All Kinds of Games and Toys.

As a specialty in the Piano line, I would recommend most heartily the Hardman Piano!

A fine tone, finely finished, first-class instrument in every respect; they are not the cheapest Pianos, but within the reach of all who really desire something that will last a lifetime. TRY THEM. They are fully warranted for SEVEN YEARS.

SHODDY PIANOS AND ORGANS,

so largely advertised like patent medicine, and like it, good for everything and nothing in particular, I DO NOT KEEP IN STOCK. I cannot afford to sell them, as I live too near home. But if desired, I am prepared to furnish any of these cheap Pianos and Organs at eastern prices, save freight, provided I am not held responsible. In connection with this I will state that my Organs contain 5 full octaves of Reeds, to one set, and do not call a single octave of reeds, a full set, as advertised by shoddy makers and dealers.

I sell Pianos and Organs on Monthly and Quarterly Payments; also for cash, with small extra discount. Send for circulars. Address

The Absence of Intent Will Prevent Their Being Declared Legal.

Chicago News.
"Now, I want to know something," said a pretty brunette to a Daily News reporter. "I want to know whether I'm married or not."
"Give it up," said the reporter. "If you are not you ought to be, from your looks."
"You seem to think there is something funny about this thing, but I'm in earnest. You see, we Chicago girls are anxious to be up with the times, and when my gentlemanly cousin came here from New York, a few weeks ago, and introduced the patina of mock marriages, at our parties and other social gatherings, the other girls and myself all thought it great fun."
"Well, did the fun keep up?"
"No; that is just the trouble. You see, I stood up with a young fellow whom I perfectly despise. He has had the small-pox, is pigeon-toed, and wears a No. 12 boot. One of my friends, who is a bank clerk, acted as clergyman, and pronounced us man and wife. Oh, we had a jolly good laugh over it and lots of fun. Since that evening this same young man has married a dozen girls of my acquaintance in the same manner, and it is being talked about. What can I do about it?"
This last question was a poser to the reporter, and, after telling the petite brunette that he would see her again, he started out to find out about the legal aspect of the question.
John Lyle King stood in the door of his office. The case was presented to him.
"The young brunette is not married," said he. "The law on the subject is that there must be an intent to marry. Why, if two people, in the presence of witnesses, say to each other: 'I take you to be my wedded wife or husband,' it is a legal marriage. Understand, though, that in doing so they must really intend what they say. If it is simply a joke it doesn't count."
W. H. Shirland and George W. Plummer were the next victims of the reporter. The brunette was introduced figuratively, and the verdict was that she was not married.
"The law intent is the whole thing," said one of them. "Under the common law any couple may live together as man and wife, and by so doing they establish a just claim to the state of matrimony."
"Well, then, what figure does a clergyman as justice of the peace out in a marriage ceremony?" asked the reporter.
"He simply performs the ceremony. The rite of baptism is an example. Besides, a clergyman performs a rite by doing not as a clergyman who preaches the same taken a clergyman who performs the marriage rite simply, is a link in the chain of evidence which decides that a person is legally married."
Then the reporter went to see A. S. Trude. His opinion was that pretty young ladies and fellows who were around 12 shoes should have nothing to do with each other. Also that Edward III. had settled the question of marriage in his day, and the law fulminated at that time was still the law at this day, and that the playful ceremony of marriage might be indulged in with impunity, but that if the young man with a large boot should happen to prove by witnesses that the pretty brunette really intended to marry him, it might lead to a suit for divorce.

THE MANY PLEASURES.

And health seekers visiting New Orleans should bear in mind that the 13th Grand Semi-Annual Drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery will take place on Tuesday, December 18th, 1883, under the sole vigilant care and guard of Gen. G. T. Beauregard, honest management of Gen. G. T. Beauregard, when over half a million of dollars will be scattered broadcast. Any information had on application to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La.
Hard to Locate Him.
"Mother, who is this Martin Luther that the papers are talking so much about?" asked a fashionable New York young lady.
"Martin Luther—Luther," mused the mother. "The name sounds familiar enough. What has he been doing?"
"I can't exactly make out, but it must have been something very nice. They are celebrating his birthday."
"Is he a foreigner?"
"He must be, or the people in this country wouldn't make such a fuss over him."
"Luther—Luther," continued the mother. "I met Mr. Luther in Paris last year—that delightful gentleman, you remember, who took us to Le Havre, and who afterwards borrowed a hundred dollars of your father and forgot to return it. I don't think his first name was Martin. This gentleman is probably some celebrated Englishman, who is coming to this country to lecture. You must speak to your father about tickets for the opening night."

FOUND IN A BOX.

Mr. John Kinsman, of Augusta, Me., writes, May 10, 1883, as follows: "I have been afflicted for one year with a severe kidney trouble, and having noticed an article in one of our papers on Hunt's Remedy, had performed in many cases of dropsy, bladder and kidney troubles, and finding a bottle in a box of straw packing, I concluded I would try it, and commenced to take it, when, to surprise, I found that the first bottle benefited me so much that I decided that I would continue its use, and I kept on taking it until I had made all six bottles, and my appetite is good, all pains in the back and side disappear, and for one of my years I am now 50 years old; I am able to attend to my business, and am strong and vigorous, as many of my friends and neighbors can testify that know me well. I beg to state also, that many of our neighbors have used Hunt's Remedy with equally as good results, and one of my friends who has just purchased a bottle of Gyp-Py, Kinsman & Allen, of Portland, says he would not be without it at any price."

THE BAKER'S WAY.

Mr. Alfred Nadeau, No. 29 Lincoln street, Lewiston, Me., writes us, May 24, 1883: "I have been severely afflicted for a long time with indigestion and liver complaint, and at times all that I ate so distressed me that I could not bear the sight of food. I had tried a good many different remedies for my complaint, and they all failed, until one day Mr. Shelden, one of our druggists in Lewiston, recommended Hunt's Remedy, as he knew of so many who had used it here with great success for kidney, liver, and urinary troubles, as well as indigestion, and upon his recommendation I finally concluded to try a bottle, and commenced taking, with very little faith in it. The first bottle helped me so much that I bought two more, and it has done me a wonderful amount of good and cured me of indigestion. I can eat all kinds of food now, and can truly recommend Hunt's Remedy as a sure cure for indigestion, liver and kidney diseases."

PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE.

Mr. Geo. D. Bates, No. 22 Cottage Street, Lewiston, Me., a reliable and prominent citizen, imparts the following information, May 14, 1883: "Having learned of the valuable qualities of Hunt's Remedy in a practical manner, I beg to state that I consider it a remedy of great merit, and can most cheerfully recommend it to any one troubled with indigestion or liver disease."
