Sensation in Musical Circles.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 7, 1884. J. Mueller, Esq., Council Bluffs, Iowa, Dear Sir: We mail you some of our Soft list of customers and little book of Hardman Pianos. If you get up any thing of the sort please mail us copies.

We are handling the Hardman as our best Pianos—and put it squarely in competition with the Steinway, Chickering, Knabe, Pianos, and with the greatest success. Within a month we have traded Hardman Pianos for three Steinways, it here, and if a number of Hardman agents in the larger cities would handle the piano on the same basis it would soon occupy a first position-then they would sell easier and we would get prices nearer their value. Hope you are having a good sale for them.
Yours, Mellor, Hoene & Hedricks.

Cass County Farmer Secures Small Purse from Switzerland.

John Schwab, a prosperous farmer and old resident of Cass county, near Weeping Water, left his native country in Switzerland in 1846 and came to the United States. Over twenty years ago he learned that his father had died in Switzerland, and as Mr. Schwab believed had left him a portion of the estate as provided by the laws of that country, but under certain circumstances did not think he could ever get it from the authorities, Last August he consulted with J. H. Haldeman, an attorney of this place, in regard to the matter, and met with enough encouragement to try, and ascertain the true amount and value coming to him. Depositions and affidavits to prove identity and other facts were prepared in two different languages and for warded to the authorities in Kerzes, Switzerland, and in about two months thereand that the payment was, for the pre-sent, suspended and referred to the minister of war, for the reason that John Schwab appeared in the record as a depapers and an absolute power of attorney making him attorney in fact, with power salable. o procure assistance to further prosecute

STYLES IN STOCKINGS.

What They Cost the Wearers---Hosiery for Brides and Dead Women.

Woolen Goods to be Worn by Children-How to Preserve the Foot-Gear.

In these days of high colors there is money in them. Dealers who pretend one Chickering and two Knabes, and to carry a complete stock have to keep our Hardman grand is now used by them merely to sustain their reputation, nearly all our resident players at their and if the immaculate hose are not di them merely to sustain their reputation, concerts. It has taken a good deal of work to overcome the prejudice in favor of the old standards, but we have done price. White stockings are certainly very nice, where they come in unbleached, full regular brands, but the fact of the matter is, they are not fashionble, and it does not pay to buy them because of the readiness with which they soil.

Society girls have learned from actresses that a pet stocking is not to be laundried. One washing is worse than four weeks wear, for, in the run from the suds to the line via boiler, blueing, and wringer, the colors are sure to run, if they are not rubbed out altogether; if lisle thread, they stretch until one has the elasticity of a monkey-jacket; if wool, they shrink and the silk is never the same afterward. Ladies who give their feet proper care bathe them daily, and when-ever the toilet is amended the rosy toes are layed in bay rum, Florentine, or layender water, and whenever it is convenient perfume is preferred. There is a charming old lady residing near the Calumet club-house, quite a leader in society, too, who perfumes her feet and foot-wear instead of her eyebrows, lips, and handkerchief, as the other ladies do whenever they go into society. Her stockings are never washed, and she wears them past repair, when they fall to the second girl, who refoots them, and chuckles over her good luck. A lady who boards at the Leland hotel don't wear anything elso. "Well, this is the way I manage. I keep them in a camphor box. When I am going out I put on a pair of dark street hose, and change them as soon as I get home. They are good, strong ones, because I think walking-boots help to wear out stockings. I never wear one pair two consecutive days-go the rounds and wear the whole fifteen pair evenly. But they get good care. I tell my husband he would have some trouble to find a wife as considerate about her stock account as I am, for I always brush them off and give them an airing before put-ting them away. Freeze? Why, silk stockings are vastly warmer than woolen ones and not half so clumsy or trouble-White silk stockings are what they call special goods in stock, and are rarely sold except for bridal or burial uses. These goods are superb and cost often as much as $30 apair, which is paid uncomplainingly, for immediately after the wedding they are treasured as heir-looms, and, unless the family stock runs out, the stocking will appear at the nuptials of every generation. Scholl continued thick and raised, it is merely skeleton in outline. In balbriggan, lisle-thread and spun silk the decoration begins at a point midway between the top and foot, and widens till the instep is reached. This work should be made of silk similar in shade and not contrasting. All the decoration should be confined below the boot top for street wear. A woman who runs vines, sprays of flowers, snakes, or scrolls above her shoe must suffer the credit of a vulgar taste. With slippers or sandals it is different but for general out-door use the style savors too much of a variety danseuse. For street, black, brown, gray, bronze, olive, citron, marroon, mahogany, mouse, navy blue, and cardinal are recognized, but scarlet never. bashfulness in their presence. Lascivious dreams, smissions and eruptions on the face, etc., are also prominent symptoms.

If the practice is violently persisted in, more serious disturbances take place. Great palpitation of the heart, or epileptic convulsions, are experienced, and the sufferer may fall into a complete state of idiocy before, finally, death relieves him.

To all those engaged in this dangerous, practice, I would say, first of all, stop it at once; make every possible effort to do so; but if you fall, if your nervous system is already too much shattered, and consequently, your will-power broken, take some nerve tonic to aid you in your effort. Having freed yourself from the habit, I would further counsel you to go through a regular course of treatment, for it is a great mistake to suppose that any one may, for some time, be t every so lift're give himself up to this fascinating but dangerous excitement without suffering from the evil consequences at some future time. The number of young men who are incapacitated to fill the duties enjoined by wedlock is alarmingly large, and in most of such cases this unfortunate condition of things can be traced to the practice of self-abuse, which had been abandomed years ago. Special Cable to the Cincinnati Commercial Paris, January 10.—The duel between M. Amelien Scholl, the witty chroniqueur of The Evenement, and Count Albert de Dion, a prominent ornament of the gayest coterie of Parisian society, took place at noon yesterday. To-day it exclusively absorbs the attention of Paris. The cause of the duel originated four years ago, and is too complicated to be unraveled in a telegraphic summary. Readers of The Commercial Gazette will doubtless recall the scene at the famous restaurant Bignon in 1880, when the Count de Dion threw a bottle of champagne at M. Scholl's head, and otherwise roughly handled him. The Count de Dion was for this assault locked up in jail for two months. the Count de Dion came out M. Scholl's two seconds waited upon him. The count was most eager to fight, but in Belgium, not in France, as the cumulative punishment for a duel on top of an assault and battery would be too serious. M. Scholl, on the other hand, refused to go to Belgium. Hence, the "status quo" was maintained until last week when the count fought a duel with M. DeBryas. This duel fanned into activity the latent ire of M. Scholl concerning the imbroglio with the Count De Dion. and on Tuesday M. Schall published in "Evenement" a sarcastic appreciation of the Count De Dion headed "A Surprise." The count never reads The "Evenement," but ings," said the lady. "This year I bought fifteen pair for the money. First I selected two pair at $8 each for full dress; three pair at $2 for second best; six pair at $3 apiece for street, and four pair that can be $20 for the second best. pair at $2 for second best; six pair at $3 article he sent the General Prince De apiece for street, and four pair that cost article he sent the General Prince De Beauffrement and Commandant Franchel D'Esperet as seconds to demand reparation of M. Scholl, who referred those gentlemen to his own seconds, MM. Robert Mitchell and Adolphe Tavernier. The following is the narrative of the > respondent by one of the four seconds who officiated on the occasion: The duel took place at noon, near the grand stand in the race-course of Longchamps. We wanted it to take place in the "Passage," but when we arrived with our principals the keepers said that the proprietors of the race-course would not allow any dueling to take place on their property. So we were obliged to go further. We halted finally in one of the retired and picturesque promenades of the bois. M. Tavernier tossed up a louis for the choice of position. Prince Beauffrement cried "Heads," and won. M. Tavernier then tossed up again a louis for the choice of weapons. Prince Beauffremont cried "Heads," and again

The Count de Dion then selected his position, and chose his own weapons, a magnificent pair of swords, with steel guards ornamented with his initials, and e coronet of the count embo solid gold. M. At the command "Allez, Messieurs," the two combatants are to the command of the took ground en rampant. Then M. Scholl attacked furiously with right points and thrusts. The count all the time smiled most ironically, and parried M. Scholl's attacks with highly finished M. Scholl's attacks with highly finished but rather fantastic play, frequently tantalizing his adversary by raising his sword quite out of position of guard, for an instant completely exposing himself.

M. Scholl made play at the chest, the count at the stomach. At the expiration of four minutes M. Tavernier believing that the count was wounded in the wrist, stopped the combat, but it was merely the Count De Dion's shirt-sleeve which white hosiery on making their first bow to society.

Finally, by a beautiful "reposte du tac au tac," the count wounded M. Scholl in the side, his sword entering between the eight and ninth ribs. The sword bending, broke at 20 centimetres from its upont, the broken piece remaining in the wound. M. Scholl stepped back saying:

"I'e laisse!" The seconds all approached, anxious to see if the wound was dangerous. M. At one time a discussion of the secret vice was entirely avoided by the profession, and medical works but a few years ago would hardly mention it. To-day the physician is of a different opinion; he is aware that it is his duty—isagreeable though it may be—to handle this matter without gloves and speak plainly about it; and intelligent parents and guardians will thank him for doing so. The results attending this destructive vice were ormerly not understood, or not properly estimated; and no importance being attached to a subject which by its nature does not invite close investigation, it was willingly ignored. Shinn's Third Addition, The habit is generally contracted by the young while attending school; older companions through their example, may be responsible for it, or it may be acquired through accident. The excitement once experienced, the practice will be repeated again and again, until at last the habit becomes firm and completely enslaves the victim. Mental and nervous at dictions are usually the primary results of self-abuse. Among the injurious effects may be mentioned lassitude, dejection or irraschility of temper and general debility. The boy seeks seclusion, and rarely joins in the sports of his companions. If he be a young man he will be little found in company with the other sex, and is troubled with exceeding and annoying bashfulness in their presence. Lassivious dreams, emissions and eruptions on the face, etc., are also prominent symptoms.
