The Departure of Langtry to Seek New Pastures.

A New Theatre for Business Men

Correspondence of The Bee.

NEW YORK, December 4.—Mrs. Langtry has come and gone, having cleared $60,000 by her few weeks' engagement. If Jean Ingelow had written her charming "Songs of Seven" for to day, instead of "Heigho, Daisies and Buttercups," we should find "Heigho, Lilies and Violets," for, in deference to the famous English beauty, they are at present the fair and fragrant favorites. They bloom invitingly in every florist's window; they are offered for sale on every street corner; they nestle lovingly, huge bunches of them, on beauty's left shoulder, while beauty carefully adjusts her opera glass to a proper focus, and brings it to bear on the Jersey Lily before her. I wonder how it would seem to be heralded throughout the country as the handsomest women in England; to have hats and bonnets, drags and yachts named after one; to receive congratulatory telegrams from princes and princesses, and, more than all, to have the box office besieged by eager crowds, standing hours in line, waiting for tickets they cannot get, while the speculators slyly chuckle as they see unlimited luxury in the near future. No wonder ladies are paying $15 for corsage bouquets of lilies of the valley, while the gentlemanly head usher indulges in one tiny spray, with its two or three nodding waxen bells as a boutonneire. If you would be thoroughly en regle, entirely au fait in the matter of corsage bouquets, ladies, you must wear them not one whit smaller than a good sized dining plate. I saw Miss Thursby in a box at Wallack's the other night with a cluster of bon silene roses so large that she laid them carefully on the loge, where we could all enjoy their delicate loveliness.

THE SWEEDISH NIGHTINGALE.

Mme. Niisson returns to this country more stouter, more matronly looking than formerly, but with the same sweet, winning, womanly charm, and with the same grand voice. When she appears on the stage, dressed in deep mourning, with simple lisse ruchings in the square neck and elbow sleeves, which display to advantage her finely developed form, you feel instinctively that a great sorrow has left its seal upon the fair face. Miss Hope Glenn, the contralto of the company, has a voice of unusual power and sweetness.

The season has returned when weddings are the order of the day. The fires are constantly lighted on the altar of Hymen. Bridal blossoms and snowy favors are in demand. "The sheen of satin and glimmer of pearls" makes bright many a somber cathedral; and the light shining through stained glass windows falls on many a young fair face, grown soft and tender with the love dream that is filling the heart. I often wonder what the awakening will be, and remember my Aunt Charity's suggestion that the most appropriate hymn to be sung on any such occasion was, "Deluded Souls that Dream of Heaven." But then Aunt Charity was an old maid, and had queer, old-fashioned notions. Besides, we don't sing hymns at weddings; and still, besides, how can they be "deluded souls," when we all know that people marry for love alone, and have a right to expect the realization of the heaven of which they dream?

DECLINE OF ESTHETICISM

Estheticism is at present a little in the background. Limp, clinging drapery and frowsey, floating hair are somehow not exactly the thing when one has donned seal-skin sacques and fur-lined circulars. As the Dutchman said about his pieces of oilcloth, "they doesn't corroborate." Consequently, Oscar doesn't seem to be flourishing as in more recent palmy days. One hears of him occasionally as having attended a meeting of the Sorosis, or as being entertained at luncheon by Miss Kate Field or Clara Morris, and one sees him frequently in a box at the opera or the first night of a good play, but his sunflowers and calla lilies have given place to a great extent to Jacqueminot roses and fragrant blue violets. The "greenery yallery" is not for the time being in the ascendant. Beauty and fashion are inclined to return to their old loves, and warmest and most gorgeous hues prevail. Even "primary colors" are not altogether despised, and since Mrs. Langtry's arrival there seems to be a prospect that the more robust of the sisterhood may at length hold up their heads and look about them. It is no longer necessary to look as if one were in training for a living skeleton. Good broad shoulders and a figure to correspond are quite in style. I have noticed, in walking up the avenue of a Sunday morning, the large number of stoutish, not to say stout, ladies one meets. After the close of morning service in the churches the avenue—there is but one avenue to the genuine New Yorker—resembles nothing so much as a gay pasture, so varied and gorgeous are the many hues which flash on the observing eye, approaching, passing, receding in an endless kaleidoscopic panorama.

There is a flutter of excitement among the medical fraternity of the city because the distinguished specialist, Dr. Frank Hamilton, who became conspicuous as a consulting physician in the Garfield case, now declares in effect that the late president was dosed to death with morphine. He asserts positively that after the use of morphine had been prohibited by the council of physicians, Dr. Bliss continued its use, and that had it not been for this course of treatment the wound might have been probed with success and the president's life saved by judicious surgical treatment. He is anxious that congress should investigate the subject, and, if it can be done in no other way, would like Dr. Bliss to sue him for libel, as I am informed. One of our city congressmen will see that the matter is brought directly to the attention of congress at the approaching session, and the big professional bills will be sifted and cut down if democratic votes can do it, on the ground that a suit for damages might more properly lie against some of the faculty for loss of Mr. Garfield's services.

A Plattsmouth woman sneezed so hard the other day that she dislocated her jaw and had to sit for a long time with her mouth open wider than it ever was before till a physician arrived.

The Plattsmouth high school went crazy last Monday One of the young lady pupils was lowering the upper sash of a window when it fell to the bottom, wedging her hand between the two sashes, bruising it considerably. The girl was obliged to wait till the principal arrived, and when he came he pried the sashes apart and released her, whereupon she fainted. The scholars thought she was killed, and kicked up a vigorous commotion. The professor howled for water to revive the girl, but couldn't obtain it, and at last she revived herself.

For six years I have been a great sufferer from Blood Disease, Dyspepsia, and Constipation, and became so debilitated that I could not retain anything on my stomach, in fact, life had almost become a burden. Finally, when hope had almost left me, my husband seeing BROWN'S IRON BITTERS advertised in the paper, induced me to give it a trial. I am now taking the third bottle and have not felt so well in six years as I do at the present time.

OLD SORES

AND

BLOOD OR SKIN DISEASES

IN ANY STAGE,

Disappear before the perfect alterative and tonic effect of the greatest of all Blood Purifiers. It so completely roots out all poison from the blood and braces the debilitated system, that diseases of this nature disapperr like chaff before the wind.

S. S. S., cured me of Scalp Sores, Sores in Nostrils and Ears, after everything known to the medical profession had failed. Three months have passed since I quit taking S. S. S.; there is no symptom of the disease remaining; I am permanently cured. It stands unrivaled for Blood Diseases."

JNO. S. TAGGART,
Salamanca, N. Y.

"S. S. S. stands without a peer. The profession will have to acknowledge it a Specific for Blood Diseases."

DR N. L GALLOWAY, Monroe, Ga.

"About four or five weeks ago I was afflicted with a very aggravated type of Blood Disease. I commenced using S. S. S. and after taking the first bottle felt so mush relieved that I bought five more, and am glad to say, after using four of them, that I am entirely cured, freviously having been under medical advice for several months."

C. G RATCLIFF,
Richmond, Va.

"After suffering from the worst Blood Disease for more than two years, and having been treated by several eminent physicians, confined to my room and bed the greater part of the time, my body covered with copper-colored sores from the size of a pea to that of a silver half-dollar, I was well nigh in despair. At last I commenced taking S. S. S. In a short time I began to improve in flesh, all the sores healed, and I could feel and know that I was well, and to S. S. S. must the credit be given of my entire restoration to health. I have not taken a dose for over six months, and am as free from sores or blemish as any one."

LOTTIE ROSS, Atlanta, Ga.

"Improved after taking the first bottle of S. S. S.; in two weeks was able to come home, finding the waters were no benefit."

J. W. REID, Newport, Ark.

"Our science has not made known a combination equal to S. S. S. for skin or blood diseases."
