A SPLENDID SHOWING.

An institution of which Omaha and the west feel justly proud.

The second annual commencement of the Young Ladies' Seminary of the Sacred Heart took place on Thursday afternoon, June 28th, at their magnificent new academy, which is situated on an eminence in the western portion of our fast-growing metropolis. This elegant building, as it stands at present, is a structure which would grace any eastern city. Here are over fifty apartments decorated, and furnished with all the modern improvements, an especial feature of which are beautifully fitted bath-rooms. The location being one of the healthiest in our ever-healthy climate, recommends it to parents who would have their children grow in health as they grow in learning. As educators, the Ladies of the Sacred Heart stand at the head. Their reputation is world-wide. Years of training perfect each teacher in the specialties to which she is particularly adapted. All the branches of a solid, practical education are taught in a thorough and substantial manner, while, as instructors in all the ornamental branches of a polite education, the Ladies of the Sacred Heart are unsurpassed. French, being the language of the institute is taught with the utmost accuracy and perfection. That these ladies are pre-eminently fitted to mould young ladies into noble, graceful women, and useful members of society, a visit to the academy will convince the most sceptical.

On the present occasion, the pupils presented a charming appearance in their simple white dresses; their youthful countenances radiant with health and intelligence. The following programme was presented:

Entree, (Muller), Glad Tidings March. Welcome by Miss Mary McCreary. The Moorish Prince, in two Scenes. Fairies of the Sea (Glover). Local Duet. Lucretia Borgia (Fowler). Inst. quartette.

The Childs Wish by Miss May McNaumara. On the Race Course (Blake) Inst. duet. Distant Chimes (Glover). Vocal triet. Favorite Aims of Norme (Wells) Grand duet. Distribution of Premiums.

Address to the Bishop by Miss Clara Creighton. These ladies inspire their pupils with their fervent love of labor while the retired situation of the building, away from the noise, dust and distractions of the city; and their thoroughly tested and perfected system of imparting instruction, combine to make this a most desirable educational institution for young ladies.

Honorary Distinctions: The blue ribbon was awarded to Misses Clara Creighton, Hattie Jones and Mary St. Clair. Christian Doctrine. The green ribbon to Miss Mary McCreary. The pink ribbon to Misses Mary McNaumara and Emma Creighton.

Superior Premiums: Exemplary conduct, Miss Clara Creighton; Distinguished, Hattie Jones and Mary St. Clair. Christian Doctrine, Clara Creighton; Distinguished, Mary Jones, Isabella Traynor. Second division, Christian Doctrine, Mary McNaumara; Distinguished, Emma Creighton. 4th English class: Mary St. Clair; Distinguished, Clara Creighton and Anna Belle Jones. 5th English class: Mary McCreary; Distinguished, Bessie Stephenson. 6th English class: Louise Pierce; Distinguished, Millie Stephenson. Preparatory class: Mary McNaumara; Distinguished, Emma Creighton.

Miss Clara Creighton, premium for grammar, music and application to French and distinguished in book-keeping and history. Miss Mary St. Clair, premium for composition, drawing and instrumental music, and distinguished in grammar and geography. Miss Isabella Traynor, premium for penmanship, arithmetic and polite deportment; and distinguished in history and music.

Miss Georgia Duncan, premium for sacred history, French and instrumental music; and distinguished in composition and arithmetic. Miss Hattie Jones, premium for geography, algebra, drawing and instrumental music; and distinguished in arithmetic.

Miss Anna Belle Jones, premium for geography, profane history, book-keeping, arithmetic, and French conversation; and distinguished in natural history and algebra.

Miss Sarah Lowe, premium for natural history, order and instrumental music; and distinguished in geography and drawing.

Miss Mary McCreary, premium for French, arithmetic and music; and distinguished in sacred history.

Miss Sarah Nash, premium for sacred history, geography and music; and distinguished in French and needlework.

Miss Bessie Stephenson, premium for grammar, profane history and geography. French class; and distinguished in geography. Miss Mary Damply, premium for diligence and instrumental music.

Miss Isabella Traynor, premium for composition; distinguished in grammar.

Miss Millie Stephenson, premium in geography and history; distinguished in music.

Miss Louise Pierce, premium in needlework and music; and distinguished in geography.

Miss Mary McNaumara, premium for sacred history and arithmetic; distinguished in geography.

Miss Maud Rawlins, premium for penmanship and needlework; distinguished in sacred history.

Miss Emma Creighton, premium for geography and composition; distinguished in arithmetic and penmanship.

Miss Mary Nash, premium for general improvement.

The following young ladies deserve special mention for studiousness, aptness, diligence, observance of rules and for the creditable manner in which they acquitted themselves: Misses Belle Jones, Clara Creighton, Mary McNaumara, Georgia Duncan, Millie Stephenson and Sallie Nash.

The exercises closed by a short address from Bishop O'Connor, to whose efforts we are indebted for the addition to our city, of this excellent seminary. In his usual elegant, scholarly manner, the bishop expressed his pleasure and satisfaction at the progress made by the young ladies, and the graceful manner in which they acquitted themselves. The next session opens on Wednesday, September 5th, and we predict for this admirable institution, an ever-increasing attendance among ladies anxious to receive the useful and ornamental branches of knowledge so efficiently imparted.

At St. Catherine's.

St. Catherine's Academy, cor. 18th and Cass, closed its year's labors on Friday with a beautiful and well-rendered programme, which is given below. The institution, under the charge of the Sisters of Mercy, is one of the most desirable and best conducted schools in the West. Besides the girls, whose ages ranged from the little five-year-old to the young ladies in the graduating class, we noticed that boys are received up to the age of ten years.

The examinations took place on the 22d, 23d and 25th, and showed a marked improvement in all the studies. The pupils showed by their ready answers that they had a practical knowledge of the subject taught. This was particularly true of the higher classes, whose answering on algebra, geometry, rhetoric, astronomy and natural philosophy was given with a degree of accuracy that proved the great labors and untiring zeal of the good sisters.

We were conducted into the drawing room, where we noticed some finely executed pictures in crayon and water-colors. "The Madonna" and "Ecce Homo" were exceedingly well done, and indeed, all the pictures exhibited showed a degree of excellence creditable alike to the teachers and their pupils.

Miss Mary Ann Tracy's valedictory, which was very ably written, was spoken from memory and was the gem of the evening. Besides Miss Tracy's graduating prize, Miss Mary Lawless won the prize for Christian doctrine, and Miss Mary A. Flannery the prize for music. These were exquisite gold crosses and medals. Quite a number of valuable and richly bound books were also given to deserving students.

After the exercises, the Rt. Rev. Bishop addressed the pupils and warmly congratulated them upon the marked improvement observable, not only in the regular studies, but also in vocal and instrumental music.

Crushing an Unbeliever.

While the steamer was laying at Water-pool, La., on the way down the river, a little bald-headed, hook-nosed man from Tennessee got into a religious discussion with a tall, long-waisted man from Arkansas. They had it hot and heavy for a while, the little man doubting that the whale ever swallowed Jonah or that Daniel was cast into the lions' den. We expected to see the big man reach out for him every minute, but he was a man who always went by the programme. After the boat started out he went to the captain and asked: "How far is it to the next landing?" "We shall stop at a plantation twelve miles down."

"What would be the expense of stopping this steamer and sending out a boat to pick up a man?" "I wouldnt want to lose the time for less than $5. Why do you ask?" "Because," replied the man, as he pulled out a roll of bills and hunted for a five, "there's a little pinch of a man back here who's got to own up that the ravens fed Elijah or I'm going to leave him overboard. Here's your cash and you can get your small boat ready."

Several passengers combined to argue him out of the idea, and though he finally concluded to abandon it he brought his fist down hard on the rail and said: "Well, then, I won't, but I'll slip round there after a while and if he denies that we whipped the British at Bunker Hill, I'll have his ears or never show my face agin in old Arkansas."

A VETERAN DRUGGIST. Who gives North Omaha a fine establishment.

Cunning street is again coming to the front in the shape of a Druggery. Mr. J. H. Phelps who is the proprietor and under whose able management the building and store were completed is a veteran in the Drug trade with over twenty five years practical experience. The store room which is elegantly furnished with fine shaving, counters and show cases, will be filled with a fine and elegant stock of Drugs, Chemicals, Perfumery and fancy goods, fine cigars and fresh confectionary will also be kept.

Mr. Phelps who is a man of long experience and a member of the Iowa Pharmaceutical association, also a registered druggist, will undoubtedly meet many favors from the worth Omaha people who always love to encourage new concerns. We also hope that Mr. Phelps will meet success in his new field.

THE LATEST

Addition to the Retail Business of Omaha

Is the New Hardware Store of Himebaugh and Taylor on Douglas Street.

Prominent among the many substantial business enterprises that have been added to Omaha during the last few months is the new retail hardware store of Himebaugh & Taylor in the three story brick building formerly occupied by M. Cumings' auction store, on Douglas street. This establishment is especially deserving of mention in the line of Omaha's rapid advancement. Messrs. Himebaugh and Taylor have entirely renovated and refitted the building and have now arranged a larger stock than any other retail hardware store in the west. The basement, which is a large and commodious one, is stored full of the heavier goods, such as nails, etc., and reserve stock. On the first floor is the principal salesroom and offices, which is lighted by an electric lamp, and is the only hardware store in the city affording such a luxury. In the rear are convenient arrangements for shipping and receiving goods. The second and third floors are reserved for the storage and exhibition of a large stock of scales made by the Buffalo Scale Co., for which the firm are general western agents and will make a specialty of wholesaling and retailing these unexcelled goods.

A full line of hard ware will always be kept in stock which includes shelf goods, cutlery, builders supplies of every description, of which the firm will make a specialty of and carry the best goods in the market. The solid bronzes, bronze goods for general house trimmings which the firm handle, such as door knobs, knobs, butts, etc., and known as the Graham Brocade Bronze which was used exclusively in the finishing and trimming of the inside wood work of both the Paxton and Millard hotels is also worthy of mention. These goods are something entirely new, and being also popular among builders and owners they are coming into rapid use. A large and complete assortment of carpenters' tools of the well known and deservedly popular "Bartou" make is a special feature of the business and builders and contractors are enabled to select anything in this line and will find everything as represented, and warranted to be superior to all other carpenter tools in the market.

As to prices, the Bee reporter was informed that all goods were bought for cash, thus all discounts being taken advantage of and the lowest possible figures being obtained, and that customers would receive this benefit. In addition to this everything is bought directly from first hands and in large quantities, which is another fact that will enable the firm to sell at bottom prices.

Both members of the firm are well and favorably known in Omaha, and will undoubtedly obtain their share of patronage. Mr. Himebaugh is a member of the firm of Himebaugh, Merriam & Co., proprietors of the Omaha Elevator Co. and is known throughout the west as one of our most enterprising and reliable business men. Mr. Taylor, although quite a young man has had ten years experience in the hardware business, two years of which has been in one of the largest hardware stores in the city, and thoroughly understands every branch of the business.

Every body is invited to call and look through the stock whether contemplating purchasing or not. If you don't want to freeze when it's cold; suffer from excessive perspiration when its warm - use Brown's Iron Bitters.
