IOWA ITEMS.

Des Moines' debt is now $328,938.65. Atlantic shipped five car loads of alcohol last week. The Davenport glucose works use up 2,300 bushels of corn a day. A section of land was recently sold in Lyon county for over $50,000. There is some talk of establishing a young men's home at Sioux Falls. The aggregate of Polk county's real estate business for 1882 is estimated at $4,000,000. The Acme insurance company of Des Moines has been incorporated with $2,000,000 capital. The Des Moines base ball club is organizing a stock company with paid up capital of $2,500. The eleven mail carriers of Des Moines will make about $48 each out of the benefit bill they recently held. The state will probably furnish two hundred knights Templar for the triennial convocation at San Francisco next summer. The citizens of Vail had a cool famine during the stormy weather last week. The roads have been opened and fuel is again coming in. Ottumwa is in the midst of a scandal. A thirteen year old girl accuses a grocer of attempted rape, and he says that she is a notorious busybody. An Iowa editor wants to know what poor mortals would do without the "lamp of light of hope." If the lamp went his way a little he might be enlightened on the world he is in, which is probably lamentable. The editor of The Le Mars Sentinel is after the county treasurer. The county treasurer's threat is personal violence—to kill him if need be—has no terror for the plucky journalist. Crawford county has a permanent school fund amounting to $77,322, which is loaned out at 8 per cent interest. The county only realizes 2 per cent, and inquisitive residents want to know where the balance goes to. Des Moines complains that surrounding cities unload their poor upon its charity, and then how because they are not provided with steam-heated bed rooms with bath tub attachments. A Brighton man named Cook is in the Sigourney jail for horse stealing. He had six children at home, of whom five were his first wife and one by his present spouse. The woman took the five to Sigourney and left them, and the poor authorities now have to care for them. The gamblers of Des Moines have gotten out, and that is the cause of so many recent robberies, and who escaped by jumping through a one window with the shackles on his feet, has just been recaptured and placed in prison. He has been to Canada, through the east, in Nevada, Colorado, California and New Mexico since his escape. The ex-city treasurer of Milwaukee, Wis., Michael Krause, Esq., thus speaks concerning St. Jacobs Oil: "I have used that invaluable remedy for rheumatic pains, and, in my judgment it has no equal in that line. In my opinion, St. Jacobs Oil is great. Setting a Debt. A farmer in the corn-growing district of Illinois sued a villager for debt this winter, but when the case came to trial the creditor's heart was by no means adamant. "I've wanted a good while for my pay," he explained, "and wouldn't have sued you now if you had acted like a man who wanted to pay." "I'll tell you what I'll do," replied the debtor. "Make it $23 and I'll fix it so you can get the money at once." "I'll do it." The debtor filled out a bank note for the sum, due in thirty days, and handed it to the creditor with the remark: "Put your name on the back and they'll give you the money at the bank." The farmer indented it, got his money, less the discount, and his grin of pleasure had not entirely died out when the note came due and the cashier explained: "The signer has nothing we can get hold of and of course the indorser has to pay."

"All ladies who may be troubled with nervous prostration, who suffer from organic displacement, who have a sense of weariness and a feeling of lassitude; who are languid in the morning; in whom the appetite for food is capricious and sleep at proper hours uncertain, should have recourse to Mrs. Nickham's Vegetable Compound. GOLD WEATHER IN NEVADA. Stories of Winter Life Told by Two Old Settlers in the Mountains. Life Lake Comet. "This weather doesn't quite come up to two years ago, Rob, when the snow was seven feet deep, and trains were snowed in for four days. That was a hard winter." "Hard winter! Why, that was nothing at all. Eight years ago the rains didn't get through here for three months, and Uncle John Crayton had to pack all his provisions over from Traverso on snowshoes." "Yes, that was pretty tough, but it wasn't a marker to the winter Bart Howe stole Doc Morgan's turkeys, and had them all dressed before Doc quit cooking. Don't you mind how the wind blew, too, and how it drifted?" Nick then logged two eighths that winter on section 13, and in the Spring Will Bailey happened down that way looking up land, and got onto them stumps. Great ball frog! The shortest stump in that lot was forty feet high. Will bought the stump land at fifty cents an acre, and made $8,000 logging it over again next year.

"Oh, I know all about that. Such stories as that might do to tell in Florida, or in a warm part of Texas. But you don't want to talk to me a cunint about Life Lake Winters. W'y, boy, I was here 'fore you was born. You never heard of the winter of '49?" "No; let 'er drive." "Well, that was a windy year, and it was a little cold. Winter set in the 12th of November with the darndest whirlwind you ever smok of. What do you s'pose I saw when I went down t' the lake the next morning to take a swim?" "What was it?" "Well, the lake had froze thirty-four feet deep durin' the night, un' right out in the middle that darned cyclone had raised a chunk of water sixty feet high, un' it had froze there stiff as a green Norway in February. The blamed thing was 'bout a hundred feet 'cross the top, and tapered down t' 'bout an inch at the bottom. The wind was blowin' like an old settler, too."

"Did she blow over, Bob?" "Nary a blow. Before the wind could blow 'er over one way it would blow 'round and right 'er up again. And she kept goin' that way until the 4th of next June."

The Diamond Dyes for family use have no equal. All popular colors easily dyed, fast and beautiful. 10 cents a package for any color. Hints to Pork Packers. In The Farmer's Review T. D. Coburn offers the following hints: "While it has been demonstrated that under favorable circumstances twenty pounds of live hog can be made from fifty-six pounds of shelled corn, it has been even more thoroughly demonstrated than that of thousands of men every year feed millions of bushels of corn to hogs, that never return one-fourth that quantity, while a good round pig, of them fall even short of that. A hog to fatten or even grow rightly must not be cold, and especially not cold and wet, too, as he is sure to be if much exposed in inclement weather; hence he should have quarters where most of his time, when not eating, will be passed in a comfortable sleep, warm and undisturbed. This cannot be had in a leaky sty or a manure heap. In referring to the plan of keeping corn or food all the time before them he says: "Surely in this way their appetite and relish for it cannot be so good as when only as much is given as they will clean up; then next time they come with alacrity to what should be to them an enjoyable feast. This by no means signifies that they should be allowed to become squealing, screaming hungry. The more they eat the faster they are likely to lay on flesh and fat, and they will eat most when fed a reasonable quantity and at regular intervals. To keep them full without being at any time cloyed is the happy medium to seek."

Upon another point which is generally lost sight of in feeding, he says: "Too little attention is paid to supplying hogs with plenty of clean water. We all know (or at least I do) that they are pretty messy things; but I am persuaded that they like a drink of cool, clean water as well as any person, and better than a great many do, for they would be glad to have it oftentimes when many a man would not be satisfied without something considerably stronger and a good deal less wholesome." March On, March on to Victory. Under date of November 21, 1882, Mr. Albert W. Handy, of Fruit and Whitney Company, Hartford, Conn., writes: "Having been a great sufferer from a severe attack of Kidney Disease, and endured for a long time the intense pain, many aches, and extreme weakness that always attend this dread disease, including the terrible back-ache, after trying doctor's prescriptions and many other so-called

COL. L. T. FOSTER.

Hunterdon, Ohio, May 15, 1882. Dr. R. J. Kendall & Co.—I had severe Hemiplegia of the left side of my body, and a large bone spur on one joint and a small one on the other which made him very lame; I had him under the charge of two veterinary surgeons which failed to cure him. I was one day reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spanish Cure in the Chicago Express, I determined at once to try it and get my cure here to send for it, and they ordered three bottles; I took all and I thought I would give it a thorough trial, I used it according to directions and the fourth day the coil ceased to be lame and the lumps have disappeared. I used but one bottle and the coil's limbs are free of lumps and as smooth as any horse in the state. He is entirely cured. The cure was so remarkable that I have let two of my neighbors have each a bottle of my neighbors have been using it two bottles who are now using it. Very respectfully, L. T. FOSTER.
