THE KNIGHTS' TRIBUTE

A Beautiful Recognition of Kindness Shown by Council Bluffs Knights to an Indianapolis Brother.

The readers of THE BEE will remember the sad and sudden death of B. S. Johnson, who was killed by falling from a switch engine here last month. His home was in Indianapolis, and the remains were taken care of by Knights of Pythias here, he belonging to that order, and were sent home by them.

Yesterday E. J. Abbott received a letter from F. A. Blanchard, K. of R. and S. of the lodge to which deceased belonged, stating that a tribute had been sent to the Knights here in recognition of their kindness. Some delay had been caused by the fact that the work of preparation could not be done sooner.

A glance at the tribute itself showed this to be surely the case. It was designed and executed by John Ulrich, who did all of it with a steel pen, and it is one of the best specimens of that sort of art ever seen here. At the top of the tribute is a shield, while from behind it stand three stretches forth in beautiful scrolls, adorned with flowers, the words, "Friendship, Charity and Benevolence." Surrounding the entire design is a beautiful scroll and at the four corners are the names of the four lodges of the city. The design at the top is in colors and the rest in black ink, while the whole is framed elegantly in gold. The following is the tribute itself: "INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 28th, 1882. To the officers and members of Star Lodge No. 7, K. of P. of Council Bluffs, Iowa: Your committee appointed to prepare a fitting expression of the feelings of Star Lodge No. 7 towards the members of the order in Council Bluffs, Iowa, in reference to the care and attention paid by them to the remains of our deceased brother, B. S. Johnson, beg leave to present the following: To the officers and members of St. Albans Lodge No. 17, Council Bluffs Lodge No. 40, Gothic Lodge No. 51, and Concordia Lodge No. 52 - Brothers: On Saturday, November 18th, we received the intelligence from you that Brother B. S. Johnson, a member of Star Lodge No. 7, K. of P. met his death by accident in your city the night before. Brother Johnson was held in high esteem by those who knew him in this city, and we can but poorly express in our words the sincere thanks we would extend, and the gratitude we feel toward you for all your kind acts in relation to our late brother. You have given us an example of pure friendship which the whole world might follow. It is a great satisfaction for us and the members of the departed brother's family to know that though he was stricken down a stranger in a strange land, his remains were gathered together and cared for by the gentle hands and loving hearts of the Pythian Brotherhood. Your kindness in this complication of the glorious principles of our order was feelingly commended and commented upon by the minister who presided at the funeral service, and the late of the lodge at the burial, and ending the lid of our book of law, we read this commendation, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me. You have maintained the dignity of our order, and its its of friendship, charity, and benevolence, and 'aiding truth in upholding our rights, usages, and customs as a chivalric order, you strengthen and sustain our glorious principles, and more closely unite yourselves with those who are linked together in the holy ties of brotherly love. And we can assure you that these ties have greatly strengthened and cemented by our order, and we are led to expect much for the future of our beloved order. It is pleasant to reflect that whether at home or abroad, among friends or strangers, wherever the Pythian shield is borne, that duty when coupled with friendship acts uniformly, and that in this network of brotherly love, which has spread so wide, wherever it meshes are broken by distress or accident to a brother, there are always those of our beloved order, with ready hands and willing hearts, to rush to the rescue. We are glad our deceased brother had the evidence of membership with him, and that in response to the search for a brother's hand in mute silence it spoke the word 'Brother,' and may we not confidently hope that our elder brother, in a good guide, who treats alike the pathway of the seas and the highways which commerce has built, found, as he presented himself in the pilgrim garb of death, that he was enabled to present that other and better 'voucher of his equity' which would admit him to the Supreme Council above. Accept, then, Brothers, the sincere thanks of Star Lodge No. 7, K. of P., of the grand jurisdiction of Indiana, and all worthy members of the order, with the assurance that if by the revolving wheels of time the relations should be changed, and a like service be required at our hands (which God grant may never occur), we will strive to emulate your example.
