Republican County Convention. The republicans of Pottawattamie county will meet in delegate convention at the court house in Council Bluffs, Thursday, September 13, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The primaries in each township, unless otherwise ordered by the township committee, will be held Monday, September 10 at 7 p. m.

MINOR MENTION.

See Joseph Reiter's fall goods. Additional local on seventh page. School books at H. E. Seaman's.

vs. The Wabash Railway. The railway commissioner examined into Judge Bond's claim that the railway discriminated against him by not purchasing cars for his grain, and assessed damages. He now seeks to enforce payment. The case is taken under advisement.

At the democratic meeting held at the court house last evening there was quite a large attendance and the audience was quite enthusiastic.

The quartette of dusky maidens charged with threatening to relieve Jennie Epps, a white woman, of every drop of blood in her body, were in court again yesterday, and all were discharged, except Mrs. Jones, who is to have still more of a hearing on the 17th.

The presentation of the $75 sewing machine to the "black girl" of Western Iowa is to take place Friday afternoon of next week, at 2 o'clock, in the exposition building, the presentation to be by Bill Nye, The Boomerang man.

Yesterday a man named Larson, living on Washington avenue, was complained of by some of his neighbors who say that though apt to be quite cruel, he yesterday exceeded his own bounds by unmercifully pounding his dog, he having the poor brute tied up to a tree.

Postmaster Armour has received from Washington, instructions to get some civil engineer to prepare a plat of the site of the proposed government building with grade, etc., and send as soon as possible. It is hoped that the government building had not been altogether forgotten, and that possibly work might commence this fall.

Invantho Commandery No. 17, Knights Templar, have elected for officers for the ensuing year: Sir J. C. Hoffmayer, eminent commander; Sir C. E. H. Campbell, generalissimo; Sir T. S. Couch, captain general; Sir T. J. Mackay, squire; Sir J. H. Adams, treasurer; Sir H. H. Lacey, recorder; Sir J. H. Marshall, senior warder; Sir Ed. Mott, junior warder.

The St. Patrick's Benevolent Society at their regular meeting on Thursday, September 6, elected the following officers for the next six months: M. G. Griffin, president; James Wickham, vice president; J. J. Sullivan, treasurer; T. J. McCune and E. A. Wickham, secretaries; John Montgomery, sergeant-at-arms; Rev. B. P. McMenomy, chaplain.

The council has taken no definite action yet in regard to the vacation of a portion of a street in order to give the C, B. & Q. room to build a new depot. The building proposed is a two-story brick, and will certainly be an improvement over the one now used.

There is already a show of much activity at the fair grounds, preparatory to the doings of next week. The track has been placed in the best possible condition, the grounds made ready, the stables and sheds put in shape, and many who are to exhibit farm machinery are already at work getting everything in readiness.

A man named Hannon was brought here yesterday from Avon and placed in jail to await the meeting of the district court, to charge with assault with intent to do great bodily injury.

Next Thursday is to be citizens' day at the fair, and all stores and offices are to be closed, that all hands may go to the driving park.

David Bradley & Co. have a handsome gray truck team, and the whole outfit looks quite metropolitan, and attracts much attention.

Reuben Morse, a hazzegonester on the C. B. & Q., died at No. 700 Fourth street, in this city, Thursday afternoon, of typhoid fever.

I. T. Spangler's warehouse, at Walnut, gave way the other day with a pressure of 4,000 bushels of shelled corn. It made a bad looking wreck.

E. R. Sterahiller is reported as having sold an interest in his furniture factory to W. T. Wilson, of Dunlap, and that now the establishment will be enlarged.

The jury in the supreme court was yesterday discharged for the September term, the cases which they were expected to decide being otherwise disposed of.

The explosion of a kerosene lamp in a billiard hall at Griswold, gave that place a narrow escape from a big fire. As it was blankets were promptly used, and the damage confined to $50.

Steps were taken yesterday to again place Mrs. Sylvia Gardner, of this city, under treatment at the insane asylum at Mt. Pleasant, from which institution she was discharged a short time ago.

"Asleep or awake, they are about our bed and path." Spiritual Circle to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon and evening, in Shugart & Beno's block, rooms Nos. 4 and 5, commencing at 2 and 7 1/2 o'clock.

Postmaster Armour reports that over one hundred of the new postal notes have been issued from his office during the past five days. It would seem by this as though the notes were fast coming into favor.

Over $50 in cash, besides groceries and clothing, has been raised for the benefit of Mrs. Ellinger, whose husband was recently killed in the Northwestern yards, and who is herself in poor condition, having just given birth to a child.

Governor Hendricks, of Indiana, is to speak at the fair grounds next Tuesday afternoon. In the forenoon of the same day he will give a political address in Bayless park. He is an orator whom a man will be glad to hear, even those who do not agree with him politically.

The news reached here yesterday that Matt Tabor, a brakeman on the Rock Island, had been knocked off a freight train while passing through the covered bridge east of Minden, and badly injured, probably fatally, his left being fractured and nose broken. His home is in Stuart.

Council Bluffs will have the biggest crowd next week that ever gathered here. The races and exposition are so crowded with attractions that everybody says they and their sisters and their cousins and their aunts are coming. The fair folks have laid themselves out for a big show and they've got it, sure.

LATEST FROM LEWIS.

His Own Statement in Regard to the Killing of Fagan.

Holly Lewis, the young man who killed Fagan at Des Moines, arrived at his home here yesterday, having stopped over at Marne the day previous. While he regrets deeply the whole affair, yet feels confident of producing witnesses to corroborate his statement of the tragedy, and of making a complete defense.

Most of the details have already been made public, but some very important incidents have been overlooked. After the first trouble in the room, and after Fagan and his cousin Davis, and the young man Townsend, had gone out, Townsend came back and warned Lewis that there would be trouble, and that the boys would make him give up the room.

Some ladies in the house heard the threats which Fagan and his cousin made to Lewis when they went out. They had been drinking then, it being ten or eleven o'clock. When they came back after midnight there was a Swede sitting on the front porch waiting for some one he expected to come after him with a wagon.

The young men pitched into him, without any apparent cause other than the inspiration of bad whisky, and pounded him up pretty well. It was not until he heard this row with the Swede that young Lewis got up and dressed himself. He first picked up a bottle to defend himself with, but then happening to think that there was a harness-makers' knife there which Fagan had to cut his corns with, he got that instead, and armed with this he went back to bed.

On entering the room Fagan and his companion began their attack, striking him twice in the chest and pulling him out of bed, and it was in this scuffle that he plunged the knife into Fagan's heart, killing him. With these witnesses to show the threats on leaving the room the first time and their quarrelsome disposition and drunken condition on returning two hours later, young Lewis expects to make out the strongest sort of a case of self-defense.

He feels particularly grateful to his Marne friends. When the bail was fixed Judge Cole, as his counsel, tried to get it reduced from $7,500 to $5,000, and expressed doubt of the ability to furnish even that amount, but the Marne friends of the young man spoke up promptly and said $7,500 was none too high, and if $10,000 was wanted or even more, they would furnish it, and the fact that the signers of the bond promptly qualified in the sum of $40,000 showed that they meant it and were able to furnish the required amount, while others stood ready to swell the list if needed.

Young Lewis says that not only that mark of confidence, but the kindly reception given him when he stopped over at Marne was appreciated only as practical sympathy shown to a man in the deepest trouble that can be appreciated.

He also desired that the public should know exactly of the manner in which W. R. Vaughan, who was in Des Moines, worked in his behalf. He says Mr. Vaughan did everything possible to help him, and to get the truth of the matter before the public, and to prevent the natural prejudice which arises quickly upon such a tragedy.

Dr. West, dentist, 14 Pearl street. A BUSY SNEAK. He Has Accumulated Quite a Stock of Shirts, Sleeve Buttons and Albums.

There has been captured at Harlan a young man giving his name as J. W. Dickey, who seems to have been running quite a career in that vicinity as a sneak thief, and a few nights ago, it is said, he attempted burglary.

Mr. James Newby, living southeast of the town, heard some one at the front door, and discovered the fellow lighting matches and trying the lock. Falling in this the fellow then tried the back door, which has two glass panels, and as there lighted matches also, his features were clearly seen.

Mr. Newby in getting his gun alarmed the burglarious fellow, who skipped. He was tracked the next morning to an adjoining school house. It seems that the fellow had carried off bread and raspberries from Mr. Newby's cellar before trying to enter the upper part of the house, and remnants of these were found in the school house, and some of the raspberry juice had stained his face.

The young thief denied everything, but was sent to jail for ten days. Since then his valise has been examined, and the fellows career traced back, and sundry charges lodged against him for larceny. J. W. Davis identified a coat, vest, watch and chain stolen last spring. Dave Mason identified a night shirt. J. W. Mosby also two shirts. Besides these articles there is an album containing the photograph of Sheriff Chatburn, and an autograph album belonging to Miss Kate Dolin, of Avoca.

Dickey has a supply of jewelry, sleeve buttons, etc., a fine black suit of clothes, and another photograph album not identified. It looks as if Dickey would have now about more larceny cases to attend to than he can well explain away. He claims to have relatives living in Audubon county.
