Six Persons Drowned in Attempting to Reach the Landing.

Full Details of the Disaster.

Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

HARTFORD, May 18.—The steamer Granite State was destroyed this morning while approaching the dock at Goodspeed landing, forty-one miles below the city. The flames spread so rapidly that nothing was saved. Five lives are known to be lost; four by burning and one by drowning. The drowned person was Mrs. Dr. Ch. Malne, of New Haven, who, with her husband, jumped into the river. Her husband reached the dock. An effort was made to reach the boat, but the fire spread with such rapidity that it was found impracticable. Her stem was swung in, however, and most of the crew and passengers jumped from the burning steamer to the wharf, while some jumped into the river and swam ashore. It is not known how the fire originated. The bodies of persons who were burned cannot be identified. One body already identified is that of the second cook, named Jackson. Two bodies are supposed to be emigrant passengers. Nine horses were also burned. The cargo was mostly freight billed to this city, which is a total loss. The steamer's hull floated down the river about half a mile below the landing. Nothing is visible above water but her galley frame and walking beam. The steamer was valued at $50,000.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS.

HARTFORD, Ct., May 18.—The body of Mrs. C. L. Malne, of New Haven, was secured. She was on her bridal trip, and sprang overboard with her husband. They sank three times, when Malne became entangled in the paddle wheel and was saved. It is now thought Mrs. Malne, (a second cook, named Jackson, (a colored man) are the only persons drowned. Two deck passengers are unaccounted for, however.

The insurance, $400,000, is distributed among a number of companies. The cargo was valued at $30,000 to $50,000, belonging mostly to Hartford merchants. It was shipped at senders or consignees risk.

Holloway, clerk of the boat, says when the whistle for landing at Goodspeed was blown, he proposed to send the shipping papers ashore that belonged there. No passengers were to be landed and but little freight. No fire was discovered until the boat was within a few feet of the dock. Holloway hastened to awake the passengers. Meantime the agent on shore had the head and midship lines fastened, but the boat was not till this time did those on shore discover the smoke, but in a very short time the flames burst out. Soon after, when most of the passengers had gathered on deck, the boat began to swing away from the dock, and power to handle her from the pilot house and engine room was lost, for the fire had driven the engineer from his post, where he remained till the boiler wires no longer worked, and the vessel was at the mercy of the tide. The hawser was seized by twenty men, who put their whole strength to the task of pulling the boat to the dock and after a steady pull, which at first seemed of no avail, the boat began to move inward and plank was put on the pilot house and engine room in reasonably good order. There was of course much fear and excitement during the struggle to reach the dock, but no loud demonstrations. There were occasional exceptions among the few emigrants who became very much excited. In pulling the hawser to reach dock the forward hawser broke, having been weakened by the flame. There were some passengers who had become seasick and did not understand Capt. Holloway's directions and remained in the forward end. There were some cases dropped into the water. Others took hold of the hawser before it gave way and went hand over hand ashore. Two small boats were brought up, and they were devoted to persons struggling in the water. This ally boat was towed up and upon this all in the water were taken. No one of this escaping crowd is known to have been lost.

Nine homes were burned belonging to M. Kingsley of Deep River. Another horse got overboard and swam ashore. Mr. and Mrs. George Pratt, of Middletown, and their two sons, were returning from Brooklyn, where they had attended the wedding of their daughter, a deaf mute, married to a deaf mute. The bride asked her parents to take the wedding present to her former home for safe keeping. All were lost. Mrs. G. S. Hunt and daughter, of New York, were rescued with difficulty. Miss Hunt was taken into two different boats, both capsizing.

Clifford D. Main, husband of the bride lost, says: "The first I knew the boat was on fire was by seeing smoke coming out of my stateroom. I had been aroused by cries outside but did not know what the commotion meant. We got up hurriedly and only partially dressed and went into the hall, which was fast filling with smoke and passed through to the forward deck. There we stood for a moment to decide what was best to do. I could not swim, but I saw the hawser fastened to the dock and thought I could get hold of that and get both of us ashore. There were other people in the water at the time. I grasped my wife firmly around the waist and told her to be of good courage and we would be saved. Then I lowered myself to the guard and we stood up together for the plunge, and went into the water. We sank right away, but soon came to the surface, and I was about to catch hold of the hawser, when it broke, and it seemed as if there was no hope for us. Down again we went, clinging fast; to each other, and the second time rose to the surface. I was struggling and fast losing strength, and could see no means of escape. The third time we went down I scarcely knew what happened. My wife had separated from me and I found myself clutching a wheel, and there remained drifting with the steamer until a boat came and picked me up.

T. Graham, engineer, who passed the winter in Cuba, and whose family lives here, is supposed to be drowned.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

LONDON, May 18.—It is stated that an informant who was brought from America because of the knowledge he possesses regarding persons implicated in the dynamite conspiracy, has been in Scotland Yard in the last few days. Michael Davitt, in a paper forwarded by subscription to the fund being raised for Parnell, says: "The paper circulated to the clergy is prejudiced and unjust and must evoke strong and painful resentment on the part of the people." Healy, member of parliament from Westford, in sending a subscription to the fund, said that Ireland will not take religion from England, and gratitude for the same.

PARIS, May 18.—In the chamber of deputies Waldeck, minister of the interior, replying to a question regarding the circular sent prefects relative to the panic among depositors of savings banks, said the circular simply intended to reassure persons interested in savings banks. Toward, minister of finance, explained the state would actually profit by the diminution of deposits in banks, for it could obtain money at 2 per cent interest, while it paid depositors 4 per cent. Those who desired to withdraw money could obtain it without difficulty.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 19.—An officer of the Russian regiment, who was recently arrested on suspicion of being engaged in the revolutionary movement, was subject to a severe examination, during which he mentioned the names of several officers and guards who he declared belonged to the revolutionary club. He stated, however, that the club pursued special objects and had no connection with the terrorists. The czar on learning of this confession decided to postpone the date of his coronation, but was dissuaded from so doing. A number of officers and guards have been arrested in non-sequace of the prisoner's disclosures.

LONDON, May 18.—A dispatch to THE CENTRAL NEWS from St. Petersburg says: "The police in that city have been informed of the existence of a plot to frighten the horse of the czar at some favorable opportunity during the procession at Moscow on coronation day, and in the confusion which would no doubt follow to kill the emperor."

A Destructive Blow at Racine, Wis.—Four Persons Known To Be Killed.

The Visit to Valparaiso, Nebraska—Chicago shaken Up.

Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

CHICAGO, May 18.—It was learned here a cyclone passed north of Racine, Wis., about half past 8 o'clock this evening, and that a number of buildings were destroyed. No particulars obtained, as the telegraph wires were down at that hour and all communication northward, and between this city and Milwaukee and St. Paul is cut off. At this hour, 10 o'clock, an unusually severe wind and rain storm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, is prevailing here, signs being whistled (H) and a general clatter prevailing along the streets. Boys are entertained that a small frail wooden building in the outskirts will be blown down and shipping outside be driven across to the east shore of Lake Michigan. A squall struck the city this afternoon. About 400 feet in length and 50 feet in width of the building for covering the exposition of railway appliances was blown down. Four workmen were injured; one had his leg broken and one was scalped. But for the fact that the police had just driven away a large number of loungers about the place the casualties would have been numerous. The damage will be repaired in a couple of days.

RACINE, Wis., May 18.—A cyclone struck this city at 7:15, coming from the southwest, touching lightly in the northwestern portion of town, but doing fearful havoc in the extreme northeast, where some 35 to 40 houses are swept clean. The loss of life is variously estimated. Four are known to be killed, but it was a sorrow and a number missing. The track of the cyclone as far as visible to the southwest shows everything to be levelled to the ground. Darkness and confusion prevent anything like a reliable report to-night.

RACINE, Wis., May 18.—The first cyclone in the history of this section struck Racine at 7 o'clock to-night, passing through the extreme north-western portion of the city, demolishing 100 houses and barns, and causing the loss of about twenty persons besides 100 more or less seriously injured.

The day was ushered in bright and cool, with a fresh wind blowing from the southeast. Towards noon the sky was overcast, and about 4 o'clock a sharp electric storm prevailed, although but little rain fell. The sun again came out for about an hour. During the afternoon the temperature was about 70 degrees and about 6 o'clock, when heavy masses of clouds again gathered in the west portended a storm. The air was oppressively warm, the cyclone was announced by breaking of the clouds, which took one whirling motion and struck the earth with a noise which might be compared with the roar and rumbling of a thousand railroad tracks thundering over a bridge. The path of the storm is little over a half mile long and perhaps a quarter of a mile wide. In this territory there are no trees and no buildings left standing. All brick and frame alike, collapsed, and their sites are marked only by heaps of formless debris. Many occupants of houses escaped by seeking the cellars and other places of comparative safety, but the cyclone came with such lightning rapidity that many were killed before reaching the cellar. In only a few cases were houses moved from their foundations. Those in the center of the storm simply exploded, and fell where they were. Where they had stood. Some nearest the circumference were turned around and it is reported some light articles, such as wagons, were swept into the lake. The cyclone, as it moved from the city out upon the waters of Lake Michigan, presented a grand spectacle, such as is seen but once in a lifetime. The whirling columns of air seemed monster wreaths of smoke, as they whirled over the watery expanse, bearing with them spiral columns of water.

No ship that encountered this monster of air could by any possibility escape destruction. All physicians of the city responded nobly to the call for assistance, and did what they could to alleviate the sufferings of the wounded, who were at once conveyed to St. Luke's and St. Mary's hospitals, where they will receive the best of care. The dead were taken, some to the houses of mourning and some to the court house. An inquest will be held to-morrow by Coroner Komar.

The list of casualties, so far as follows: Fatally injured—Mr. Kurtz, Herman Kuhl, Mrs. McCarty, August Kiener and wife, Simon Gelse, son and daughter of Fred Falk. Killed—Paul Kuhl, Albert Kuhl, the daughter of Barney White and the infant son of August Kiener. Injured—Matt Levy, two children of Mrs. Barry, Mrs. Mary Miller. Dangerously wounded—Mrs. Flanagan and three children.

Chicago, May 18.—The Daily News has advised from the Harvard, Ill., cyclone, probably the same which swept things at Racine. It struck that place this evening, demolishing a number of houses and killing several people. Up to this hour (12:30 a. m.) 19-ho casualties are reported from the storm.

Chicago, May 15, 1:15 a. m.—A train over the Galena division of the Northwestern arrived to-night, bringing many particulars of the cyclone near Harvard, Ill. Shortly before six o'clock a dark cloud was seen hanging over Chemung, a small village near Harvard. The roaring was heard and suddenly a funnel shaped cyclone formed and swooped down upon the place with fearful rapidity. Houses were torn to pieces like card boards and whirled through the air. Large buildings were levelled in an instant. No definite details are given, but it is understood a number of persons were killed and at least twenty wounded. Passing to MILWAUKEE, May 18.—The morning session of the international convention of the Young Men's Christian association was devoted to business. Action was taken on the report of the committee to whom was referred the annual report of the international committee. They recommended a number of resolutions, and all were finally adopted, but a heated discussion was awakened by a resolution which had reference to the acceptance of a charter from the state of New York and the make-up of the international committee. The delegates from Indiana and Missouri objected to having an international body located in New York state, claiming that the center of population was further west, and that more western men ought to be on the international committee. A prolonged struggle followed, which was interrupted finally by President Colby, who suggested that they should join in prayer and ask aid in solving the difficulty. After half an hour devotional exercises the discussion was again taken up and became more heated than ever, but soon after the resolution was carried and the western delegates beaten. New York remained the head center of the body, and the international committee is unchanged.

The Presbyterians. Special Dispatch to THE BEE. SARATOGA, May 18.—The moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly announced the standing committee this morning. The usual reports were then submitted. Dr. Herrick Johnson, chairman of the committee on education, read the annual report, which declared the field for active work is vast. Ohio, America has too many colleges poorly endowed. The report recommended a system of college supervision and the creation of a new district board with headquarters at Chicago. The report was made special order for Saturday. Overtures from the Presbytery of Macon was referred to the committee on church policy.

At the afternoon session the order of the day was the reception of the delegates of the southern general assembly, and Dr. L. J. Evans, chairman of the committee, appeared on the platform with Rev. Dr. Wm. Brown, of Fredericksburg; Thos. A. Hoyt, of Nashville; and Patrick Joyce, of Louisville. They were presented to the moderator, welcomed by him and introduced to the general assembly. The message of peace and fraternal good will was read by Dr. Brown. The address was repeatedly applauded. It breathed sentiments of reconciliation and a desire for Christian fellowship, and it can be done only by acknowledgment of error in the beginning of the disruption. His colleague Dr. Hoyt, spoke briefly and eloquently, conveying the opinion of that element of the southern church that desires reconciliation and reunion of the two branches of the Presbyterian church. James D. Hoyt, secretary of the committee, J. D. Esham, of Louisville, was nominated as the first ballot. The convention arose now balloting for register of the land office.
