A BRAVE WOMAN'S LEAF

Almost Suffering From Exhaustion After Rescuing a Companion From the River. Special Dispatch to Philadelphia Press. New York, May 27.—Catherine Beam, a young married woman who lives with her husband at the foot of East Fifteenth street, was returning home at 9 o'clock last night, in company with Kate Hayburn, a young girl. It was dark, and when stepping on the boat Mrs. Beam missed her footing and fell into the river. This side was settling swiftly up the river, which was dark and turbulent, but although a moment's hesitation kept her from jumping in, she was not deterred. She groped about in the water until she caught the drowning woman, who was struggling hard to keep from sinking. Getting a firm hold of her as she could, she managed to keep herself above water and clear of her friend's grasp at the same time. Thus the two women were carried by the tide two blocks up the river, past the foot of Fifty-second street, where Patrick Murray, a boat house keeper, whom the shouts of the girl had attracted, put out in a boat and rescued them. Mrs. Beam was then exhausted, and before the ambulance that was summoned arrived she died. Miss Hayburn was taken to her home and cared for. She was exhausted, but otherwise unharmed.

LADY BEAUTIFIERS.—Ladies, you cannot make fair skin, rosy cheeks, and sparkling eyes with all the cosmetics of France or beautifiers of the world, while in poor health and nothing will give you such rich blood, good health, strength and beauty as Hop Bitters. A trial is certain proof.

Girls Wanted. The following is from the Darango Herald: "We want girls! Girls who can get themselves up in good shape to go to a dance. The boys are getting tired of receiving invitations with a request that they 'bring ladies.' They are like oranges and apples—very scarce. We want girls who will go to church, and Bible class on Sundays, and that kind who will draw a congregation of the other sex, and who will take a buggy ride after the lesson is over. This will help the livery business, and will also hasten the sale of residence lots for buggies and buggies in which homes are first thought of by many people. We want girls who can walk on the table, and who can smile into an appetite when stomach bitters are impotent, and who will make the boarders regular to their meals. We want girls as sweethearts, so that when we get an arm shot off, or are choked by a male, or are thrown off by a bucking horse, and are laid away for repairs, we hear a gentle voice and see the glimmer of crystal tears, spoken and dropped in unobtrusive sympathy for our pain. We want fat and funny girls to make us smile all over, and lean and fragile ones to hang upon our arms, and petite blondes, who show themselves on sunny days, and stately brunettes, as beautiful in the twilight. We have inferior enough and plenty of girls in this town, but we are looking for girls outside of town. The only lack of our resources is those potent civilizers of their pioneer brothers."

A petition has been presented to the city council asking for the appointment of George Elgar as city detective. The petition is signed by a number of the most prominent business men in the city, and is a commendation of Elgar in the past. There seems to be no doubt but that Elgar would make a first class man for such a position, but there is a doubt felt among some of the officials as to the need of a city detective at all. Many cities have a detective department of the police force, and it seems as if there was enough business here to keep one man busy in that line and release the regular force of that much extra duty.

CONVALESCING. When Mr. Boliver Bascom came into Kansas City from a trip down in the Arkansas bottoms he looked like death just after the pale horse had got away with him. "Where have you been?" inquired an acquaintance. "I've been in the Arkansas bottoms," replied Boliver, lugubriously. "You do look badly, for a fact," said the acquaintance. "You are convalescing, ain't you?" "Not much," replied Boliver; "I'm done convalescing. It's too blamed expensive, this convalescing business, especially where I've been—down in Arkansas. I'm getting better slowly every day, thank you, but don't let me on to any of our home doctors that I am slowly convalescing. If you do, I'll kill you. You see, I had the malarial fever; was taken down sick in a small, yellow dog town that only had one physician to its back, and I was sick, sicker, a horse, and for a plain week I didn't know whether I was in Arkansas, Oregon, or extreme Texas. About the first thing I remember, I woke up and saw the doctor's member. He had his watch on his hand on my pulse; and I hadn't much more than taken in the situation when he told me to run out my tongue, and he looked at it until my jaws ached, holding them open so long, and then he leaned back and closed his eyes and murmured: "Thank heaven! He's better. He is now slowly convalescing. Bring up a bottle of brandy!" He poured out a pretty good snifter, and told me to take about four such drinks every day, while I was convalescing; and so a bottle didn't last more than two days, and each of them cost $2.50. Well, I lay there slowly convalescing and getting drunk every day for three weeks, and the doctor making two regular daily trips at $3 a trip, and one day when I had a loud interval I spoke to him about my condition, and asked him if I was pretty near well enough to dig out and go home. "Well," said the doctor, "after while. You are slowly convalescing, and if you keep up the brandy—well, increase, say to six drinks—and I'll have you out in three or four weeks."

Then the doctor collected his $3 fee and went away, while I relapsed into a mild case of jaundice, and took up fifteen yards of the carpet and tore all the glass out of a book case, trying to let in some fresh air and ventilate the sick room. When the doctor came the next morning, I asked him if I was any better. He examined my pulse, tried to tempt me to eat, and said I still had some fever, but on the whole, I was convalescing all right. "Is there any danger of it striking you?" I inquired. "What do you mean?" said the doctor. "Why, the fact is, I said, 'if this convalescing becomes chronic, I'm busted!'" "What?" exclaimed the doctor. "Why, you see, I'm dead broke!" "Maybe I'd better diagnose you some again," said I. "Then he went to work and felt my pulse, took my temperature, looked at my tongue, and finally said: "Please turn your pockets inside out." "I did so, and then the doctor took his hat and cane off the counter-top and said: "I don't see but you are right enough. You have had a mighty narrow escape from a relapse, young man, but I guess you had better be making arrangements to leave this locality. I don't think the climate agrees with you. When you get back to your friends, you can remit the $3 you owe me."

"Then he lit out and I didn't see him again for a week. I rolled up the mat and looked out $75 I had left, and started for home the next day; but don't you let on to the folks in this neighborhood that I'm convalescing to save my neck, because, if you do, some medical sharp will want me to pay for it."

The Testimony of a Physician. James Reber, M. D., of Sigourney, Iowa, says for several years I have been using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and in almost every case throughout my practice I have had entire success. I have used and prescribed hundreds of bottles ever since the days of my army practice (1863), when I was surgeon of Hospital No. 7, Louisville, Ky.

Henry's Carbolic Salva. It is the best salve for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, tetter, chapped skin, and all kinds of skin eruptions, freckles and pimples.

The Difference. It took the ladies of the Michigan Women's Christian Temperance Union a little while to get acquainted, but when the acquaintance was once formed it ripened fast.

"How do you give your name?" asked one lady of another, as she removed their wraps at the door one morning.

"I have usually written it Mrs. J. P. Jones."

"Did your mother name you 'James P.?' inquired the first speaker, with considerable emphasis. "I will never call myself by my husband's name."

"Nor I," "Nor I," came from a number of bystanders.

The little woman appeared surprised to find herself so largely in the minority, but she finally found breath and courage to say:

"Well, I suppose it does make a difference what kind of man the husband is."

And then the president rang to order, the knot of ladies dispersed, and there was a sort of a look upon their faces as if the little woman had come out ahead.

THE BAD AND WORTHLESS. Are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value, in so far as it has been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead of Hop Bitters, and to take money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in away to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, are especially liable to be called "Hop" or "Hops" in their name, or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Using nothing but genuine Hop Bitters with a bunch or cluster of green Hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits.

A Young Editor's Good Fortune. Letter to Philadelphia Press.

About three years ago a young boy left Philadelphia to seek his fortune in the west. He went to Colorado, and, having had some experience in newspaper work, supported himself for a while by writing letters to the Chicago papers. To use the native phrase of this country, he finally "got stuck on mines."

He had been in the west about a year, when he fell in with an old fellow, who was an expert mining engineer. The two became fast friends. The newspaper writer knew little about mines and less about prospecting. Then he was rather a frail young man, fit for such a hard life. He drifted into New Mexico, and was employed on the Las Vegas Estate. Afterwards getting control of it, he worked very hard and divided his earnings with the old miner whom he had joined without question. He "grub-staked" him for all of his prospecting tours, and every now and then, when he would come into civilization, furnished him the extra money he required for a spree and new clothes. For two long years, in season and out of season, this young boy stood by and helped the miner from out of his scanty earnings.

"I met this old prospector," said he, "who is a thoroughly educated man and a member of the Royal College of Mining Engineers. I had faith in his honesty and ability, and for more than two years our mining interests have been inseparable. I have divided all I could earn with the old man ever since we men, and, although it has been a long time coming, have never lost faith in his striking it fat yet. I suppose I have given him $1,700 to $2,000 in all, and would have continued to help him along as he wanted it. It was mighty hard grubbing for both of us sometimes, but we struck to one another and thought everything had been smashed. A few weeks ago he struck it very rich, and like the honorable, honest man that he is, he at once transferred me one-half interest in all his claims, seven in number. "Was he bound to be so liberal?" "Not at all. Everything depended upon his sense of right. Legally, he was not bound to give me anything; but he was more than justified by my opinion of him as a man of honor and ability." "How rich are your claims?" "The most valuable yet found about Silver City, the richest mining region of New Mexico. Last week I gathered up 465 pounds of the debris from the diggings, took it to Denver, and had it smelted. They gave me a check for $1,600 for the proceeds. This would make the ore yield $6,400 per ton. I think this is only a fair estimate of the value of the mine." "Will you hold and work them?" "I have not yet determined what I will do. I have just refuted $750,000 for my interest in the property. But it is worth and I can get a much larger sum for it. I may sell, for I am in love with my profession, and if I made a half dozen millions I would still want to be connected with a newspaper."

COUNCIL BLUFFS

Additional Local News. The Promenade Concert. As had been predicted by all the promenade concert was a grand success. The principal features were the singing by the Concordia, and the playing by the Harmony Band (Boys' Band). The latter won great applause, especially the solo rendered by Prof. Gus Corvath. Among the tables the first was one containing fancy work and conducted by the members of the home society which merits special attention. The members in charge were Little Armour, president; Annie Patterson, vice president; Minnie Morkel, Stella Patterson and Carrie Henn, and each worked hard disposing of their goods which they succeeded in doing before the close of the entertainment. The other tables were in charge of Mr. Atkins, Pfeiffer and Keating. After the concert dancing was indulged in by all who desired, making one of the most enjoyable as well as successful affairs that has been given for a long time. The net proceeds of the concert were $125, divided as follows: At Mrs. Pfeiffer's stand, $29.65; Mrs. Keating's stand, $18.25; Mrs. Atkins' stand, $20.00; Home society's stand, $12.32; Rev. Father McMenomy's, $5.00; tickets sold and ribbons for dancing, $73.50, making a very nice purse for a good cause.

The attendance yesterday at the freemans' tournament, at Waterloo, was rather slim. Jennie Jewell, of Waterloo, in the steam trial, took the first prize for distance. The Independence steamer took the first prize in time; time, 4:05. The Rescue, of Council Bluffs, took second money, time 4:05. The special race was rather tame, time 4:74. Taking this as a criterion, the Bad Guys, of Council Bluffs, will easily win the belt to-day.

DROPS OF WATER. Mr. Joseph G. Bicknell, No. 642 Main street, Cambridgeport, Mass., writes April 27, 1883: "I have been terribly afflicted for years with gravel and kidney disease. My urine contained brick-dust deposits, and at times I could not pass my water except in drops and with great pain; and have had to get up as many as fifteen times during the night. I tried several physicians; they did me no good, but a friend of mine, who had used Hunt's Remedy told me to get a bottle and try it. He had been cured of a severe case similar to mine, and that others had used Hunt's Remedy in Cambridge and pronounced it a medicine of real merit. After being repeatedly urged I purchased a bottle, and before I had used all of it I passed a stone as large as a pea, followed by smaller ones. I have used in all ten bottles, and it is completely cured me. My kidneys are in excellent condition, and for one of (65) sixty-eight years, I can truly say I feel like a young man, with strength and vitality. My family use the Remedy, and would not be without it, and ever feel to recommend it to our friends and neighbors in Cambridge and Boston. You are at liberty to use my name in praise of the best kidney and liver medicine, Hunt's Remedy."

"DID WONDERS FOR ME." The above words are from Mr. Lewis Kain, No. 3 Hubbard Avenue, Malden, Mass., April 28, 1883. He says: "I have been troubled for years with kidney and liver complaint, followed by gravel, with severe pains in my back and groin. I had great trouble in passing water, it being so watery and accompanied by terrible burning, the vessel being coated with brick-dust deposits. I was recommended to use Hunt's Remedy by a friend who had been completely cured of a similar trouble. I purchased a bottle of the drug, and commenced to improve at once. I have used but two bottles, and it has done wonders for me—no more kidney trouble, no more pain. It has given me new life, and I would not be without Hunt's Remedy at any price. It is all that it is recommended to be, and I cheerfully give this testimony for the benefit of the many sufferers from kidney disease and gravel."

Building Purposes, PAVING BLOCKS. To both Chicago and Omaha, and solicits correspondence and orders from contractors engaged in paving streets in any of the Western Cities. TESTIMONIAL. SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE, Chicago, West Division Railway Chicago, December 5, 1882.—E. R. Stone, President of Jasper Stone Company, Dear Sir:—I have received from your company since October 1, 1882, about 100 car loads of granite paving blocks and have laid them on the streets of Chicago, and I take pleasure in saying that in my opinion the granite paving blocks furnished by your company are the most perfect in shape and perfect in form, and so far as I have been able to judge, are possessed of as durable a texture as any material that has ever been offered or laid in the city. Yours, JAS. R. LAKE. TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—This is to certify that I have examined a piece of granite taken from the Jasper Stone Company's Quarry, and in my opinion, it is the best stone for street paving I have seen in any city.
