

The Daily Bee COUNCIL BLUFFS. Thursday Morning, Feb 22. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: By Carrier, 30 cents per week. By Mail, $10.00 per Year.

Kick Them Out. Kick Them Out. No, the Nonpareil is not "foreign." The Globe is not "foreign." The entire circulation of these two papers outside of Council Bluffs will not amount to 300 copies, and hence they cannot in any sense be called "foreign."

They have absolutely no circulation west of the river, hence they are essentially "home" papers. Of course Council Bluffs does not want any Nebraska trade. She wants no "foreign" money. She only needs the traffic from Des Moines and Chicago.

Such a "foreign" paper as this should be run out of Council Bluffs instantly, and no man who has any regard for this city will subscribe or advertise in it.

Why years ago he came here and illustrated our town in a publication that had 15,000 circulation, and he actually told his subscribers a very complimentary story about us of the Bluffs.

Then his manager, he is a swindler. Why years ago he came here and illustrated our town in a publication that had 15,000 circulation, and he actually told his subscribers a very complimentary story about us of the Bluffs.

Montal depression, weakness of the muscular system, general ill-health, benefited by using Brown's Iron Bitters.

MINOR MENTIONS. -The $50,000 appropriation for the new United States court house and postoffice is a starter for a big boom in the Bluffs.

-G. Kempton, charged with the robbery of Tom's jewelry store, waived an examination, and will answer before a grand jury his guilt or innocence.

-A brace of boys said hard words and even came to blows with a third lad. Judge Aylesworth gave them his best sermon free and sent them to sin no more.

-Mr. S. T. Fauchet has returned from Colorado with his bride, nee Miss Leonard, of Leaville. They will have rooms at the residence of Mr. Perogoy, on First avenue.

-John H. Kemp, of Essex, Page county, proclaimed his intention of marrying Miss Ida Josephine Lawson, of the same place, at the county clerk's office yesterday.

-Chas. Moore, we learn, because the father of a bouncing boy yesterday, and it is fair to presume he is searching for the city editor with a box of cigars in his vest pocket.

-Colonel J. W. Clyde, of Logan, was in town yesterday. He came down to get the aid of Justice Abbott to muster in a company of G. A. R. at Logan next Monday evening.

-Saturday will be the 29th anniversary of the ordination of Rev. Father McMenomy. High mass will be celebrated in the morning at 8 o'clock by three priests, and in the evening there will be a general social gathering and felicitation at the house of "Father Mac."

-A Dane named Larson, living on the farm of Mr. Ferguson, of the Pacific, was buying drafts on Copenhagen yesterday for $184.50, being passage money for his wife and two children, now in the foggy peninsula of Jutland. Mrs. Larson will be in Iowa in a month or now.

-Mr. S. S. Frank, of Key Creek, called on us yesterday, subscribed for The Bee another year, and chatted with us about stock, crops, etc. He says that fruit buds are probably little injured in his locality, and reported sleighing on the decline.

-Said a business man of the city to us: "You want to fight that idea of giving up the high school building for a hospital." "But I am not sure that I know enough of the affair to be warranted in so doing," replied the reporter. "Don't make any difference, sir, the business interests of town are opposed to it. It's all nonsense to talk of the hardship of children climbing up that hill. Why, they'll climb it forty times a day for the mere, fleeting joy of going down belly-aster on a sled. Talk of their getting hurt, they'd better start a hospital at the foot of the hill to take care of 'em when they fall off their seats. Hospital is all right, but we don't want it that building on the hill." The reporter said he would no doubt take a more lively interest in it when he moved his family over here and passed on. We shall be open to hear from the other side of the question if any one desires to be heard.

The city librarian informs us that there are now 3,000 volumes in the library, not including that eternal nuisance, the Pub. Doc. About 50 or 60 books are taken out every day. Last Saturday 162 were drawn. The children of the schools make constant use of the many valuable reference books and the news tables are always in requisition.

-A noted howler, who wants The Bee crucified because it is a "foreign" paper, promised one of our leading men that he would give him a chance to bid on glass and plate for his new building. The other day he was met on the street and asked if he was ready for the bid, and received for a reply, "O I let that job to a Chicago firm." That is patronizing home industry with a vengeance. These howlers are hypocrites of the most detestable and pharisaical type.

-We met Mr. Baldwin, manager of the street car line, prowling about the corridors of the Ogden house with his right eye done up in a sling. We were about to ask him how the other man was, when a company of his friends came up and No. 1 began: "Ah, Baldwin, what's the matter with your eye?" "Caught a cold in it and it's inflamed," answered the unfortunate man. "Oh, yes, it was pretty cold about 2 o'clock this morning," said the taster with a wink at the rest of the crowd. "But I say I caught cold in it," reiterated Mr. B. "Of course," replied the interlocutor with suggestive accent. "I had a cold in my eye," pursued another of the party, "and if you'd like, Baldwin, I'll tell you how I cured it." "I don't care how you cured it," growled the sufferer. "But you see it is so funny. Now my eye—well I don't want to hurt your feelings, Mr. Baldwin, but it's a good many years ago—and well I got my cold eye by being out on a boat—I was young you know. But how I cured it, why you see I suffered all the time, terribly, so I went down to an oculist; I waited an hour for him and he didn't come. I went down the next day and waited another hour—no eye doctor. I went home mad? Oh no, I was simply steaming. Now, will you believe it, that my eye got well right off and has been so ever since." I don't see any point to your cure business," snarled the small man of the party. "Hello, Baldwin, what's all your eye?" Oh, nothing, a male stepped on it, that's all," and the persecuted manager fled for the dining room.

AT THE POLICE STATION.

Lots of Miscellaneous Deviltry --A "Still Hunt" Going on.

Roderick Still at Bay--Husted Brought Over From Omaha, Etc., Etc.

The police force are on the qui vive. Such a succession of stealings and burglaries are going on that they feel on their mensle. Yesterday morning Officers Ousick and Brooks took a stroll down to Roderick's, the wife-boater's domicile. Roderick didn't linger to receive them, but "all the same" they fastened onto a fine buggy-lens robe secreted on the premises. It is now awaiting identification at the station.

Ira B. Husted, now in durance for over a week at Omaha, was brought across the river and lodged in confinement by Officer Morse. Ira, it will be remembered, is wanted for blackmail.

A Swede who wants to be Sullivan, started a mill with D. J. Gould at a saloon near the Chicago & North-western depot. Scandinavia slept in the station house last night.

William Campbell thought a ham all that was lacking to make him happy, and Judge Aylesworth thought fifteen days in the county jail or $50 little enough to go with the ham as little dishes. William will board with Jailer Schantz.

Sam Kennedy paid $5 and costs for the privilege of a drunk.

Over in Judge Vaughan's domain the case of Josh Chapman for mayhem, which in this case means earbiting, was continued. The case looks hard for Josh and on motion of the state he was ordered to better his surety.

A telegram to Judge Vaughan from Phelps, Mo., says that O. Grant, wanted here for some swindling, is under arrest there.

Justice Schurz is going to try the case of Simon Jacobs and wife, for obtaining money under false pretenses, on Saturday. Justice Abbott is walking up and down the streets with a raging felon on his front finger, and would give more to be rid of it than for the fattest case afloat.

"SHUT THE DOOR!" The Parable of the Portals, Otherwise Known as a Homily on Hinges.

A General Disquisition on Doors, What "The Bee" Found Out on a Mooted Question.

It goes without saying that every observant citizen has noted the current insanity on the subject of shutting doors; farther even it might be said that every philosophizing member of the community has been pained at the all too evident drift of this present career. Why, even in our own short postulatory glance at the open edition was enough to hasten immediate compliance with the unspoken wish. Away back in the patriarchal period when Abraham pitched his tent on the plains of Mamre, and the three celestial wayfarers, men invited in to refresh themselves with mutton soup, there were no grinning gyps from Ethiopia staring at the entrance with an admonition declaring that "everybody drops this tent flap but you." When Jacob served seven years for Leah and sat around evenings in Lohan's wigwam there were no legends on the wall telling him not to monkey with the lodge-pole, no smirking variety actresses peeped up on the door-post asking him to "please pull the door-knob or take a walk." Why, then, oh, why this degeneration? In the primitive days of our own republic will any one dare say that when Sam Adams dropped in on John Hancock to smoke an evening cigar and talk politics, that a piece of painted pasteboard was stuck on the front door requesting him to manipulate the door-knob and take off his overhaos? Did Daniel Webster or John C. Calhoun or Henry Clay or any of the great statesmen thrust insulting notices into the faces of everyone who called on them?

And then, besides, it don't do any good. The careless will ignore the insinuation, the vicious will defy it, and only the truly circumspect and careful will take cognizance of it. And to them what else can it be but an humiliation? We asked a clerk in a business house in this city where a hideous, mouth-aged Senegambian chromo glared balefully on every one entering with the perpetual injunction "shut the door!" "Do you think that animal," with a jerk of the head toward the street, "makes it any easier to keep the door shut?"

"Well, no; I'm afraid not," he answered, after a moment of consideration. "I never thought particularly of it before, but when I reflect, I know that it makes us more bother than it saves us."

"How's that?" said The Bee.

"Why, you see, people who leave the door open come and look at that card and get off state drives and finally walk off and leave the door wide open, thinking it a good joke. Careful, modest people drop in and get mad at the concern and slam the door so hard going out that it flies open again."

"All, it is so much trouble then to make folks do such a simple thing as close the hole after them when they come in from out doors?"

"Yes, it is some care and a great deal more vexation, and then we catch colds from the draughts of icy air and that brings on consumption, bronchitis, and all those bronchial diseases and--"

"Hold on," said the reporter, smiling, "that's enough; but you don't think it is improving under the new dispensations of placards and pictures?"

"No; as I said, I don't."

"Well, here then," continued the reporter, dropping his voice to a husky whisper, "do you know--can you look into the future enough to see what the end of this thing is going to be?"

"No," said the clerk in an awestruck tone.

"You don't? Well, then, here it is: I'll give the thing dead away. If it goes on as it is going, in ten years there'll be an automatic wooden man just within every threshold, moved by a spring connected with the door knob, and brandishing a hatchet in one hand to brain the visitor in case of non-compliance, while the other hand will thrust a card into his face with 'Will you shut the door?' printed on it in two line pic letters. I told you!"--and the reporter skipped.

Spring is coming, gentle Annie, and Annie will go into the house-cleaning business. She will have the walls decorated, the ceiling calcimined, and the doors and windows will be replenished with fresh paint. All this brings to mind the fact that a stylish assortment of wall paper, a skilled manipulator of paints and a careful workman are essentials to the programme. For all these Mr. Peter C. Miller, 18 and 20 North Main street, is famous. We know whereof we speak.

More About the "History" The following has been received, and needs no comments: To the Editor of The Bee:

Your mention in the DAILY BEE of February 15 of errors, etc., in county history is fully appreciated by citizens of Carson and vicinity. One would never dream by reading that authentic (?) history that such a town existed as Carson, with her sixteen hundred inhabitants, three elevators, $2,500 school house, large church, with all other business fully represented; with a city government, independent school district, Odd Fellows lodge and encampment, Masonic lodge, Y. A. S. fraternity, etc., etc., and the best trading point in the east end. The volume sounds as if it was written by men who lived many years ago, and not to-day.

Carson, Ia., February 15, 1883.

Somewhat in Doubt. The leading editorial on the tariff question in Friday's Nonpareil, starts off in favor of high protection, but winds up in good free trade style. -Dennis Bulletin.

DOINGS OF THE DEMOCRATS. What was Done in the Ward Primaries Last Night. The democrats of Council Bluffs held their ward primaries last night. In the Third City Clerk Utson had looked the court room, put the key in his pocket and gone home. When the expectant democrats assembled there was a deal of kicking, and finally a saloon keeper named Kennedy and Officer Ousick had quite a contest of chin muscle, and the reporter got his pencil to note the riot, but it quieted down. The following is the list of delegates to the city convention, to be held Saturday:

First ward--Geo. Holmes, Frank Guannello, Bob Rain, G. A. Jackson, C. D. Walters, Henry Schumaker. Second Ward--Thos. Bowman, Jno. Ahles, J. O. DeHaven, Chas. Anderson, J. W. Wickol, A. L. Hendricks, Peter Bechtel, Robert Huntington. Third Ward--Ed. Britton, Andy C. Graham, D. S. Starr, Wm. Rapp, John Green, W. H. Tinkley--E. B. Bowman was endorsed for assessor; M. Keating was nominated by acclamation for alderman.

Fourth Ward--John Weaver, Bob Parcelval, J. T. Hart, Geo. Hill, Owen P. Wickham, Marshal Key, C. R. Mitchell, Sam Leonard, M. G. Griffin, W. C. James for alderman.

PERSONAL "The Girl that I Love" is at the Ogden. W. H. Myers, of Sioux City, is at the Pacific house. J. F. Loomis, of Shelby, Iowa, is at the Ogden. J. E. Dean, of Chicago, is stopping at the Ogden. A Richards came over from Omaha yesterday. J. M. Holt, Marysville, Neb., is at the Ogden. Annie Wilson, Emerson, is registered at the Ogden. W. C. Wood, of Chicago, is at the Ogden.

A. C. Bergman, from Avoca, is at the Pacific. Charles T. Baker, of Bozeman, Montana, is at the Ogden. Andrew Smith, of Detroit, ate dinner at the Pacific. H. J. Chambers is stopping at the Pacific from Avoca. Miss Sallie Hudran stops at the Pacific from Hastings, Iowa. M. Schmitt, Oakkosh, has somehow a familiar look on the Pacific register. C. J. Robbins, of Lowell, Mass., where the Celestials peg shoes, is at the Pacific. M. J. Burns, of Ottumwa, wrote his name on the Ogden house register yesterday--wrote it so the reporter could read it, too. Dan. T. Wheeler, from the Mound City, was registered at the Ogden house yesterday. S. F. Huclos, of Harlan, Shelby county, proprietor of the bus line at that place, and an old subscriber of The Bee, called to pay his respects yesterday, and renewed his subscription for both daily and weekly BEE.

Our New Loan and Improvement Co. Investigation into the matter convinces us that one of the most equitable, reasonable and feasible plans of building houses is that proposed and in operation by the Mercantile Loan, Trust and Improvement company of this city. By investing in shares in this institution, which is backed by some of our best and most reliable business men, it becomes possible and comparatively easy for a man of moderate means to secure a comfortable home for himself and family. In taking a certain number of shares, the owner receives a monthly payment, in a few years a man can own a house of his own for about the same as he pays monthly for rent. We believe the Mercantile Loan and Trust company, by organizing and opening up for business, having filled a long felt want in Council Bluffs. Their plans and system of loans will bear the most careful scrutiny and examination, and we have no hesitancy in pronouncing them reasonable and equitable, and backed by gentlemen of honor and integrity. As the company exists it becomes at once an institution of value and credit to our city and those who desire homes. Their president is T. A. Kirkland; vice president, Judge Peake; secretary, I. B. Boery; treasurer, Col. Beebe, and their office is in the basement of Shugart's and McMahon's new block, corner First avenue and Pearl street. jan27-ly
