—The roller skating rink opened again in McCrary's block Thursday under the auspices of some of Omaha's society young men. Invitations were issued to the reception.

—The president of the Board of Public Works says that the reason the street cleaning fund is not being used is probably because the council does not care to let a contract until Harney and Sixteenth streets are paved.

—A six foot ten man by the name of M. H. Davis, from Des Moines, abused a little fellow by the name of Pond, in Hornberger's saloon Thursday for not allowing him some money for a watch he wanted to dispose of. This Pond resented, and pitched into the tall chap with a billiard cue, banging his head up considerably. Davis had his wounds dressed in Dr. Hyde's office and then disappeared.

—The magnificent East show window in front of Morse's palatial dry goods store has been so tastefully decorated with Blankets of every size, price, and one may say color, as to elicit econiums of praise from every passer-by. S. P. Morse & Co. are this year selling Mission Mills, California, Blankets direct from the mill, an advantage to their patrons, who thereby save the middle or jobbers' profit. They have to pay other houses who purchase the goods, if at all, from jobbers. Morse's $3.75 white blanket is as good as our readers usually buy at $5.00 in small stores, and their $5.00 6 pound large size strictly all wool blanket is a great bargain.

—It looks as if the sun would now dry the streets sufficiently to permit of a torchlight procession. Some of the German citizens here, who have objected to carrying a torch themselves are reminded by The German Tribune that in the old country it is quite the thing to do, and the most distinguished persons there, including learned professors of the universities, consider it quite an honor to bear a torch in any fest. especially one that celebrates an event like this of the 6th of October.

—Yesterday articles of incorporation, signed by Moses Horwick, Jacob Shiller, Jacob Levy and David Skolinowsky, were filed in the county clerk's office, for an organization to be known as the Benai Israel of Omaha. At a meeting held Wednesday the organization of this congregation was effected and a constitution adopted, adopting the word of God as taught by the creed and profession of said organization, having for its object Christian worship only. What the word 'Christain" mea[illegible] connection is difficult to say.

—One foggy night last week Engineer Swift, while pulling the B. & M. stub out from Omaha, suddenly spied a mare and very young colt on the track ahead. The fog was so heavy that the train was nearly upon the animals before they were discovered, and in a few seconds they went spinning into the air. The train was stopped as quickly as possible, when it was found that the colt was uninjured, though its mother was hurt so that it was thought best to kill her. Then the poor little orphan colt was loaded into the baggage car and taken to Bellevue.—[Plattsmouth Journal.

ROMANCE AND REALITY.

The Fabled Wealth of the Oriental Merchant Outdone.

The Magnificent Stock of A. Cruickshank & Co.

Which Fills the New Falconer Block from Basement to Roof.

The Grand Opening Begun Yesterday a d to Continue To-Night.

In all the works of poetry or romance, there is no more fascinating and attractive creation of fancy than that of the adventurous and enterprising merchant of Bagdad, whose seven famous voyages into unknown countries, and many thrilling experiences, resulted in his always returning to his home with stores of the richest goods of the East, which were the wonder and admiration of every one and the envy of many, the two oposite feelings combined, having resulted in the story being told and become the favorite one among all Oriental tales.

ROMANCE BECOMES REALITY.

What the renowned sailor-merchant endured the hardships and vicissitudes of his seven voyages to amass, would today cut but a sorry figure compared with the costly stuffs which are gathered together to-day from all parts of the world by the merchants of this century, who are aided by the genii Steam and Electricity. That this is no exaggerated illustration will be readily believed by those who last night visited the magnificent store of A. Cruickshank & Co., and witnessed the

of goods which they exhibited at their fall opening, and which, under the brilliant rays of the electric light and the mellower glow of myriads of gas jets, formed a scene not to be exceeded by any dream of an imaginative mind.

It is scarcely a month since THE BEE described the new block in which the firm has located, its vast frontage, commodious rooms and rare advantages for the purposes for which it is designed. It was then stated that it had been pushed through with an enterprise unprecedented in this city, by the owner and partner in the firm

N. B. FALCONER.

Not only Mr. Falconer but every citizen or visitor to the store cannot but be proud that Omaha can boast of such an establishment and must admit that the store of rich fabrics within its walls justifies the apparently lavish expenditure of work and money it cost the builder. Notwithstanding the inclement weather and the outrageous condition of the streets the broad doors were thrown wide open at 7 o'clock last night for the public to enter and inspect the new goods which filled windows, shelves and counters, hung suspended from pillars, walls and ceiling, and formed a combination which for arrangement, taste and exquisite blending of color has, we believe never been equalled in the West anywhere. A BEE reporter was among the visitors last evening and desiring to note a few of the many attractive features of the opening was kindly shown through the entire establishment.

DAY AND NIGHT.

Mention has already been made of the excellent light afforded by day through big windows on three sides of the building and this advantage is equally remarkable at night. Gas jets gleam in every part of the spacious salesroom, and in two of the big show windows an electric light is located, the combined effect being more beautiful than can be described. Since the capacity of the store was doubled, the stock has been largely increased, and never was it so well displayed as at present.

THE WINDOWS

are dressed in the most artistic style and are the first objects which catch the eye upon approaching the house. The one on the corner of Douglas and Fifteenth streets is terraced with rich silks in blacks, colors and fancy patterns, and here, very appropriately, is located one the electric lights, the sheen of the silks thus produced forming a splendid sight alone. In the next window are laces, as delicate as a spider's web; fans that would have been worthy of the beautiful Cleopatra herself, and corsets of the finest manufacture.

MORE SUBSTANTIAL, and especially at this season, are the contents of the next windows, in one of which is seen nothing but soft white blankets, and in the next comforts whose very color and thickness would take the chill off an Arctic winter.

The view upon entering the store is a charming one and indicates the different departments at a glance. At the end of each of the three rows of pillars which extend the full length of the room, are draped Madras and lace curtains, with broad ribbons depending in the center, lace curtains hung about the east side of the room, and chandeliers decorated in every conceivable way. One row is covered with napkins folded in fan pattern, another with lace goods, fichus, etc., a third with nubias, and the fourth with hosiery. In front of the east main entrance is a well executed sketch of the Falconer block, in water colors and richly framed. This is the work of Mr. W. R. McPherson, the architect of the new building, and is as handsome as it is appropriate. It front of it is a case of real lace and hand embroidered handkerchief, some of the latter running as high as ten dollars each. A look through the stock would alone be a day's work and but brief mention can be made of each.

BY DEPARTMENTS

The whole east side of the room is devoted to dress goods and a rare sight they form for the ladies, and following these, in the rear naturally come the ladies cloth and flannels, while at the south end are linen goods such as table cloths, napkins, etc., in endless variety and unlimited quantity. The east wall is beautifully arranged with pyramids of the goods which itself and over each of which falls the delicate folds of lace curtains. Opposite these goods, is a space of equal size, in which silks, black goods, plushes and velvets are to be seen, whose richness cannot be described. If it were possible to find a more attractive part of the store for the ladies it would be between the first two center counters, on the east side of which space is the "glove and button department," the words quoted being spelled out in large capitals with cards of buttons.

THE VALUE of the buttons in this motto is no less than $750, and a single letter, "D," is valued at $75. Here are gloves, trimmings, buttons and all kinds of ornaments. One of the greatest novelties and very beautiful indeed is the case of silk applique ornaments for transfer to fancy work or evening dresses.

Across from this counter is the stock of ribbons. These are all arranged with regard to color, and the effect is simply indescribable, the light falling on them reflecting every hue of the rainbow. Above this are draped a splendid line of ladies' neck Wear, Fichus in hand run, Oriental Black and Cream Lace, Spanish Lace, Fichus, Scarfs, etc. There is also along case of Colored Velvet Ribbons and Fans. The center space in the front of the store, is filled by

of Ladies' Cotton Underwear, Embroideries and Corsets.

Leaving this and returning to the next center counter to the west the small wear department is reached and a lovely display of knit goods seen. Here is also a fine line of ladies' hand bags in plush, real seal, Russia leather and real alligator, the prices running from 75 cents to $6 and the assortment being the finest of the kind ever brought to the city.

The domestics occupy the opposite space, having been necessarily moved up from their former place in the basement down there for other goods. Cruickshank & Co. carry the largest line of domestics in the city, and discount all others in prices, they buying only case lots and obtaining these goods at the mills, and thus saving jobbers' profits, they are enabled to do what no other firm can do in the way of prices.

And right here we may add that in this magnificent store A. Cruickshank & Co. set practically rent free, the rent of a row of offices on the east side and their magnificent public halls on the west side paying interest on all the money invested. From the figures we have seen it costs them just half to sell these goods that it costs the large Eastern houses. It has often been a mystery to the public how this firm could sell their goods so much less than Chicago or New York and this is

THE EXPLANATION.

Passing on to the next department we find there a big stock of ladies', gents' and children's underwear, well arranged and very attractive, and opposite this, on the west side of the building, the hosiery department, which is one of the most remarkable in the whole store. The array is endless and what cannot be found in it in the way of hosiery would be hard to discover. The firm imports all its hosiery from the manufacturers direct, and in this as in other departments they take the lead. The decorations on the walls are unique, the letters "A. C. & Co.," being formed of various sized and varicolored hose and set off by huge Japanese fans of the same material.

A corner here is devoted to gents' neck-wear of the newest styles, and of this, too, there is

AN IMMENSE STOCK.

The wall above is decorated with a cross, wheel, heart, diamond and spade, composed of ties and scarfs.

At the south end of this aisle is a big stock of zephyrs, sold at 5 cents per ounce, sold everywhere else at 10 cents, and flanking this department stacks of blankets and comforts are piled up to the very ceiling.

In the second story above, which will be reached by a grand staircase, is the office of the firm and Mr. Falconer's private office, the latter of which is fitted up in the most elegant style, after the taste of Mr. F., which is unexceptionable in everything. The bulk of the space is, however, occupied as a cloak room, the walls lined with which are filled with the most beautiful and costly goods. Among the notable styles, which we cannot detail too fully, is a lovely garment of cut plush and trimmed with "rat-tail" plush fringe. Also a novelty in the plush, Newmarket ulster, with Newmarket Jerseys, cloaks in Matelasse, Astrachan and imported goods of every descript on.

The embroidered Jerseys are very pretty and this garment we are assured promises to retain its popularity next year to as great a degree as this. The firm have already sent over a big order for the coming season. A beautiful line of children's Havelocks, and the finest shawls, in the latter the new black cashmere being the latest novelty, will be looked at with much interest by the ladies.

is also stocked with goods, but detailed mention of that part of the establishment, a whole store in itself, must be deferred for another time.

Suffice it to say that A. Cruickshank & Co. have by their enterprise, vim and business knowledge placed themselves in the same position in their busines which England is so proud of boasting of—they rule the trade, and they well deserve the credit of doing so.

A Startling Discovery.

Physicians are often startled by remarkable discoveries. The fact that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and all throat and lung diseases is daily curing patients that they have given up to die, is startling them to realize their sense of duty, and examine into the merits of this wonderful discovery; resulting in hundreds of our best citizens using it in their practice. CHURCH NEWS.

Changes and Transfers in the Catholic Priesthood.

Several important changes have been made in the priesthood of the Catholic church in Omaha and vicinity during the present week. Rev. Father English, who has had charge of St. Philomena's cathedral for many years, has been transferred to Exeter, Neb., and left for his new field of labor last evening. There has seldom been a separation between pastor and flock in Omaha that has caused such sorrow and regret as the departure of Father English. Coming to this city a few years ago a total stranger, he endeared himself to all classes and conditions by his never ceasing efforts to help all in need of spiritual or temporal comforts. A man of few words but many deeds, he was the favorite of the congregation, whether at the bedside of the sick, at the baptismal font or at the marriage altar. He goes to southwest Nebraska with the "God Speed" of all.

Rev. Father O'Connor, who has managed the parish of Fremont for many years, has been transferred to this city, and it is reported that he will take charge of the Cathedral. The reverend father ranks high in the priesthood of the diocese, and having many friends already in the city, he will soon be at home here.

Rev. Father Jeannette, who had charge of St. Philomena's in the interim between the death of Bishop O'Gorman and the consecration of the Right Rev. Bishop O'Connor, is back in Omaha to stay, for some time at least. It is said he will take charge of the South Omaha church, which was recently built through the efforts of the enterprising Catholics in that growing neighborhood. Father Jeannette is warmly welcomed back to the Gate City.

These are Solid Facts.

The best blood purifier and system regulator ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity truly is Electric Bitters. Inactivity of the liver, Billiousness Jaundice, Constipation, Weak Kidneys, or any disease of the urinary organs, or whoever requires an appetizer, tonic or mild stimulant, will always find Electric Bitters the best and only certain cure known. They act surely and quickly, every bottle guaranteed to give entire satisfaction or money refunded. Sold at 50 cents a bottle by C. F. Goodman.

THE TOURISTS.

Another Immense House and Much Applause.

The "Tourists in a P. P. C." who have travelled as far as Omaha, and stopping their car last night at Boyd's were greeted by an unusually large house. The gallery, particularly, was packed, and to the gallery much of the play was directed. Those who had seen "Le Voyage en Suisse," a play very similar, were prepared for comparitive criticism, but, with the exception that there were no astonishing acrobatic feats in this, the one performance was quite up to the other. The representation of the interior of a sleeping car was capitally done.

To-night and this afternoon "The Planters Wife" holds the boards, and if one can judge by the style of the advertising done, the troupe and the acting must be first-class.

AMONG THE POOR.

Report of City Mission Work, for September, 1883, by Mrs. H. B. Fuller.

Have worked about 130 hours in the last four weeks Fewer visits were made on account of the fair, where much of my time for the week was spent. There has been little call for help, only a small amount of provisions being given, and thirty-six garments, I think.

There have been, however, a few cases where families were really suffering for want of bedding. In one of these a child has died, and the mother and three other children are sick. The need has been supplied by the kindness of friends. A pair of new blankets was donated by Mrs. Charlton, and packages of second-hand clothing and quilts, by others.

A temporary home has been found for a babe given up by its sick mother. Another mother has given adoption papers for a little boy already in a good home.

Another beautiful baby adopted some months since, has been moved by the Good Shepherd to the fold above. The foster father writes: "We are very sad and lonely, sweet little one, he has gone to a better home."

As cold weather approaches the demand for clothing and provisions will be vastly increased. Shall it be met? "With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

BABY'S WARNING.

When baby has pains at dead of night,
Mother in a fright, father in a plight;
When worms do bite, baby must cry,
If fever sets in, baby may die.
If crumy pains kill Leonora.
In that house there's no CASTORIA,
For mothers learn without delay,
CASTORIA cures by night and day.
