-The union services at the Presbyterian church this foreneon will be participated in by the pastors and people of the Methodist, Congregational, Presbyterian and every description. Baptist churches, and, of course, the public generally is invited. The service will be one of song and praise, with several fiveminute addresses.

-Ed Stockert & Co., the upholaterers, at 209 West Broadway, have in stock a special and unusually elegant showing of uphoistered goods and novelties especially adapted for the boliday trade. They have also a fine display of picture frames, mouldinge, etc., and those who are planning for gifts should surely visit this establishment, as there is certainly a great variety of rich goods to select from.

-Yesterday afternoon there was a quiet arrest of a man who was booked by the clerk on the police register as "John Site assault, dismissed." It is said that Site is a fictitious name, and that it was placed on the register to shield the real party. It is difficult to see why one man should be thus carefully screened from public attention and some poor fellow, who perhaps thinks just as n uch of his good name, is registered in full. It is said that the alleged assault was of the nature of an insult offered a lady. If there was reasonable ground to believe the charge to be true, the case should have been thoroughly investigated.

Dyspepsia, heart-burn, nauses, in-digestion, etc., are always relieved by Brown's Iron Bitters.

SIGHING FO & LIBERTY

The Prisoners at the Jall Try to Burn A Futile Attempt to Seizea Horse their Way Out. A Force—Was It Hayden, the their Way Out,

The man refused to the spot. Haines, seeing the situation, hurried to the spot. Haines, seeing to would offer no explanation, and Mr.

> The attempt to take Mr. Haines horse was so strange a one that it seems the man must have been either drunk or crazy. It has been suggested that possibly it was Hayden, the Red Oak murderer, and that he wanted the horse to make good his further escape from justice. The murder committed by him seems to have been the work ot a crank rather than a perfectly sane man, and this would coincide with the actions of the man in this case, and the description is said to correspond somewhat with Hayden's. The conjecture is given for what it is worth.

Mother Shipton's prophesies and Louis er to stick or move over to the new towns is made wonderfully apparent in the railroad building in that state. Railroads have made wrecks of hun-

It has discovered on its Guthrie branch a bed of peculiar gravel, of deep red color, with which the roadbed from Stuart is being ballasted. It is taken from the bed in large chunks, and crushed as it is used. It soon hardens, making a bed almost as solid and firm as a lock, and will not wash away by water, neither is there any dust from it. Its color gives the track a very peculiar appearance, but the track men are very enthusi-

FREMONT COUNTY FACTS.

Joe Riegle, who lives on Uncle Dan Rhodes' farm, west of Tabor, is a Pennsylvanian—to look at as rough as a Pennsylvania miner, but Joe's head is full of good sound sense; he talks sense, and is a regular worker. In short, he ought to be in the legislature.

Fremont county has generally a fair corn crop, and it is being gathered and cribbed in good shape.

Business in Randolph is just at that stage at which it would boom if there was money stirring. It is to be hoped that the farmers will get their eyes open after a while to the reasons why there is no more, and take notice that it is just at those times that they have plenty to sell that there is the least money; when they have nothing to sell there is plenty of money. Money is purposely made scarce as a means to rob them.
