

THIRTEENTH YEAR.

UNDAUNTED DEMOCRACY.

Considerable Howling for Hoadley at Columbus, Ohio.

The Undaunted Boldly Face the foe with a Platform of Placitudes—General Proceedings.

Special Dispatch to THE BEZ. COLUMBUS, O., June 21.—The democratic state convention convened at 10 a. m. with the largest crowd ever seen on a similar occasion in Columbus.

THE NOMINATION. COLUMBUS, O., June 21.—As the second ballot was concluded and before the result was announced, some changes began for Hoadley and the greatest excitement prevailed.

Judge Hoadley soon appeared and accepted the nomination in a ten minutes address, during which he reviewed his connections with the party, and although he had wandered at one time with the republicans to fight the battles of the colored race, the democracy was broad enough to receive him.

The convention proceeded to the nomination of lieutenant governor, and John G. Warwick, of Stark county, was nominated by the party.

The work of nomination was frequently interrupted and delayed and in the meantime Gen. Ward was brought in and made a speech, in which he severely rebuked the party for failing to recognize his thirty years services.

THE PLATFORM. The democracy of Ohio, in convention assembled, hereby reaffirms the principles of the party, as expressed in the platform of the state and national platforms.

The abuses of the present contract system in our state penitentiary, by which the products of convict labor are brought in competition with the honest labor, is a great detriment to the latter, are injurious and unwise and ought to be corrected.

The protection of the government is due to all American citizens, native and foreign born, abroad as well as at home.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The Washington Sentinel, the organ of the brewers, is this week more pronounced against Mr. Tilden than it usually is against prohibition. In its issue of to-morrow will have this to say of Mr. Tilden's apostrophe to Mr. Tilden's renewed youth: "You can not galvanize old Tilden into life again. He died in 1876, and no trumpet blow of the angel Gabriel, nor of Irami Waterbury, can revive the above mortal life. He is dead and gone. But it is about time that this Tilden fable should stop."

It is true that it cannot be helped, that from time to time those who flee the "old man" of his shelves by "tickling" him, and "tickling" him, and "tickling" him, will direct attention to him as a probable candidate for the presidency. But our leading democrats ought not to allow that deception to continue. It is too humiliating for the great democratic party, and too cruel for the old man himself. It has to cease, for revolutionary only, and then to be replaced by a presidential name. There ought to be more earnestness in the higher circles of democracy. Our senators and members of congress ought to exert themselves a great deal more to effect some organization, and try to find the best and most available candidates.

During the progress of the convention speeches were made by a number of delegates, urging active cooperation toward the emancipation of this state from the domination of monopolies. The convention was in every way harmonious.
