A Competition of Candidates.

Rochester Express.

How doth the little S. J. T.
Improve the shining hour,
And scamper up the hall-way stairs
With twenty chamois power!

How gayly, having scampered up,
Doth he flit down again;
While panting Henry Watterson
Toils after him in vain!

And how doth Mr. Hendricks, too,
Dending tales of gout,
Trundle the brisk lawn-mower round,
We would lawn mower about!

Behold how Mr. Thurman waves
His red bandanna flag,
And begs that him to public life
His friends no more will drag.

Behold how Hancock, the superb,
Remarks he's growing thin,
And that his waistband has been taken,
Some sixteen inches in!

But ah! these flattering statements of
The health of candidates
No evidence save that of friends,
Every corroborates!

And they who represent themselves
As strong, and stout, and spry,
Abstain from doing feats of might
Before the public eye.

Whoso would win the glittering prize
Some better proof must give,
That through the Presidential term
He has a chance to live.

So busk, ye, merry candidates,
And limp, and puff, and wheeze,
To win the nomination in
A week's go as you please;

Or don the glove of padded hair
For pugilistic bout,
And on the stage of Mad'son Square
Knock ve each other out;

Or Doctor Tanner imitates,
And fast for forty days;
Or, if ye would your vigor prove
In more convincing ways,

Take headers where Niagara's waves
And eddies whirl and ebb,
And his shall be the prize who gets
Ahead of Captain Webb!

Ye he the Chptain that outswims
And comes the first to shore,
Shall be put up to be knocked down
In 1884.

Wouldn't it be nice?

Speaking about weather—
Wouldn't it be nice
To turn on the ice
And allow a stream
Of vanilla cream
To moisten your guzzle?
And a soda fiz
Attend to its biz,
Cool the inside coat
Of your parching throat—
Freeze you to the muzzle?

It has been observed that "right-handedness" extends far down in the scale of creation. Parrots take hold of their food in thetr right foot by preference, and Mr. Crookes is inclined to believe that insects like wasps, beetles, and spiders use the right anterior foot most frequently.

South African children have as a favorite plaything a snake. It is a tiny little earth-snake, rarely found over three inches long, with a glassy jet black skin, long pointed head and tail. Beside each plate at a recent dinner in Paris was a telephone which was connected with a distant salon, where a "superb orchestra" was playing. It would not do to try any thing of the kind in this country. The effect of the music would be ruined amidst cries of "Hello! central office! connect 4007 with 133. Blast the thing. Don't understand. You're too near. Stand back a little! What d' ye say? I can't hear a word! Hello!——!"—Boston Transcript.

The existing cedars of Lebanon are nearly 900 years old. The express trees at Montezuma, Mexico, according to a French botanist, are 6,000 years old, and consequently he makes them out coeval with the creation of the world. Still that is only estimate. The oldest tree on earth, so far as absolutely known, is the "Bo" tree in the sacred city of Amarapoora, Burmah. It was planted in 288 B. C. and is accordingly 2,171 years old. Its great age is proved by historical documents, accroding to Sir games Emerson Tennent, who says: To it kings have even dedicated their dominions, in testimony of belief that it is a branch of the identical figtree under which Buddah reclined at Urumelya when he underwent his adotheosis.

About eight miles from Kingston, Ont., and 400 yards from the river St. Lawrence, rises a lofty granite ridge, on which are three wells carved out of the solid rock, which have defied the queries of the oldest inhabitants as to their intended use. These cylinders, only four feet deep and a foot or more in diameter, are hewn out of rock which the keenest tempered tools of modern times would scarcely chip, and from top to bottom they are as smooth as the finest polished Scotch granite. They always contain a copious supply of pure water, which must be supplied by rains, as no surface water can penetrate them. The popular idea is that therein former savages pounded their corn, but the diameter of the holes and their disproportionate depth render that improbable.

A pearl fishery of greate promise was, some time back, reported in the Gulf of Mexico. During the winter fishermen prospectors have found some pearls of great value among not a few smaller gems. The first was taken from the shell of a pearl oyster in December last, 1882. It is believed to be the largest on record. It weighs seventy-five carats. A jeweler offered $14,000, which was accepted. That some is very far below its real value. Another of forty-seven carats is since found, perfect in form and finely tinted. It is valued on the spot at $5,000. A third pearl of forty carats, yet more beautiful, was exhibited at La Pax, where $3,000 was bid. This success of the first serious exploration is justly regarded as evidence of extensive deposits of pearl-bearing oysters, and great excitement pervades all the fishermen in that gulf.

Some 2,000,000 children are being taught in the Japanese public schools on the American and English systems. Besides the schools under govermental control there are a great many private educational enterprises about the the country.

The owner of a watermellon patch in Massachusetts recently received by mail seventy-five cents from a conscience stricken boy to pay or some watermelons he had assisted in stealing a year ago. The farmer had better invest the money in an extra dog. That boy is just laying for the biggest raid yet, and is merely bribing his conscience in advance. That sort of a boy—any boy who is subject to a quickened conscience, needs the closest kind of watching.

An Indian in jail, in Arizona territory, "became enraged at his wife, who had brought him some clean clothing, and stabbed her to death." It must be admitted that the provocation was very great X for an Indian; and if she had in addition to the clean wardrobe, furnished him with a pound of soap and scrubbing brush, the punishment he would have inflicted upon her would no doubt have been as severe.—Norristown Herald.

The Ithaca Journal says that during the Commencement exercises at Cornell University on Thursday Mr. Barnes, who occupied a seat on the platform near H. W. Sage, remarked: "I am a good deal interested in Cornell, and I'll tell you what I've a great mind to do—that is, when I die to leave $150,000 for the establishing of an astronomical observatory." To this it is reported that Mr. Sage replied: "If you will give that amount for the observatory now, and not wait till you die, I will give $250,000 for the establishing of a law school in connection with the university." Mr. Barnes said he would think the proposition over, and there the matter stands.

President McCosh, of Princeton Colege, in his address recently delivered, created some astonishment among the students by an attack upon excessive indulgence in exciting athletic games. He said he was bound to state that within the last few years at Princeton gymnastic games have been carried on in an injurius extent. That as he had introduced gymnastics into the college he was all the more anxious they should be kept within bounds. He did not complain of any exess in physical exercise, but in the exciting games that are played. Out of every one hundred students, he thinks, eight or ten lose very much of the benefit of their college life because their hearts are in the sports rather than in their studies.

A New York regiment in camp at Peekskill threatened to revolt if they were not furnished with napkins. We cannot conceive of a more thrilling and striking picture of the "horrors of war," than a soldier without a nap kin—unless it be a corporal with a dollar store scarf pin.—Norristown Herald.

A process has been invented by which heavy planks can be manufactured from straw. Ah, yes, we understand what makes the straw berry shortcake at our hotel so thoroughly waterproof and solid. The flooring and roof of the same are manufactured by this process from the straw in the berries. And that also explains another mystery, to-wit, viz: What becomes of the strawberries.

The mayor and alderman of Portland, Me., have just voted unto themselves free admission to all places of amusement, and will "wear a badge of appropriate design" so they may be recognized by the doorkeeper. There is no limit to the delicate beauty shown in the making up of the new summer toilets of white.

Diamonds are not worn in Paris with simple Summer toilets. They are replaced by fancy articles in old silver and enamel artistically wrought.

Japanese designs for parasols are embroidered on bright-colored satins. One of the prettiest of parasols seen this Summer was of geraulum red satin, with a flight of swallows on one side.

Among the specialties in shoes may be mentioned those made of tan-colored Swedish kid to match the glove. They are lined with gold satin and trimmed with antique in hammered silver.

Gloves are still long and taken either over or under the sleeve. Black dressed k'd gloves are used only for black toilets, and a fine quality of "gant de Saxe" serves for all other dresses.

Sunshades with very thick handles have all kinds of sporting subjects, heads, &c., beautifully carved upon them. They are lined with red surah, and the materials used to cover them have large Persian designs.

It is estimated that more than 200 women in New York make money by copying. In fact it is coming to be the rule that all copying is done by women. Not a few of them are capital shorthand writers, and every month the number of type-writer operators increases.

A lady stopping at a hotel in Australia was bitten by a rat, and has sued the proprietor of the hotel for $10,000 damages. The bite was not severe, but her fright was so great that her hair—hanging on the back of a chair—turned white before morning.—[Norristown Herald.

As an example of the absurd lenghts to which the flower mania has extended in New York, it is said that there was sent down to the Servia last Wednesday for a lady who was a passenger a floral fac-simile of the vessel, four feet long and remarkably complete. On deck were toy sailors and passenger, and the water-tight compartments were filled with French candies.

Peanut candy is made of two cups of molasses, one cup of brown sugar, one tablespoonfull of butter, one of vinegar; while it is boiling remove the she shells and the brown skins from the peanuts, lay them in buttered pans, and when the candy is done, pour it over them. While it is still warm cut it in blocks.

Good Tea.

N. Y. Morning Journal.

Tea drinkers will be delighted to learn that, according to the last advices from Hong Kong, the tea crop was in splendid condition. If there floods and cyclones, cold spells, bugs, locust and other climatic calamities insectivorous pest in China, the plants have escaped them all. Delicious, fragrant tea may therefore be expected for some time to come. But, alas! there is tea and tea. A large number of pacages which arrived here a few days ago contained, Mr. Inspector Davies says sand, gravel, exhausted leave and pellets of paste artificially made to resemble the genuine article. This base imitation of fortunately confiscated. Tea must be sacretly guarded against all who would attempt to tamper with it. Bogus sausages, olemargarine and other weak imitations we can stand, but imitation tea, never.

Use of Steel Nails.

Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Within the past six months the use of steel nails has increased largely. They came into market about a year ago and found an immediate sale. One by one the leading nail companies of this state took up this line of manufacture until all now produce steel nails regularly. No change in machinery was required. The knives for cutting the steel plates dull much quicker than on iron work, but otherwise the cost of manufacture is not increased beyond the first cost of the steel bloom as compared with pig or scrap iron which is used in making iron nails.

At first the extra cost of steel nails was one and one-half cents per pound or $1.50 per keg, but it has now been reduced to $1. extra.

The great advantage of steel nails is that they can be driven into hard wood as easily as an iron nail will go into a pine board. We have seen steel nails driven into a white oak knot without bending.

Nothing else is now used in laying hardwood floors, as they require no boring but are driven readily. For all kinds of hard finish they are especially adapted and as so much hard finish is now employed their use must be on the increase. They are also used largely by car-builders, and box-makers are increasing their demand for them. Box-makers have been using the better grades of iron nails, as they can be drawn and re-driven. The steel nail meets this requirement better than any other.

SAMARITAN NERVINE NEVER FAILS.

"How can one medicine be a specific for Epilepsy, Dyspepsia, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Rheumatism, Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, and fifty other complaints?" We claim it a specific, simply, because the virus of all diseases arises from the blood. Its Nervine, Resolvent, Alterative and Laxative properties meet all the conditions herein referred to.
