THE MEDICAL COLLEGE.

Second Annual Commencement Exercises.

Interesting Exercises at Boyd's Opera House.

Valued Address by Donald McCrae, of Council Bluffs.

The second annual commencement exercises of the Omaha medical college were held at 3:30 p. m. yesterday at Boyd's opera house, an audience of about 400 or 500 friends of the graduates being in attendance.

It was a gallant reception and the general appearance of things as well the nature of the exercises was very pleasant indeed.

In addition to the members of the graduating class the stage was occupied by the faculty, consisting of: Robert R. Livingston, president; George B. Ayres, secretary; Robert R. Livingston, Plattsmouth; Victor H. Coffman, Omaha; Geo. B. Ayres, Omaha; Samuel D. Mercer, Omaha; P. S. Linsinger, Omaha; Jacob O. Denton, Omaha; Richard C. Moore, Omaha; A. S. V. Mansfield, Ashland; G. H. Peobles, David City; H. P. Mathewson, Lincoln; Donald McCrae, Council Bluffs; Lewis W. S. Gibbs, Omaha; James Carter, Ottumwa; John G. Cowin, professor of medicine, jurisprudence, Omaha; Warner Hemsted, Omaha.

THE MUSICAL UNION ORCHESTRA was present and enriched the occasion by some of their choicest music, greatly adding to the attractive character of the exercises. Their programme, which was interspersed throughout the exercises, consisted of the following pieces:

Overture—"Light Cavalry".....Suppe
Lecture—"Hobbesian Girl".....Ralle
Overture—"The Merry Wives of Windsor".....Mozart
Poutpourri—"How Delightful".....Cattin
Following the overture prayer was offered by Rev. A. F. Sherrill, of the Congregational church, and then came the conferring of the degree of doctor of medicine on the following graduates, by Prof. V. H. Coffman, M. D., president of the board of trustees:

Miss G. A. Arbuckle.....Omaha
N. D. W. Brotherton.....Council Bluffs
A. N. Keller.....Plattsmouth
Harry G. Linsinger.....Omaha
G. E. Lloyd.....Hastings
J. L. Shaw.....Indianola
Chas. F. Webb.....Denver, Col.
Dr. Williams.....Kansas

Dr. Coffman made a very neat address to the graduates, congratulating the members of the class on having finished their course, and giving them some excellent advice for their future profession.

Following the conferring of diplomas, Dr. P. S. Linsinger, who, as chairman of the committee of arrangements, presided, presented each member of the class with a handsome bouquet.

Dr. Donald McCrae, of Council Bluffs, then delivered the valedictory address, which was as follows:

THE VALENTINITY.
Every person, except his absolutely and perfectly free, is to a certain extent in debt, looks forward to some time, it may be near, it may be in the distant future, when he can throw off his shackles and be free. Every student of medicine is in looking ahead and hoping for something or other. Every one lives in the expectancy of a period of pleasure or a period of relaxation. To us all the day, pupils and teachers, the end of an academic year is one of these periods. We have looked forward to and longed for, more or less, the end of the session, and now it is worked hard; some of us have overworked, and now that the end has come we are, to say the least, perfectly satisfied that it should be so. The end of the session, the period is even more marked and peculiar. You have not only come to the end of your academic year, but you have finished your career, your period of close confinement to over one hundred and fifty days, all well credited, and from a school of medicine recognized all over the United States.

Occasionally these bring the pupil and teacher near to each other. They make the teacher live his life over again. When he sees the beaming eye and joyful expression of the successful student, he realizes his own life of the time, it may count many years, but still so near, when he, too, felt that he had overcome everything and finally after many a struggle had reached the goal. Yes, you have reached the goal, and I congratulate you. I would not abate one jot of your satisfaction in taking your degree, and I say, enjoy your pleasure and relaxation while it lasts.

YOUR PROVE SORS
may seem hard taskmasters and stern judges to you. They may even sometimes seem to you to be cruel and too much. But you must remember that we are here vested with a sacred trust, and are jealous of the honor of our school. It is all over now, and your own satisfaction must be greater, and the honor all the more highly prized, when you are conscious that your diplomas have been only obtained after a long and hard work and solid study. I now want to tell you and promise, that as the years pass, we intend that you shall be more and more satisfied with the course you have taken. Do not propose to make graduation any easier; on the contrary, we propose, if any, to increase our standard as the years go on. We do not propose to make an incompetent student, and if a student's qualifications are doubtful, we propose to give our college the benefit of the doubt. I believe I can state the sentiments of my colleagues and of the trustees of this institution, when I say to you, that it is our intention to insist more and more on superior qualifications.

before we give any student a legal permit to practice our art. Our course of study is short enough; it simply means that we are studying two full courses, not four half terms—two full courses, and no less, and with that a solid knowledge of the elements of the important work which you are intended to devote all your energies and your life. I would also like to say that our college is a preliminary examination, an entrance examination sufficient to show that the pupil attending it are well grounded in scholarship—scholarship made from the wild flowers of the far famed Yosemite Valley. Manufactured by H. B. Slaven, San Francisco, Formale in Omaha by W. J. Whitehouse and Kennard Bros.

entering and cure diseases in the easiest, the speediest and surest way. After the exercises at the opera house the members of the graduating class were entertained by Dr. Ayres at the Club at the "Ayer's Gold Medal" was awarded to H. G. Linsinger. The distribution was as follows: On one side, "H. G. Linsinger" of class of '83 Omaha Medical College, on the other "For Best Anatomical Work."

"The Nebraska school of Medicine" was inaugurated in the fall of 1880, and in May 1881 was organized and incorporated under the laws of Nebraska as "The Omaha Medical College."

The new college building on ground owned by the college association, has been completed, and provides ample room and facilities for a large class of students. It is pleasantly located on the southwest corner of Mason and Eleventh streets adjoining St. Joseph hospital. It is two stories high and contains two large lecture rooms, laboratory, library and museum room, patients' room, dissecting and anatomical room, etc., and is fitted up with every convenience that pertains to a well equipped medical college.

St. Joseph hospital, under the management of the sisters of St. Francis, has been kindly tendered the faculty for clinical instruction. The new pavilion of the hospital now completed is a model in all respects, and is equipped with every modern appliance for clinical teaching. The visiting staff of physicians and surgeons and all members of the faculty, and the hospital is under the immediate medical control. The students are thus privileged to reap a large experience from clinical instruction in all classes of medical and surgical cases.

All candidates for admission to the Omaha Medical College must present to the faculty, satisfactory evidence of a good moral character, and must be at least eighteen years of age, and possessed of a credible English education. Women are admitted on the same conditions as are required of men.

The graduating class last year numbered eight students, and the list of matriculants given in the prospectus of the present year showed the following representation by states: Nebraska 27, Iowa 2, Ohio 1, Missouri 1, Colorado 1, Maryland 1, Dakota 1, Wyoming 1, Total, 35.

The Alumni Association is organized as follows: President, Werner Hemsted, M. D., Omaha, Neb.; Vice-President, Urban H. Norris, M. D., Greenwood, Neb.; Recording Secretary, James E. Hadley, M. D., Ball Creek, Neb.; Corresponding Secretary, Fred D. Haldeman, M. D., Omaha, Neb.; Treasurer, Robert M. Smith, M. D., Seward, Neb.; Councilors, George V. Ellis, M. D., Guthrie, D.
