no longer from Dyspepsia, indigestion, want of Appetite, loss of Strength, lack of Energy, Malaria, Intermittent Fevers, &c. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS never fails to cure all these diseases.

Boston, November 26, 1871. BROWN CHEMICAL CO. Gentlemen--For years I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and could get no relief (having tried everything which was recommended) until, acting on the advice of a friend, who had been benefited by BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, I tried a bottle, with most surprising results. Previous to taking BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, everything I ate distressed me, and I suffered greatly from a burning sensation in the stomach, which was unbearable. Since taking BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, all my troubles are at an end. Can eat any time without any disagreeable results. I am, practically, another person. Mrs. W. J. FLYNN, 35 Maverick St., Boston.

CLOSED FORTY YEARS.

The Strange Secret of One Baltimore Mansion.

Faithful to a Faithful Wife-- Wanting to Make Her Happy for Eternity.

Singular Provisions of a Will

BALTIMORE, March 24.--On Carey street, this city, stands a peculiar dwelling which has been an object of abiding interest to all who are partly or fully acquainted with its peculiar history. For forty years its dark colored shutters have never been unbarred and its massive front door never once opened. Within its portals the furniture stands just exactly the same, excepting the ravages produced by the masterly hand of time and the corroding touch of decay, as it stood many years ago, when its spacious halls resounded with life and gaiety.

Its owner is a man aged, gray and grizzled. His eye possesses a peculiar sharp, penetrating look, and really appears as if it had not closed in serene slumber for a full decade of human events. He is reported to be enormously wealthy, but as far as is ascertained he never shows his bank books to any one, and he has not one single relative or friend on this side of the Great Unknown. He sleeps in the house, always entering and leaving it by the back gate, and takes his daily meals at a neighboring restaurant. For forty years no one but this gentleman has ever been inside this dwelling until last Friday, when a Mercury representative was allowed to accompany him through the dreary and mysterious passages. Although he has been very reticent, especially in regard to the history of his home and his present life, yet at this time he kindly gave, during the energetic journalistic interview which followed, the following facts. They show and why the old house has stood as it has for so long a time. Forty-five years ago Col. Raincock was a handsome man in the prime of life, happy in the possession of an ample fortune, and doubly blessed in the proud consciousness of being the husband of one of the most lovely and accomplished young ladies of Baltimore. He built what is now the old house on Carey street, and in that day it was a magnificent dwelling, and expensively and elegantly furnished it from cellar to garret. Nothing in the way of command or taste desire was good enough for the abode of what he then considered his priceless earthly treasure. For five years the young couple lived there in hapfulness, and then came the thunderbolt.

At the close of the five years referred to he one day, right in the midst of his connubial happiness, made a sudden discovery. He had the most indisputable and undoubted proofs of the INFIDELITY OF HIS BEAUTIFUL WIFE.

The outraged husband, upon the savage and bitter impulse of the moment, endeavored to kill the destroyer of his family altar. This man was present with his wife in his own house when the husband fully discovered his fearful wrong. In the excitement naturally incident to the occasion he called to kill him, but seriously wounded him. Shocked and horrified at the discovery and subsequent events, completely prostrated mentally by the newspaper publicity which followed, the young wife committed self-destruction in her own beautiful home by blowing her brains out with her husband's revolver. During the days of the happiness of this couple the wife was never pleased with her elegant home and his charming surroundings that she made her husband REGISTER A SOLEMN VOW BEFORE HEAVEN

"that, no matter what happened, no difference what sudden or totally unexpected event occurred, if he survived her, as long as he lived, he was to keep the house and furniture in exactly the same condition as it existed during the blissful days of their honeymoon. In the event of him dying before her, she agreed to do as she requested him until her death. "Although she was guilty beyond all doubt, and although that fact was at the time, on account of my assault on the villain who ruined us both, blazed before the world in every newspaper, yet I have lived up to that one promise of mine in every particular," the old gentleman said. "You can see by this house and furniture, and by what people say about it and me, that

I HAVE SOLEMNLY KEPT MY WORD."

Not one single article has been touched in that house for forty years, except the furniture in a small room in the third story where the old gentleman sleeps, and which was not used for any purpose whatsoever during the lifetime of his wife. Since the hour when her corpse, beautiful even in the embraces of a shameful and guilty death, was forever carried from that residence nothing small or large has been changed within that dwelling, except as just noted. The one expensive and artistically carved piano stands open, with the now mildewed and decayed green cloth carelessly hanging over it, just as she left it years ago, when its present yellow keys were white and glistening and merrily responded to the graceful touch of her small white hand; the music and worms of decay reveal in undisturbed harmony among the folds of the once elegant curtains and through the once expensive Axminster carpet; the massive walnut furniture stands motionless, gradually falling to pieces in the utter silence of unlimited decay. In the "sitting room"--the sitting room--of this mansion of desolation every small article of every day use remains exactly as she left them, or as she placed them during her last mortal visit to the spot where she SPENT THE HAPPIEST HOURS of her earthly life. It would make even a young, giddy girl of this world, who never yet having experienced any trouble, fondly and gaily imagines life to be one everlasting bed of ever-blooming roses, without one single thorn or briar, just heart-sick to go through that silent abode of death and decay.

Before this interview terminated the old gentleman kindly read an extract from his will, in which he had so arranged certain monetary affairs, with sure, business-like precision, that with all its deceiving and mouldy furniture, will stand just exactly as it has stood for the past forty years for a long time to come. Until, in fact, all within its walls will, like the bodies of the once happy man and woman whose bright presence enlivened it in the almost forgotten past, shall have crumbled into the dusty oblivion of utter nothingness. "You see," the old gentleman sadly said, as his visitor with a heavy heart and sympathizing mind bade him good-by at the back gate. "I am doing much more than living up to my promise. I have the wealth to do it, and I want to do it. She may be able, we here cannot tell, but we shall know some day, she may be able now to know all this, to see what is in my heart of hearts, and I know it would make her happy. And," he slowly added with tears in his eyes, "with all her deception and sin, and with full knowledge of the awful fact, I still worship her as much as I ever did, and want to make her happy for time and eternity."

WASHINGTON, D. C.,

GENTLEMEN--Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STUART.

Chicago and New York.

The cities above named are the great commercial centers of the United States, the former containing in the vicinity of 650,000 inhabitants, and the latter about 1,600,000. The number of people actually in Chicago at any one time would doubtless range far above these figures, as its floating or transient population is enormous, running up into figures that can hardly be credited. The traffic passing between these two cities daily is very large when one considers that they are within a fraction of 1,000 miles apart. Boston also has a large traffic with Chicago, and to give an idea of the accommodations necessary to provide for the passenger business alone between the three cities, we may state that the Michigan Central railroad, which is the principal business line, has express trains daily, which express trains daily--three on Sundays made up of fine new day coaches, smoking cars, drawing room cars, palatial sleeping cars, and last and best the famous dining cars. These dining cars have done more toward making the journey from Chicago to New York and Boston comfortable and enjoyable than any other modern invention, as they do away with the old custom of sitting out at wayside stations and devouring poorly cooked victuals, with the momentary expectation of seeing your train pull out and leave you as an accompaniment. In the Michigan Central cars you have plenty of time to enjoy your meals, and those who have already dined in the cars hold that it is one of the pleasantest experiences in the world to calmly relax a good meal as you fly over the smooth steel rails, with the whole outside world in a panoramic motion before you. Other great features of the Michigan Central Railroad are that its through trains for New York and Boston run out of Chicago along the Michigan Lake front within a stone's throw of the city's costliest mansions, through South Park and the magic city of Pullman, affording an extensive survey of this marvel of a marvelous age, and later passing in full view of Niagara Falls. It is for this latter reason known to all travelers as "The Niagara Falls Route."

NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

(From the Boston Globe.)

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truly called the "Dear Friend of Woman," some of her correspondents love to call her. She is passionately devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady physicians daily upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and on account of its proven merits. It is recommended by the best physicians in the country. It cures all ovarian troubles, inflammation and soreness, flooding, all displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the change of life. It purifies every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes fatness, restores all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures bloating, headaches, nervous prostration, general debility, sleeplessness, depression and indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system. It costs only $1.00 per bottle or six for $5.00, and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, to her home in Lynn, Mass.
