles for even extending it to the Central Pacific and other roads if the directors shall deem it advisable.

Just who originated the idea is not stated, but it was most likely the president, as the scheme was finally decided upon during his recent visit to Omaha, and is certainly an enterprise, which, if successfully carried out, will call for the warmest gratitude of all who have come out to grow up with the country and give the Union Pacific an advantage over other lines which will be hard to overcome.

It is a well established fact that most small cities, while they have a so-called opera house, soon tire of the place, and in consequence it is a hard matter to attract anything like a paying audience in these towns. The causes are constant use of the same scenery (and oftener than otherwise it is poorly painted) and rapid dilapidation because of a lack of use and consequent lack of proper care. Good companies, therefore, do not like to chance a stop at such places, and the result is the theatrical taste of many communities is neglected and promises in time to be ruined if not looked to.

These facts falling under the eye of the originator, who is a close observer, caused him to set his wits to work and after much study and engineering he completed his plan, had drawings and estimates made and then let the matter rest, until recently. The plan, compactly stated, is an opera house capable of holding 1,000 or 1,500 people, which can be carried on and is partly formed by a train of eight cars, each fifty feet long. The details, briefly presented, are that the cars are to be made elongated and raised by a telescopic process when in the use as an opera house and closed when in transit. The plan has been submitted to numerous architects and railroad men, who pronounce it perfectly feasible mechanically, while faith in its financial soundness has been shown by the fact that the subscriptions already received indicate a necessity for watering the stock at an early day.

There are also many simple but handsome details of construction and ornamentation in the design, which embraces a large stage with the traps and other machinery, flats, wings, set pieces and boarders of a first class theater; a parquette, dress circle and gallery, all of which is carried in the cars. The building can be put together inside of five hours after the train has been drawn to the lot selected for the exhibition, and in order to reach a lot away from the railroad depot a portable track half a mile long is arranged for. The work of moving the train in a town, and of setting up the house, will be done under the supervision of two foremen one set of men working on the stage and the other in the auditorium.

The cars which are to be used by this company will be constructed entirely at the shops in this city, and will be as finely finished as anything of the kind in the United States. The services of first-class artists will be secured, and they will be given heads of departments in order to put their salary to the requisite rounds of the ladder, and some of the best tragedians, opera singers and so on have already signified their intention of accepting the offers made them. It is the intention to get into the field not later than February and work westward over the main line so as to reach the mountains by warm weather. Should the enterprise fulfill the expectations of its backers, other trains will be built, or perhaps an opera car attached to each regular passenger train, which would knock the sox off of the dining cars for novelty, and draw like one of Alcock's porous plasters.

Saratoga

The exclusively private Hazzard-Elton wedding is the sensation of the hour. The privacy with which the affair was consummated gives rise to much criticism, all of which, however, is favorable, owing to the social standing of the parties, which is the very best, together with the fact of their both being highly connected with old residents, well to do and highly respectable, making adverse criticism out of the question.

It is surmised that George thought it best to make sure of his bird while he built his cage and as the first is secured and the later nearly completed, they have the congratulations of your correspondent and the good wishes of the community in general.

Hon. James H. Kyner and wife left Tuesday for Boise City, on the Oregon short line, to be absent until the holidays.

THE SOCIAL CIRCLE.

Magnificent Reception at the Paxton by Mr. and Mrs. Levi Carter.

Wedding of Warren Switzer and Miss Mamie D. Wilson.

The Brilliant Fernandez-Falconer Nuptials.

The Paxton hotel was last night the scene of a brilliant gathering, perhaps the most successful in many respects ever given in the city. The arrangements were as complete as could be devised, the surroundings as elegant as the most fastidious could wish and every resource of the Paxton thrown open freely to the guests to make the occasion thoroughly enjoyable.

The reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Levi Carter, and the list of invited guests was very large, indeed, and included the most prominent citizens, the belles and the beaux of Omaha society.

The office, dining room and parlors of the Paxton were put in festive dress early in the evening, roses of evergreen being festooned from the chandeliers to the windows, balcony, etc., and entwining the pillars and rails. In the parlor flowers were banked up on all sides, and the handsome marble mantel pieces were covered with beautiful calla lilies. Ferns were to be seen everywhere, and not to enter into too great detail the profusion of these, delicate and lovely decorations gave the house the appearance of some tropical palace.

About 9 o'clock the guests began to throng the parlors and carriage after carriage rolled up to the broad entrance and deposited their load of richly dressed ladies with their escorts. The Musical Union orchestra, from its station at the south end of the Main corridor adjoining the parlor, soon filled the house with delicious music, the subdued light shone upon a scene that was brilliant in every respect, and the visitors having paid their respects to their hosts, soon joined in the dance, which was in full progress at 10 o'clock.

About 11 o'clock supper was served in the dining room below, where arrangements were all on the same scale of magnificence that characterized the affair throughout. The large table in the center of the room groaned with its load of delicacies, and was lavishly covered with ornamental designs and dishes. In the center a double arch of fine California grapes and other fruit overhung a mass of budding roses in a bed of equally beautiful flowers. This was flanked by two large blocks of ice, carved into the shape of huge punch bowls and filled with oysters. Pyramids of macaroons, and pastry of every description surrounded the whole and were in turn supplemented by some other delicacy calculated to tempt the palate.

After supper dancing was resumed, and continued to a late hour. Among those invited who were present or sent their regrets were the following:

SWITZLER—WILSON.

The nuptials of Warren Switzler, Esq., and Miss Mamie D. Wilson, eldest daughter of Gen. Thomas Wilson, U. S. A., took place at the Presbyterian church at 6 o'clock.

The interior of the church was beautifully adorned, an arch being erected in front of the pulpit, chrysanthemum and other choice flowers displayed on either side, and vines and evergreens twining around the shaft of the light standards.

Promptly at 6 o'clock Prof. Mayer sounded the notes of a march from Tannhauser, and the party of relatives of the bride and groom proceeded up the aisle and were seated at the front. The party included Mr. and Mrs. Morton Wilson, Col. Switzler and Mrs. Meredith, Mr. Irvin Switzler and wife, Mr. Frank Henderson and Miss Royall, Gen. and Mrs. Wilson.

Presently the wedding march from "Midsummer Nights Dream" was heard and the bridal party advanced up the aisle in the following order.

Messrs G M Hitchcock and John Norris, ushers.

Miss Maggie Wilson and Mr W F Gurley.

Miss Mary Barr and Mr Curtis B Rollins.

Miss Henrietta Wilson and Mr Wm F Robinson.

The bride and groom.

Little Misses Wynnie Kennedy and Gertie Yates.

The bride was attired in white satin brocaded in tulips, with square corsage and court train, trimmed with Duchess lace. A veil and orange blossoms and diamond earrings completed the charming toilet.

The bridesmaid wore cream-colored nun's veiling, the only ornament being flowers.

Rev. W. J. Harsha performed the ceremony impressively.

When the vows were spoken and the ring had been placed upon the hand of the bride, the party retraced their steps to the music of the wedding march, the petite attendants preceding them and strewing their path with flowers.

A reception at the residence of Gen. Wilson followed.

The presents were very many in number and were remarkably unique and rich.

The bride and groom left last evening on a wedding journey to the south and east. THE BEE joins with all friends in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Switzler.

FERNANDEZ-FALCONER.

Yesterday was quite a gala day for the Scottish population of Omaha. The event that caused all this consternation was the union in marriage of Mr. Edward Fernandez with Miss Tiny Falconer. Rev. E. B. Graham tied the nuptial knot. The wedding took place at the residence of Mr. James Falconer, and quite a large gathering assembled to witness the ceremony.

About 9 o'clock last evening the invited guests met in the restaurant under Boyd's opera house, and there were over one hundred persons present. A very magnificent spread was prepared and everything went off in fine style.

At the conclusion of the supper the guests adjourned to Mr. James Falconer's house, where singing and dancing was kept up in lively style. Mr. Sanders entertained the company with some charming melodies, and Mr Jack Hoy kept the party alive with comicalities. Mrs. Kaufmann created considerable amusement by her recitations of Irish ditties. Irish songs sung by a German lady are a rare treat.

Mrs. Thomas Falconer sang several Scottish airs very sweetly, and was loudly applauded, as was also Mrs. Jack Hoy, who rendered good service. Mr. James Falconer sang several songs, which were received in a most enthusiastic manner.

The presents were both numerous, elegant and ornamental. The list is as follows:

Mr and Mrs Meldrum, album; Miss Hoy and Mr Liddell, silver basket; Mr Moodie and James Murphy, silver water service; Mrs Fleming and Mrs Cassidy, hanging lamp; William Knox, silver knife; Miss Aggie Scott, tea set; Minnie Fernandez, toilet set; William Fleming, bottle of bay rum; Mrs McPherson, glass pitcher, etc; Mrs Gray, glass dish; Mrs Cummings, tea set; Mrs David R Knox, fruit plates; Miss Tinie Liddell, pitchers; Mr. Charles Thieman, table cloth and napkins; Mrs. Williams, table cloth and napkins; Messrs. Thomas and William Falconer, sewing machine; Mrs. Fernandez, table cloth, etc; Mr. William Liddell, bed spread; Thomas Falconer, two large oil paintings; Mrs. Thomas Falconer, two panel paintings; Mr William Gentleman, dish; Mr and Mrs Fleming, set of spoons; Mrs Fred Lesentein, pair of diamond earrings; Mr Sam Frazer, bride's cake; Mrs Fannie Liddel, a splasher.

This wedding will long be remembered in Omaha as one of the pleasantest episodes in its history. Irvine's orchestra discoursed some of its sweetest music during the evening.

There is hardly an adult person living but is sometimes troubled with kidney difficulty, which is the most prolific and dangerous cause of all disease. There is no sort of need to have any form of kidney or urinary trouble if Hop Bitters is taken occasionally.
