

ROARING RIVERS.

Frightful Rain Wrought in Ohio and Adjoining States.

The People Forced to Fly From Their Homes to Higher Grounds.

The Hilltops Alone Visible in the Vast Waste of Waters.

The Destruction of Livestock and Other Property Incalculable.

Special Dispatches to This Day.

CINCINNATI, February 7.—The Ohio river is rising here nine inches an hour, and at the same rate at Portsmouth and Catlettsburg.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., February 7.—People living along the river front in this city are now in dread of the river overflowing to-night, and those living in the lower part of the town are making preparations to move.

PITTSBURG, February 7.—Indications point to another flood, this time from the Monongahela river.

CINCINNATI, February 7.—Extremely high waters in the Ohio and Licking rivers. Fifty coal barges, half of them loaded, were washed away from the Covington shore to-night.

PORT DEPOSIT, Md., February 7.—The ice gorge in the Susquehanna extends two miles. The ice below the gorge is firm for three miles.

WASHINGTON, February 8.—The weather bureau says: The Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland rivers will continue to rise, causing dangerous floods in the Ohio and Cumberland valleys.

CINCINNATI, February 7.—The Commercial-Gazette's special says: At Mariota the whole lower part of the city is overflowed.

TOLEDO, O., February 7.—There is still great distress from the flood at towns above on the Maumee. The water has fallen about three feet at Delano.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELER. Omaha, February 6, 1883.

WHEELING, W. Va., February 7.—The river continues to rise. The southern portion of the city and island were under water all day.

PITTSBURG, February 7.—From present indications this section will be visited before morning with the greatest flood for fifty years.

INDIANAPOLIS, February 3.—The scandal case at Lafayette involving Mrs. Helen M. Gougar, the well-known woman suffrage and prohibition advocate, has created the greatest sensation all the week.

The South Side are now under water and by tomorrow morning it is expected the mills and factories along the river will be compelled to suspend operations.

A Blackmailer and Defamer. Special Dispatch to This Day.

MILWAUKEE, February 7.—A few days ago there were received in this city and in Fond du Lac, addressed to a well-known person, a considerable number of intype likenesses of a beautiful young lady, accompanied by certain printed statements calculated to create a great sensation in society circles.

The Gold in Texas. Special Dispatch to This Day.

FORT WORTH, Texas, February 7.—The snow storm has abated and the weather has greatly moderated.

THEAT BRIDGE MONOPOLY AGAIN. To the Editor of This Day.

The writer has frequently thought of writing an encouraging word to the editor of THE BEE in its unequal fight against the extortion of the Union Pacific railroad.

This onerous tax on the travel between the two cities must be, of necessity, a hindrance to profitable commercial intercourse.

OMAHA, FEBRUARY 6, 1883.

A Warning to Residents of the Platte Valley.

Having been a resident of Douglas county, Neb., for many years and witnessed the terrible and frequent floods that have occurred along the Platte and lower Elkhorn valleys, I feel it my duty after close observation and notes taken, to publish this warning to the citizens of Waterloo and vicinity that they are on the eve of one of the most destructive floods that was ever witnessed in the Platte valley.

WATERLOO, February 7.

INDIANAPOLIS, February 3.—The scandal case at Lafayette involving Mrs. Helen M. Gougar, the well-known woman suffrage and prohibition advocate, has created the greatest sensation all the week.

A Traveler's Experience. DENVER, Colo., January 31. To the Editor of THE BEE.

There are many incidents that transpire in starting on a journey (especially if the train is two hours late) that are mirthful to one who is accustomed to traveling.

Tuesday morning, January 30th, the C. B. & Q. from Chicago was over two hours late at Plattsmouth, therefore the Omaha R. & M. train went on to Plattsmouth instead of stopping at the junction.

On the way from the junction to Plattsmouth, the inquiry was raised by many, "Where is this train going?" One man says, "It is going south." Another says: "It is going toward Florida, where it is warmer, and so on, and some of those desiring to get to Lincoln and thence on to go to other points were much agitated, and made frequent inquiry of the kind and pleasant conductor or train men, if their train would wait for them at Lincoln. Some were afraid that they were on the wrong train, etc. And the agitation of a few nervous ones was decidedly mirthful, but the conductor and train men are deserving of praise for their kind attention and correct information to the passengers.

Arriving at Lincoln over two hours late, all were quite happy for their trains were in waiting, Lunch was had and off we went for Denver with as beautiful and commodious a train of cars, with sleeper attached, as any person could desire to ride in, and over as smooth a roadbed as almost any railroad in the east.

Considerable damage was done to many buildings in Denver from the wind storm of yesterday.

P. S.—All are pleased with the nomination of Gen. Manderson for U. S. senator from Nebraska.
