THE SKELETON'S WIFE.

A Curiosity Courts a Competitor in a Beauty Show.

A Courtship Beset with Difficulties—How Minnie Thompson was Consoled.

She Missed the Prize but Caught a Husband.

Special to the St. Louis Dispatch

NEW YORK, January 4.—When Isaac W. Sprague, the living skeleton of Bunnell's museum, was told that Beauty No. 16 had taken the prize in the competition lately closed in New York, he must have been dashed his hat upon the floor, ruffled his bones and declared that the judges were not fit to decide a question of female beauty. He would have made a different decision and have awarded the first prize to No. 71, Miss Minnie Thompson. Miss Thompson was indeed a very prepossessing young woman, and, with a sensible appreciation of her own charms, she was piqued at not receiving the $100, or even the $50 that was given to the beauty who carried off the second prize. But the skeleton smiled on her as soon as he dried his tears and she was consoled. Not that the skeleton is the highest type of manly beauty. His arms are bones hardly concealed by the skin that covers them, and his legs seem to carry even his attenuated form. But his face has a frank and independent expression and, though upon a man of ordinary proportions it might show a somewhat unbecoming prominence of cheek and chin bones, as compared with the outline of his frail body it appears to be positively fat. His head is surmounted with a fine shock of brick colored hair and a goatee and mustache of the same hue adorns his countenance. Miss Thompson was attracted to him at once. She said she did not like fat men, and looked upon the Hon. Wm. M. Evarts as the beau ideal of grace. At least she no considered him until she was sought by the skeleton, who, to her thinking, eclipsed the lawyer. Miss Thompson is not herself a thin lady. She weighs probably four times as much as the skeleton, but as he only turns the scale at forty pounds, it will be seen that she is not abnormally large. She may be called plump, and she is very pretty. She is, perhaps, 30 years of age—five years the skeleton's junior. After the New York exhibition was over the skeleton and Miss Thompson met often by appointment at the museum, and the managers of the show complained that he was feeding upon his affections and

ALMOST TOO THIN

GROWING FAT.

This must have been a mistake, however, for his weight, as he showed by getting on the scales, had not increased.

Another, and an older error, too, was corrected. It had been currently reported among the curiosities of the show that the skeleton had neither lungs, heart nor liver, and that a steady eye could look through him see an object behind. The existence of respiratory and digestive organs may still be a matter of doubt, but Miss Thompson indignantly repudiates the rumor that he has no heart. The courtship was quite short. Miss Thompson told her lover in plain prose the history of her simple life. He gave her a poem of twenty-four verses, fully describing his own. This poem he is in the habit of selling for five cents a copy, but he charged nothing at all for her copy, and she, overcome by this last proof of her skeleton lover's devotion, promised to be his wife. In a fateful moment the skeleton was sent to the Brooklyn show.

HE WAS IN DESPAIR,

but his true love comforted him, and an appointment was made for Saturday night. At 9 o'clock the skeleton was at the New York museum, where he met Miss Thompson. At 10 o'clock they were in Jersey City, and at 11 o'clock they had been united in marriage by the Rev. Mr. Gardner. They returned to Brooklyn and kept the matter a secret until yesterday morning, when the skeleton announced it to Maj. Bates. The newly-made Mrs Sprague has consented to support her husband on he exhibition platform She will appear in Brooklyn to day sitting beside him and billed: "The Skeleton's Wife." "I lost the $100," said the newly married lady, "but I won a husband."

CHAINED TO A WALL.

The Fate of Passananto Who Attempted the Life of King Humbert.

The Hour.

He is chained to the wall in the prison of Porto Ferraio. No jail is more dreaded by the convicts than this of Elba; no where is the chance of escape more helpless. He is chained to the wall, and in the court yard below him hears the prisoners at work, the hammer of the carpenters, the the bellows of the blacksmiths. He is chained to the wall, and just four years ago he was waiting in the streets of Naples to see King Humbert enter the town with his queen and his prime minister beside him. Just four years ago, wrapping a strip of red cloth about his knife, he leaped to the carriage, and Cairoli, the minister, turning his arm aside, received a wound in the side. On the red cloth was a strip of paper, "Death to the king. Live to the universal republic." To-day Passananto lies in Porto Ferraio, crouching on a mattress, chained to the wall.

Two wild beasts, barely human, are chained in cells beside him. One is Cipriano la Gala, chief of the Calabrian brigands. Twenty years have gone since Cipriano, driven from his mountains, took refuge in the Pontifical states; since, fleeing again, he hid on a French vessel, and was only surrendered by Napoleon III. on condition that his life should be spared. Neither by night nor day, during twenty years, has he been released from the chain; and yet—no warder knows how—he is king of the prison, and with a signal commands the implicit obedience of the convicts. His neighbor is Rossignol, a Frenchman. Rossigabl lived at Turin, in a house beside the Po. He had a pretty sister, and night after night would send her to the theatre. So pretty was she that all the glasses would be turned on her, and when she had attracted the attention of some man of substance she would answer his glances discreetly, would draw him slowly after her from the theatre, and would bring him to her house beside the Po. There M. Rossignol was waiting behind a door. A blow on the head would suffice for the man of substance. His body was dropped into the river. Fifteen citizens of Turin thus came by their end.

Passananto, then, is in pleasant company. His chain is four feet long; his cell is three yards wide. By the dim light of the window he reads his Bible. This is his sole occupation. When he came to the prison he asked for the Bible; he has since done nothing but read and meditate. When he sleeps broken words come from his lips, "God, Bible, brothers, people, universal republic. He has no vices. Though a Neapolitan, he has neither gambled or drank. He scribbles his creed on sheets of paper. "I belong to no sect," he writes. "I despise the internationale and all who call themselves communists. My ideal is the universal republic. It is announced in the bible and it will come." Science has decided that he is not mad. Common sense decides that he is no longer dangerous.

Yet, while the other convicts ply hammer and needle, he lies between Cipriano, the brigand, and Rossignol, the assassin, crouching on a mattress, chained to the wall.

OCCIDENTAL JOTTINGS.

DAKOTA.

Ex-Postmaster General Tyner has become a citizen of Fargo.

It is stated that United States courts will be established at Burton, Miles City and Missoula.

It is estimated that the gold and silver product of Montana up to the present time has been over $180,000,000.

One day last week the driver of a stage on the Boulder route undertook to horsewhip the passengers into walking up a hill, but the passengers emptied their revolvers into him and then held an inquest on the body rendering a verdict of death from pneumonia.

OREGON.

The New Northwest is the name of a new daily paper just started at Portland.

The captain and mate of a vessel were recently arrested at Astoria on the complaint of seamen for cruelty to them.

A man supposed to be G. W. Smith, who is wanted in Yamhill county, for the murder of a woman, has been committing a shocking suicide under the name of J. L. Winter. The prisoner answers the description.

WASHINGTON.

The Knights Templar of the western part of the territory will organize a lodge at Seattle.

A recent purchase of property on the water front at Seattle by railroads cost $120,000.

The recent storm did a vast amount of damage to the Russian quarter of Port Townsend.

Seattle has become quite a ship building port. A number of vessels are now under construction there.

CALIFORNIA.

Los Angeles is now lighted with electricity.

Sonoma farmers intend experimenting with sugar cane.

There is a building boom in nearly all the towns of Kern county.

The Vice Regal party are still at Santa Barbara and are enjoying the fine climate.

Thirty thousand boxes of oranges will be the product of the orchards of the Santa Ana valley the present season.

Last year the produce and merchandise exports of the Santa Ana valley footed up the gratifying total of 21,600,000 pounds.

An Italian at Modesto had the sight of one of his eyes destroyed last week by being hit with a putty ball projected by some person unknown.

Ed Hammond has been convicted at Sacramento of maintaining a nuisance in the shape of a hide-drying and tallow-rendering establishment in that city.

The wine crop of Anaheim district, Los Angeles county, for the year 1882, is 700,000 gallons, an increase of 116,000 gallons over that of 1881 and 38,000 gallons over that of 1880.

Santa Rosa boasts of a woolen mill, a winery of large capacity, fruit drying works and several wagon and carriage manufactories. It is the greatest manufacturing center in Sonoma county.

The Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company now supply 11,400 acres of land in the valley with water, and at least half this area is covered with trees and vines. Nearly or fully 6 000 acres are, then, planted to orchards and vineyards.

A mysterious disease has been making havoc among the poultry owned by residents of Monterey. Fowls which have fed heavily the evening previous are found dead under their roosts the next morning. Turkeys and ducks belonging to the same poultry yards do not seem to be attacked by the malady.

NEVADA.

At Virginia City last week a six-year-old daughter of William Scott swallowed a four-inch shawl-pin, with a large round head. The doctors have ascertained that the pin went down into the stomach ball end first. Thus far the child feels all right.

There is a Chinese laundryman in Bullionville, by the name of John Jack, who has some kind of an artistic system that beats the faro bank, and the worst part of it is, none of the other players can comprehend it or follow him in his bets, as he coppers and uncoppers them so rapidly on inside corners. He has won over $1,000 here inside a month on a "$5 limit" layout, and his countrymen say he has been barred out of games in most every camp in the state."

Dick McEwen, a Virginia City miner, visited Candlearia in that state last week, filled up on bad whisky, and began hunting for gore. For several hours nobody disputed McEwen's claims to being a bad man, but towards evening he picked up a fight with a miner named James Ryan, who threw him down in a saloon. Ryan then left, and when McEwen met him a few hours later he opened fire on him with a revolver. Ryan returned the fire with deadly effect and mortally wounding McEwan. A barkeeper named Pugh was slightly wounded, while Ryan escaped unhurt.

ARIZONA.

There are ninety-nine prisoners confined in the penitentiary at Yuma.

The treasurer of Tucson is absent from the city under suspicious circumstances, and it is not known where he went.

The cattle men of southeastern Arizona have formed a protective association for the purpose of exterminating thieves.

Expert burglars operated on the safe in the postoffice at Tombstone on the night of December 24, securing between $700 and $800.

The name "Arizona" being of Indian or Mexican origin, probably means "Blessed Sun." As in the Mohave dialect we have the word "Ara" (blessed), and the word "Zuna" (sun).

NEW MEXICO.

Albuquerque has a new brass band.

A $25,000 hotel is to be built at Pyramid City by the owners of the Vida mine.

Cattle are dying by the hundreds in the lower Pecos valley from some unknown disease.

Six new smelters are being shipped in to the territory, and will be located on different mines.

The Albuquerque papers say that the coal deposits of New Mexico are only equalled by those of Pennsylvania.

The Palace hotel in Santa Fee will close up soon for want of patronage. It is an elegant structure.

Copper is more extensively discovered of late than any other class of ores in New Mexico. It is of fine quality.

Reduction works will be built for the Atwood mine at Shakspere, and the superintendent is now in the east buying machinery.

Fires at Las Vegas are getting to be of frequent occurence. Last Tuesday the Consolidated Tank Company's oil house was destroyed, together with a large quantity of oil, entailing a loss of $10,000, on which there was no insurance.

Precisely So.

David City Republican.

"There has never been in America, for any important period of time, and there never can be such a thing as a railroad monopoly."—Omaha Republican.

There has been for a considerable period and doubtless for some length of time yet will be, an inconsistent, egotistical monopoly tool in charge of the columns of the Omaha Republican, who seems to imagine that a majority of the people are fools. Such expressions as the above quoted paragraph would fill to us credit to a second-class idiot.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Chattanooga is to have a $50,000 plow factory.

The shovel company of St. Louis turns out 2,000 dozen shovels per day.

A thirty ton balanced wheel has just been cast at a Hartford, Conn., foundry.

Nail kegs of sheet iron are to be manufactured on a large scale at Cannesburg, Pa.

One of the largest paper mills in the west is now under construction in Dubuque.

The Fargo (Dakota) Iron Works claim to have done a business of $2,000,000 in 1882.

Capital agregating over 7,000,000 is invested in railroad car-building enterprises in Detroit.

The cutlery works at Beaver Falls, Pa., have resumed operations after having been idle since last spring.

Two wealthy New England lumbermen propose building a $100,000 railway into the Adirondack wilderness.

One hundred and sixty thousand dollars have been subscribed for building a hundred ton furnace at Chattanooga, Tenn.

A large manufactory for making compressed paper wheels with steel tires, for railroad purposes will soon be started in Philadelphia.

The Bridgeport, Conn., Malleable Iron company's new buildings cover three and a quarter acres, the foundry alone covering an acre.

In over 1,000 sugar factories in twenty-seven parishes in Louisiana, the fires are now lighted and Christmas does not find the year's work done.

The Dayton, Ohio, lock works recently organized, has a capital of $5,000, and will manufacture cabinet locks. Forty hands will be employed.

The Dallas, Texas, car and implement company was organized last year with $100,000 capital. It now gives employment to 100 hands.

The rail mill of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad company, at Reading, has began work again after a short suspension, giving employment to 200 hands.

John Elder & Co., the great shipbuilding firm on the Clyde, employ nearly 6,000 men in their yards, and a recent pay-bill for half a month's labor amounted to $114,000.

A charter has been issued to the Lehigh Valley Rolling Mills company for the manufacture of iron and steel, with a capital of $1,000,000. The mills will be at Allentown.

The rolling mill at Cannesburg, Pa., is almost completed, and will soon be in good running order. The capacity of the mill will be 12 tons of finished sheet iron per day, and the works will employ three hundred hands.

The daily earnings in the cotton factories of this country are nearly double what they were in 1840. The total number of spinning spindles is 10,653,175; of looms 225,752. The actual consumption of cotton last year was 1,760,000 bales.

The New York plate glass company's works at Hite, Pa., will soon commence operations. The concern is of such immense proportions that some time will be consumed in getting things in regular working shape.

A shaft recently made in the New Albany, Indiana, steam forge for a mammoth rotton boat is the largest in the country. It is 23½ feet long and 15½ inches in diameter and will weigh exclusive of gearing 24,000 pounds.

The Syracuse Iron and Tube Company have started their works at East Syracuse, New York, where they have a block of buildings 500x300 feet and are the only boiler tube manufacturers in the State. The capital is $250,000 and 1,000 men are employed.

A pipe has been laid from the Laclede rolling mills to the gas works of the Mississippi glass company, St. Louis, and if the latter are successful in their experiments with hydrogen gas one of the puddling furnaces of the rolling mill will be worked with water gas as fuel.

The Heisler's electric light works in St. Louis are pushed to their full capacity with work. Orders from every part of the country and from Europe, the latest foreign orders being from London, are daily received. The works employ seventy-five men, but the capacity will soon be increased.

The wool manufactoring establishments of the United States now number 2,084, with a capital of $159,644,870. They give employment to 75,334 men and 85,664 women and children. The average paid each toiler is $293.05 per year. These mills consume 295,194,229 pounds of wool, of which 222,991,531 are of home production and 73,200,698 pounds come from abroad.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICE OF COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY, Washington, December 30, 1882.

WHEREAS, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that "THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF OMAHA," in the city of Omaha, in the county of Douglas, and State of Nebraska, has complied with all the provisions of the "Act of Congress to enable National Banking Associations to extend their corporate existence and for other purposes," approved July 12th, 1882

NOW THEREFORE, I, John J. Knox, Comptroller of the Currency do hereby certify that "The First National Bank of Omaha," in the city of Omaha, in the county of Douglas, and state of Nebraska, is authorized to have succession for the period specified in its amended articles of association, namely, until the close of business on December 31, 1902.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, witness my hand and seal of office this 30th day of December, 1882.

JOHN J. KNOX,
[SEAL] Comptroller of the Currency.

NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is seriously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1, per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

Philadelphia, Pa. (2) Mrs A. M. D.
