WAITING FOR MOTHER

BY MARY D. BRIND. The out man sits in his easy chair, Simplering the moments away.

Dreaming a dream that is all his own.

On this gladsome, peaceful day. His children have gathered from far and as His children's children beside— The "Homestead's" hall so wide.

But far away in the years long flown Grandfather lives again; And his heart forgets that it ever knew A shadow of grief and pain, For he sees his wifeas he saw her then-

A matron comely and tair, With her children gathered around his board,

Oh! happy this dream of the 'Auid Lang Syne Of the years long slipped away! And the old man's lips have gathered a smile, And his heart grows young and gay. But a kies falls gently upon his brow, From his daughter's lips so true;

"Dinner is ready; and, Father, dea We are only waiting for you." The old man wakes at his daughter's call, And he looks at the table near There's one of us missing, my child," he say: "We will wait till mother is here."

There are tears in the eyes of his children, ther As they gaze on an empty chair; For many a lonely year has passed Since "Mother" sat with them there. But the old man pleads still wistfully;

"We must wait for mother, you know!" And they let him rest in his old arm chair Till the sun at last sinks low.

Then, leaving a smile for the children here, He turns from the earth away, And had gone to "Mother," beyond the skies, . With the close of the quiet day.

Money One Hundred Years Ago.

One hundred years ago the students at Harvard College paid their tuition with live stock and provisions. The currency of the Pilgrims was the first issue of paper money in this country. During the war of Queen Annea paper currency was established, known as "Queen Anne's war currency," which became worthless. In 1775 Virginia issued a paper currency—previous to which the clergy were paid in tobacco. In 1715, John Doleman established a hank in Massachusetts, with land for capital, and began the issue of loans. Other colonies followed, and the amount of loans by the colonies finally reached millions—which the mother country paid off at reduced rates, to save the credit of the colonies. In 1772 Congress issued paper money duced rates, to save the credit of the colo-nies. In 1772 Congress issued paper money to the amount of three hundred thousand dollars, to be redeemed in coln in three years. The colonies, or States, also issued paper money, and soon the whole volume of State and National currency amounted to twelve million dollars. This currency was taken without much question at first, and those who refused it were stigmatized as unpatriotic, but in the following year it began to decline, and in 1780 it was worth as unpatriotic, but in the following year it began to decline, and in 1780 it was worth almost nothing. A barber shop in New York was plastered all over with Continental money; and dogs were tarred, stuck over with shinplasters, and let run the streets for a public amusement. To Robert Morris is due the salvation of the Revolutionary army. He lent his private fortune and credit to the Government; and when his money was gone Washington said he must raise more money to carry out a war measure the perfection of which only waited for the money. Morris, therefore, issued his own notes for $1,400,000. Washington gained the battle of Yorktown, and Cornwallis surrendered. Every one of these Morris notes were subsequently redeemed. Morris notes were subsequently redeemed. In 1782 the bank of North America was established with a capital of $4,000. This was the first bank of the National Government. The date of the first silver coinage was 1794, and of the first gold coinage 1794.

A Frontier Incident

A minister settled in one of our Western his study one day, endeavoring to arrange the heads of to-morrow's discourse, when his attention was called by a loud knock at the front door. The visitor proved to be a tall, gawky, shambling countryman, evidently arrayed in his Sunday suit, and a stout girl, attired in a dress of red calico, which, from the frequent and complacent glances toward it by the fair owner, was considered quite a magnificer, affair.

'Won't you walk in?' asked the minister

I would not be the owner of a groggery for the price of this globe converted into pre-cious ore. For the pitiful sum of a dime he furnished that poison which made the leceased a fool, and this trembling culprit 2 demon. How paltry the price of two ademon. How paltry the price of two human lives! This traffic is tolerated by law, and therefore the vendor has commitlaw, and therefore the vendor has commit-ted an offence not cognizable by earthly tribunals. But in the sight of God, he who deliberately furnishes the draught which inflame; men to anger and bloodshed is particeps criminis in the turpitude of the deed. Is it not high time that the sinks of vice and crime should be rigidly account-able to the law of the land, and placed under the har of an enlightened and vice under the bar of an enlightened and vir-tuous public opinion?

Rhymes of Animals.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gesette writes: "I strung the following rhymes to tickle the ears of my little boys, four and six years old. They cause their mamma to read it over and over again, and then fetch the big illustrated dictionary to have her point out the funny animals with such strange names, and tell what she can about them. This fancy for rhyme and rythm is I suppose, a characteristic of nearly all children, and perhaps the publication of this will amuse a wider circle than my little household. The aim has been, after euphony, to have the most incongruous animals in juxtaposition:

Alligator, Beetle, Porcupine Whale, Bobolink, Panther, Dragon-fly, Snail Crocodile, Monkey, Buffale, Hare, Dromedary, Leopard, Mud-turtle, Bear, Elephant, Badger, Pelican, Ox, Flying-fish, Reindeer, Anaconda, Fox, Guinea-pig, Dolphin, Antelope, Goose, Humming-bird, Weasel, Pickerel, Moose, Humming-bird, Weasel, Pickerel, Moose, Kingfisher, Peacock, Ant-cater, Bat, Lizard Ichneumon, Honey-bee, Rat, Mocking-bird, Camel, Grasshopper, Monse, Nightingale, Spider, Cuttlefish, Grouse, Ocelot, Pheasant, Wolverine, Auk, Periwinkle, Ermine, Katydid, Hawk, Quali, Hippopotamus, Armadillo, Moth, Rattlesnake, Lion, Woodpecker, Sloth, Quail, Hippopotamus, Armadillo, Moth, Rattlesnake, Lion, Woodpecker, Sloth, Salamander, Goldfinch, Angleworm, Dog, Salamander, Goldfinch, Angleworm, Dog, Tiger, Flamingo, Scorpion, Frog, Unicorn, Ostrich, Nautilus, Mole, Viper, Gorilla, Basilisk, Sole, Whippoorwill, Beaver, Centipede, Fawn, Xantho, Canary, Polliwog, Swan, Yellowhammer, Eagle, Hyena, Lark, Zebra, Chameleon, Butterfly, Shark.

Training Horses.

A horse cannot be screamed at and curs rillages, in which the primitive manners of pioneer life had not been smoothed by particular. To reach the highest degree refinement and cultivation, was seated in of value the animal should be perfectly ed without becoming less valuable in every gentle and always reliable, but if it expects every moment to be "jawed" at and struck, it will be in a constant state of neryousness, and in its excitement is as liable through fear to do something which is not expected as to go along doing what you started it to do. It is possible to train a horse to be governed by the word of mouth almost as completely as it is to train a child, and in such training the horse reaches its highest value. When a horse is soothed by the gentle words of his driver—and we have seen him calmed down from great excitement by no other means—it may be fairly concluded that he is a valuable animal for practical purposes, and it may be certainly concluded that the man who has such control over him is a humane man and a sensible one. But all this simply means that the man must secure the a mal's confidence. Only in exceptional instances is a horse stubborn or vicious. If he understands his surroundings and what is expected of him, he gives no trouble. 'Yes, I believe that's what they call it. As almost every reader must know, if the I say, though, mister, before we begin, let's animal when frightened can be brought up know what's going to be the damages, as I to the object he will become calm. The reason is that he understands there is noth-'Oh, I never set my price. I take what ing to fear. So he must be taught to have confidence in the man who handles him, 'Well, that's all. Go ahead, minister, if confidence in the man who handles him, and then this powerful animal, which usuwell, that's all. Go ahead, minister, if you please; we're in a hurry, as Joe's got to finish a plantin' the taterpatch afore night, and Betsy, she's got to fetch the butter.'

Thus adjured, the minister commenced the ceremony, which occupied but a few minutes.

Well, that's all. Go ahead, minister, if and then this powerful animal, which usually all the management of the very best rule, therefore, which we would lay down for the management of the horse is gentleness and good sense on the part of the driver. Bad drivers make bad horses. Stage Kisses.

Nym Crinkle's Feuilleton describes the Nym Crinkle's Femiliton describes the different types of stage kissing, from Abbott's spiritual kiss to Soldene's explosive burst. It says: "There was the platonic kiss of Kellogg, who used to fling them like icicles with her finger tips, and as Sher. Campbellonee said, "There were chilblains in them. There was the Presbyterian kiss of Ada Dyas, who used to plant it on Montague's left ear, or on the back t on Montague's left ear, or on the back it on Montague's left ear, or on the back of his neck, and always created an impresson in the gallery that she bit him; and the Lotta bubble, which always sounded like the pulling of a cork, and seemed to be a number of linked kisses effervescing; and the Corinthian kiss of Wainwright—a severe affair; somewhat motherly, and when dropped upon a stock actor always fright dropped upon a stock actor always fright-ened him a little bit, as if he had pulled a New Testament out of his pocket instead of a pack of cards; and the Carey kiss—ah The romantic Carey kiss, that never began anywhere and never ended—that ran dow, the back, and tingled in the arms and legs and made the hair stand on end, and was accompanied with laughter, whose echoes were undying; and the cavernous Solden kiss, that opened its ponderous and marble jaws with a report like the bursting of an india rubber baloon. Who shall formulate all these schools for us? Certainly not Abbott; for hers is the spiritual kiss, and we are not educated up to it."

Easily Proven.-It is easily proven that malarial fevers, constipation, torpid-ity of the liver and kidneys, general debility, nervousness, and neuralgic ailments yield readily to this great disease conquerer, Hop Bitters. It repairs the ravages of disease by converting the food into rich blood, and it gives new life and vigor to the aged and infirm always.

Meerschaum.

The word Meerschaum in the Germa, means sea-foam, and the material was so named because of its lightness and whitish appearance. It is a mineral of soft earthy texture, somewhat resembling chalk. It is of pipes for exportation. Pesth and Viers na are famous cities for the manufacture of meerscham pipes, and at Geneva quite a number of the elegant smokers are to be seen. The manufacture of the spurious article is extensive, Paris leading in the newer imitations. To produce the yellow and brown colors, so much admired in the real meerschaum pipe, and which come only after they are smoked some time, the blocks are long kept in a mixture of wax and fatty matter. These are in part absorbed, and, afterward, being acted on by heat from the tobacco, the meerschaum as-sumes various shades of colors. What are known as artifical meerschaums-made from the parings of the genuine material, reduced to fine powder, boiled in water, and molded into blocks—cannot easily be distinguished from the real, but they are generally heavier and more free from blem-

C. B. MERCER. M. D. Female Thumbs.

The female thumb is said to be an important index to the female character. Women with large thumbs are held by phrenologists, physiognomists, etc., to be more than ordinarily intelligent—what are called sensible women; while women with small thumbs are regarded as romantic. According to certain authors, who profess to have been observers, a woman's hand is more indicative of a woman's character than her face, as the latter is, to a certain extent, under the control of temporary emotions, or of the will, whereas, the former is a fact which exists for any one who understands it to profit by. Women with square hands and small thumbs are said to make good housewives and gentle wives. This sort of women will make any man happy who is fortunate enough to win happy who is fortunated as the former of the secretary of the Board of Education of the School District of the city of Omaha, cation of the School District of the education of the School District of This sort of women will make any man happy who is fortunate enough to win them. They are not at all romantic, but they are what is better, thoroughly domestic. Women with long thumbs have tempers of their own, and generally a long tongue. There is a hint in this to a lover. Let him, the first time he seizes hold of his mistress' hand, examine, under some pretext or another, her thumb, and if it be large, let him make up his mind that as large, let him make up his mind that as soon as he becomes a married man, he will have to be very, very careful. Again, if a young man find that his lady-love has a large palm, with cone-shaped fingers and a small thumb, let him thank his stars—for, in that case, she is susceptible to tender-ness, easily flattered, very easily talked in-to or out of anything, and readily managed. But if she is a woman with a square hand, well-proportioned, and only a tolerably developed thumb, then she is either one of two distinct classes of women—a practical female who will stand no nonsense, or she is a designing female—a woman who can-not be duped, or a woman who will dupe
