OMAHA.

Monday Morning, Jan. 22

Weather Report

(The following observations are taken at the same moment of time at all the stations named.)

Table with columns for Station, Direction, and Wind. Rows include Denver, Cheyenne, Omaha, etc.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

—The business men of Ord give a banquet this evening.
—The mercury was down to thirty degrees below zero at the Bluffs last night.

MACE AND SLADE.

The Ex-Champion and His Progeny Will Arrive in Omaha To-Day.

And Give a Set-to for the Benefit of Omaha People.

After considerable negotiations between a well known gentleman of this city and Mr. Jim Mace, the celebrated pugilist, the latter has finally concluded to stop over here for a few hours, and will give an exhibition of the manly art to-night in connection with Slade, his Australian protege.

THE SNOW BLOCKADE.

The Railroads Still Suffering from the Storm.

Although the recent storm is entirely over and the sky was beautifully bright and clear yesterday, the mercury did not climb up many degrees higher than on the preceding day.
The railroads still suffer from the effects of the snow, some of them being entirely laid out, others slowly recovering, and only two, the Union Pacific and B. & M., being in good working order.

address on the uncertainty of life, the certainty of the death and the necessity of being prepared for it at all times. He also referred to the edifying manner in the deceased had prepared for death, as to the liberality and charity which had distinguished him. He closed with an appeal to the relatives and friends for a fervent offering of prayers for the repose of the soul of the deceased.

MIDWINTER MARRIAGE.

The Coming Nuptials of a Well Known Omaha Man.
Invitations are out for the wedding of Mr. Moritz Meyer, of this city, and Miss Emma Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Fisher, of New York city.

ARMY ORDERS.

Assignment of Recruits—Sentence Remitted, Etc.

Sufficient cause having been shown for his inability to pay his own expenses, under provisions of army regulations, paragraph 205, the quartermaster's department will furnish transportation from Omaha, Neb., to Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., to Private Charles Johnson, company I, Ninth Infantry, a furloughed soldier without means to rejoin his station.

ALL HUMBLED.

No Coal Famine Possible this Winter.

The rumor that a continuance of the present cold weather might precipitate another coal famine this winter, such as was experienced two years ago, need not alarm anyone seriously. As stated in THE BEE several weeks ago, the dealers in this city are well supplied both with hard and soft coal and we have it upon the authority of one of the biggest coal firms in the city that if Omaha were cut off from the outer world for six weeks she could stand the siege without suffering for fuel.

GOSPEL FACTS.

The Sunday Sermon at the North Presbyterian Church.

A Discussion of the Subject, "Your Books."

Yesterday morning Rev. F. S. Blaney preached an explanatory sermon from Romans, xv:13 14: "Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Holy Ghost; and I, myself, also, am persuaded of you, my brethren, that ye also are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able, also, to admonish one another."

THE OPPOSITION.

The greatest of apostolic writers is about to close the best of his productions, after having experienced some of the love of Christ, and the power of the Holy Ghost, after he had preached the gospel in other places and had established other churches, after he had felt with punishment. They knew the nature and power of an ambassador. They knew what a ransom was and what the position was of a ransomed people. And Paul points them to an ambassador of God's appointment, who has the power to ransom them from the power and punishment of sin.

INTIMATELY CONNECTED.

THE FOR-TAKER.

of that which shall be hereafter. The gospel begins with hope and ends with reality; but if there is not a realization in the future by man he must blame God for not taking him to heaven in a chariot of fire. The church or self-righteousness will not save him, but faith will. And many there are who are trying to find peace in the idols they set up as a pleasure to their imagination, therefore if there is harmony and music in truth let it be in this statement, "There is no peace of Christ." The cause of the preaching of this gospel and the joy and peace to the hearts of the people was faith. It was the substance of things hoped for and the evidence of things not seen, and there was nothing that could prove

A SUFFICIENT BARRIER.

to stop it. Imprisonment and the stake were but propelling forces to make the church triumphant. And the apostle desired that this faith be surrounded by joy and peace, that by the power of the Holy Ghost. Thus by faith and hope the Christian would have the retrospective view of Christ on the cross—a ransom—and a prospective view of the manna which Christ has prepared. Hope is the grandest thing that moves the human heart, it exists in the present but lives in the future. And Paul is anxious that they be filled with knowledge that

THEY MAY HAVE SOME THING.

upon which to rest their faith—even Christ—and not be attempting to build on the quick sands of idiotry or superstition. And the Holy Ghost might give power to the mind, thereby causing one to be able to support and give courage to another. If these truths were not to great to be understood and practiced by them at this early period, what should be expected of us at the present day, with all the enlightenment about

GOD AND HIS SON.

Jesus Christ! Should we attempt to build upon our own righteousness, should we see the righteousness of a man and depend upon man as an infallible being? Should we attempt to abrogate the sinner and endeavor to unlock the doors of knowledge with a key of heaven which man has made? Not as long as we follow in the footsteps of Paul.

Rev. W. J. Harshes.

At the Second Presbyterian church Sunday evening "Your Books," was the subject of the regular lecture of the pastor, the text being 1 Tim. 4:13 "Till I come give attendance to reading."
There is something peculiarly fascinating to the mind of man in a book. There are not a few of us who would gladly devote our lives to reading and collecting books. This interest in published volumes being so great, it is very necessary for us to make some inquiry into the kind of books we should read. For, if it is important to take only healthy food and drink into the body, it is equally important to admit only beneficial food to the mind. More harm may be done to a character by the reading of a poisonous book than by almost any other thing. Let us therefore examine into four classes of books that will in all probability come before you, and let us exercise our common sense in regard to them.

BAD BREAKS.

A Man Seriously Stabbed Over a Saloon Quarrel.

Burglaries, Accidents, Runaways, Etc.

On Saturday night a stabbing affray took place on Cuming street, in which Chris. Beindorf was badly cut on the left side by a knife, at the hands of H. Mason. Beindorf is a young man of twenty-two, quite large and fleshy, and resides on twenty-fourth street near Cass. Mason is twenty-five years of age and is an ice cutter. He came here from Red Oak, Ia., and is said to have come originally from Texas, and to have the natural appetite for gore which distinguishes the citizens of the Lone Star state.

SECOND—BOOKS OF INSPIRATION.

There are volumes the design of which is to inspire men for life's trials and conflicts. Whatever man's trade or profession may be he is better and happier if he draw some high stimulus from books of this character. Poetry is essentially inspiring. Its rhythms and rhymes are means to fill the soul with enthusiasm; just as the songs of the minstrel, in days of old, fired the hearts of our Anglo-Saxon fathers to warlike deeds. And, besides poetry, there is biography, which affords inspiration to men. Read the lives of Cesar, Napoleon, Luther and Knox if you would be inspired for heroic deeds.

THIRD—BOOKS OF INSTRUCTION.

Every good book, of course, must convey instruction; but there are some whose special object it is to provide food for the mind. History is to be read for its instruction. However busy you may be you should not neglect to read a short history of England, France, Germany, ancient Rome and Greece and the United States. You will be surprised at the lessons you can draw from the lives of those who have lived and acted upon these scenes for your own life. If you have a taste for it, study philosophy. Mental philosophy is very important to anyone who would like to know his own mind. Moral philosophy is equally important to those who would understand their duties. Books of science are also very important instructors. Read everything that has come from the pen of Darwin.

FOURTH. BOOKS OF MORAL IMPROVEMENT.

You cannot afford to neglect these. Your moral nature is as important as any part of your complex organism. Of all books of this description the Bible is the best. Study its holy chapters, read its descriptions of men, examine carefully its delineations of the human heart. See how accurately it reveals yourself to yourself; and then discover how fully the atonement in Christ it offers meets your deepest wants. Frequently has the "man of one book" become a power in the world. The man who knows the Bible thoroughly will be successful in this world, and he that practices it will be blessed in the world that is to come.

Not For The Union.

WHEREAS, it has been currently reported that the Eighteenth street M. E. church, of this city, has desired a union with the First M. E. church of this city, and many had supposed that the union was to soon take place; and the organization of the Eighteenth street M. E. church abandoned. Therefore be it RESOLVED, That we, the members of the Third M. E. church, hereby unanimously declare that the report is erroneous; that no steps have ever been taken by the board, or desire expressed for such a union; that we feel that the best interests of methodism demands that we continue our present organization in our present location, and work in the future, as in the past, for the good of the church, and that we cordially welcome all those who desire to unite with us in our efforts to advance the cause of christianity in this city.

FALSE PRETENCES.

A Bogus Farmer Makes a Reize.

The officers of the law are after a man who is charged with obtaining about $300 in cash from H. T. Clarke's bank at Papillion, under false pretences.
It appears that the man went to the bank and represented himself to be I. W. Richards, one of Mr. Clarke's farm tenants, and on this representation obtained the sum named as an advance on some grain.

To Sheep and Cattle Men.

A joint meeting of the Nebraska Sheep Breeders' and Wool Growers' association and the Nebraska Fine Stock Breeders' association will be held in Lincoln on Thursday, February 8, 1883, at 3 o'clock and 7:30 p. m., at which time a number of distinguished gentlemen will read essays upon topics of interest, and the usual business of the organization will be transacted.
Col. John Scott, of Nevada, Iowa, will read an essay upon "Improving the Short-horn;" Col. Robert Holloway, of Alexis, Illinois, upon the merits of the draft horse; Hon. A. M. Garland, of Illinois, on the sheep and wool-growing interests; also essays by a number of local breeders. Efforts are being made to secure reduced rates upon railroads in the state. State papers please copy.
