THE INQUIRY.

The hearing in the case came on before the full board, composed of Hon. W. H. Ijams, Judge Savage and Dr. Tilden. Several witnesses were examined and testified as to the conduct of the prisoner during the past year. Mr. F. C. Fest-ner, his father, was examined at length, and stated in brief that the first indications he had noticed were about a year ago, when his son moved their establishment into Creighton hall during his absence from the city. Since that time he had had continual trouble, and it had cost made by the junior partner, his son. The witness told, among other things, of a trip made by Julius to St. Louis, when he missed the train on which he was to leave that city and tried to hire a special train to get away on. He then went to Chicago and returned to Omaha
