THE LOST CHURCH.

Rev. Mr. Mackay Gives His Prople Some Plain Talk About R.

Yesterday morning the usually large gathering at St. Paul's Episcopal church, listened attentively to a very interesting and strong sermon, by the rector, Rev. Mr. Mackay, whose topic was "the Lost Church." He deplored the lack of enthusiasm in the churches, and gave clearly the reasons for this lack, as he under-stood them, and suggested the remedy. built between the secular and religious world. Men had built a strong wall and placed the church on one side, and shut it off. This was not the true principle.

This was shown by the megar attendance at the Baldwin on Thursday evening, when a benefit for the Second African M. E. church was advertised, which, from

No one should set aside one duty and the beggarly account of empty benches say this is strictly religious, and another in the auditorium must have been no part of his life as strictly secular. In benefit at all. Taking this result in connature the flowers and weeds grow to gether. He deplored the establishing of of the Callenders, when he sought hotel so-called religious schools. Many of them accommodations for the company on their had been started on the claim that religion was not taught in the public schools. He did not believe this. He thought there was religion taught in the terviews with hotel proprietors, which thought there was religion taught in the public schools, and pure, broad religion, not denominational but religion. This claim for religious schools established by churches was a desperate attempt of dying ecclesiasticism. In England the schools established by the State were fast causing the schools established by the Church of England to die out.

Out of this seeming indifference in the control of the schools established by the Church of England to die out.

Out of this seeming indifference in the control of the schools established by the Church of England to die out.

"Good Heavens! who are these, and what do they want here?"

"Why, my dear sir." said the business.

Out of this seeming indifference in the church, and of outsiders to the church, he believed God would bring about good in the end. The time would come when religion, instead of being made a department of life, would become the ruling principle of all life. The church life with the church life ruling by the control of their quarter. What! in my house? Not if I know myself Do you want to ruin my business? I understood from you would become the life of the nation. He found encouragement in the fact that while all in the church were not honest, all were not better that some men outside of the church. Yet the standard of the world was coming up to that of the church more than that of the church was falling below the standard of the cross.

The church should get back to the old idea from which it had wandered and become lost. This idea was that the church was not a particular form of worship, but a life of individual consecration. They should get back to the name "Emanuel, which meant not "God with our church," but "God with us." God in the home, in the heart, in the business of the indi-vidual in daily life, not merely in the church on Sunday. The church should be the moral sup port of the life, not the life itself. The old injunction should be heeded, "Let every man among you depart from iniquity." Righterusness alone could save a nation, righteousness, that is right dealing, alone could save the individual. dealing, alone could save the individual. When that time came that religion became a part of the individual life and not merely a part of church life, when it was made the ruling principle of life and the barriers between the religious and the barriers between the religious and secured the property of PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, secular broken down, then would every true heart be a temple of the living God, and wherever human foot might tread or and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and wherever human foot might tread or day, as he replaced his worn-out living God, and the foot might tread or day and the foot might tread or day as he replaced his worn-out living God, and the foot might tread or day as he replaced his worn-out living God, and the foot might tread or day as he replaced his worn-out living God, and the foot might tread or day as he replaced his worn-out living God, and the foot might tread or day as he replaced his worn-out living God, and the foot might tread or day as he replaced his worn-out living God, and the foot might have the foot might have the foot might have been decreased as hearth and the f weary head be laid would become a
