IMPORTANT INFORMATION, which has since been corroborated in all points where that was possible.

Last night the Apache scouts held a war dance, and to eyes unused to such scenes the effect was startling.

They are coyotes! Their home is in the rocks! They are like the wind!

Then came the six companies of cavalry, mounted on fine horses. Last of all came the wagon train of twenty-one six-mule teams...

There he will be met by Capt. Eumet Crawford, with 125 Apache scouts, and after posting his regulars along the line and establishing a base of supplies...

"It is safe to trust yourself with these Indians," I asked. "Safe," was the reply. "Certainly, I would go anywhere with these fellows."

THE RANGERS HAVE PERSISTENTLY declared their intention of wiping out San Carlos and its 6,000 peaceful Apaches, in retaliation for the Chirachuas' raid.
